To The Editor:

I am writing to address the issue of the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) with a series of questions, as this issue will forever affect this country's economy, its sovereignty and democracy.

What happened to candidate Clinton's opposition to NAFTA, his fervor for "It's the Economy, Stupid!" and his plan for investing in America? Did it all go South?

Why did so many U.S. corporations during the past decade flock to the Mexican "free trade zone" along the border called the "Maquiladora?" Was it the cheap labor (50 cents to $1.50 per hour)? Do we really think Mexicans will be buying U.S. manufactured products at those wages? Are corporations really interested in the U.S. or Mexican market? Did the creation of 400,000 Maquiladora jobs slow Mexican immigration to this country? How many jobs lost in this country owe their fate to the creation of 400,000 Maquiladora jobs? Did U.S. corporations move (over the past decade) to Mexico because of their lax enforcement of environmental laws? Why is it that Clinton recently said NAFTA "will lead to increased investment on the Mexican side of the border in environmental cleanup"?

According to the U.S. Treasury, in 1985 Mexico owed $24.4 billion to major U.S. banks. What is the current indebtedness to U.S. major banks, and why all of a sudden has the World Bank committed $3 billion to clean up the the U.S.-Mexican border? How much of this mess was created by U.S. corporations? Who will repay the World Bank and the current Mexican debt to the U.S. "superbanks" if all the wild speculation and investment under NAFTA turns sour? Will the U.S. taxpayer be asked for another bailout S&L style?

Will the freedom and democracy of the U.S. and Mexican people suffer? Why is Senator Roger Moe concerned that up to 50 Minnesota laws passed by elected officials will be ruled discriminatory and nullified? Could it be that safety and restrictions on hazardous waste would be compromised? Should we just let the multinational corporations (who drew up NAFTA in secrecy) make the laws and dismiss our legislators?

Why has it taken five years and the loss of 25 percent of the U.S. durum market to Canada before any action is even considered to resolve this trade dispute? Do you suppose the resolution of trade conflicts will be as swift and just under NAFTA?

Why are the cocaine smugglers and Colombian drug cartels setting up factories, warehouses and trucking companies in Mexico? Could it be that they see an opportunity to exploit the flood of commerce expected under a North American free Trade Agreement?

Under NAFTA white collar professionals from Mexico (architects, engineers, etc.) will have immediate access to jobs in the U.S. How will this affect you, your children and grandchildren with college degrees?

Under the late 1970's and early 1980's this country had "deregulation." During the mid to later 1980's this country had leverage buyouts. Who profited from this and who is paying the bill? Will NAFTA be the mistake of the 1990"s?

Sincerely,
John Omdahl

THIEF RIVER FALLS TIMES

From The Times Files of Fifty Years Ago

High School To Resume Usual Sessions

"Lincoln high school students who have been picking potatoes in the fields of West Polk county each afternoon since September 23 will put in their last day Saturday of this week, it was announced today by Supt. Philip Fjelsted, who stated that classes will be resumed on their normal full-time schedule starting Monday, October 11. With ideal weather conditions prevailing, the workers have lost no time on account of rain, and up to Tuesday night had picked approximately 53,000 bushels of potatoes, earning for themselves in the neighborhood of $4,000."

Land O'Lakes Plant to Handle Turkeys in New Location

"With the influx of chickens taxing the facilities of the local Land O'Lakes poultry plant to the limit, turkeys will be processed, starting about October 15, in the former Nelson garage on Main ave. S., purchased by Land O'Lakes Creameries last summer, Stuart McLeod, manager, announced. The time of starting operations in the new location, he added, depends on getting the necessary help and getting a cooler installed."

Grocery Stores Announce Will Curtail Deliveries

"A group of local grocery stores announce elsewhere in this issue of the Times a drastic curtailment in the delivery service in order to comply with new government regulations. Under the new arrangements, which take effect next Monday, October 11, deliveries will be made only on Tuesdays and Fridays, and orders must be placed not later than 3:30 in the afternoon preceding day of delivery."

Topics of The Times

—Considering all the people who have left this town since the start of the war, it's hard to figure out why there should be such a shortage of living accommodations.

—Mother Nature's art gallery has provided some beautiful pictures the past few weeks, with the autumn foliage in all its glory.

—In wartime meat markets the pork situation is bad and the beef shortage worse; but you'll find the wiener wurst.

—What is money? asks a colleague, pointing out that the man with $10,000,000 isn't necessarily any happier than the man with only $9,000,000.

—To be expected is a spurt in war stamp sales around Lincoln high school, now that the potato-picking students have been getting a lot of extra cash.

—See if you can figure out this headline from the latest issue of the Minnesota Leader: Wallace Hits Slaughter of Immature Pig Iron.

—Japanese soldiers, says one of their generals, never retreat: they merely advance to the rear.

—Well, well! And you haven't got your storm windows on yet.

—Aptly enough, a war veteran said in New York last week, "It's a long way from the heel of Italy to the heel in Berlin."

—Can it be only a coincidence that this week has been set aside as both National Newspaper Week and Fire Prevention Week?

—The Lincoln high school paper tells about a football rookie who flooded the gridiron when Coach Hanna informed him he'd be put in as a sub.

—Speaking of typographical errors, they tell the one about the editor who wrote, "The bride wore a veil. Only relatives attended," but it came out in the paper with period after the word "only."

Public Notices

IN MEMORIUM

Remembrance is a golden chain,
Death tries to break it, but in vain,
To have, to love, and then to part
Is the greatest sorrow of one's heart.

In loving memory of our parents, Oscar and Hazel Christenson, and brother, Orrin Christenson, of Holt, Minnesota. Sadly missed by Doreen Rentz (St. Paul), Dalles Wilcox (Maple Grove), Audrey Murphy (Scottsdale, AZ), Odell Christenson (Bloomington), and Del Ray Christenson of Des Moines, IA. 1t80c

PUBLIC NOTICE

The CITY OF THIEF RIVER FALLS Water Department announces that the maximum limit for Turbidity in drinking water was exceeded during the month of June and July 1993.

Turbidity is caused by the presence of finely suspended particles such as clay, sand, or organic matter in water. Turbidity can be a problem if it interferes with the Chloramine disinfection. However, the high turbidity level did not create a health hazard because the Water Department is able to maintain effective levels of chloramine for disinfection.

These Turbidity violations occurred during the process of changing over to the new treatment basins. The average turbidity for June was 0.51 Nephelometric Turbidity Units (NTU) with a high of 2.2 The regulatory limit in June was 1.0 NTU.

The average turbidity for July was 0.75 NTU. In July the regulatory limit was reduced from 1.0 NTU to 0.5 NTU. In order to meet compliance under the new regulation, 95 percent of the samples taken must be 0.5 or less. In July, the plant had 88 percent of samples below the 0.5 limit with a monthly average of 0.36 NTU. The highest turbidity for July was 0.7 NTU.

As of August, with all new systems on line, the plant performance meets the new regulation with 98 percent of samples below 0.5 NTU.

Please be assured that the water is safe to drink. Any citizen seeking additional information should contact Allen J. Lamm, at the Water Purification Plant, phone number 681-3809.

Northwest Minnesota is enjoying another beautiful autumn day, the sun shining and the thermometer at 60 above. October's Bright Blue Weather is right around the corner and we hope it will cut off a long winter which they say is long enough.

The Senior Citizens met again on Thursday with 11 members and 9 visitors. Bingo was played until everyone had won a game, Blackout was won by Adeline Stennes. A super lunch was served by Gilman Stennes, the host. Ida Bruce won the door prize. The visitors were Clara Nelson, Naomi Anderson, Marian Pederson, Evelyn Schmidt, Irene Sjoblom, Mrs. Norquist and daughters, and Myrtle Vagle.

The Strandquist Junior Citizens are back in their places at school for another year. September birthdays were celebrated on Friday, the 29th during noon lunch. Staff members celebrating were Mrs. Olstad, Mrs. Aanenson, Mrs. Englund, Mrs. Stanger, and Mrs. Berggren. Students celebrating were Brett McElwain, Danielle Westberg, Andrew Kalinowski, Steven Martinson and Ryan Clow. They were invited to sit at the birthday table that was decorated with apples. Lonnie made a delicious cake with an apple on the top. The whole school sang "Happy Birthday" to the September birthdays.

The Kindergarten students enjoyed reading about Jonny Appleseed and his animal friends. They thought it very unique that Jonny wore a pot on his head for a hat. They are sorting in Math. They are sorting according to color, size, shape, texture, etc. Try it at home. Happy Birthday to Kathy Hallberg in the kindergarten.

We have one birthday this month in Mrs. Rodahl's room, Steve Martinson celebrated with a special cake made by our cook, Lonnie. Steve got to sit at the birthday table with other children who had September birthdays. We are all so excited in first grade because we are learning to read. We are getting very good at it. Our author study this month has been Tomie DePaola. We love his "Strega Nona" books. His birthday was this month so our teacher treated us to birthday cake in his honor. Each week we have a Shining Star in our room. This week it was Kendall Green. She brought in some pictures for our Star Bulletin board and some of her favorite toys to share with us. Kendall also had the honor of losing the first tooth in first grade.

This week Mrs. Schindele's class has been working on mapping skills. We've also been learning about self-esteem and feeling good about ourselves. We made "Marvelous Me" books and "I'm Special" mobiles. In Math we've been talking about and working with facts families. We also tested part of our first magazine in reading and everyone did a fantastic job. Joshua Heath was our student of the week.

The weekly worker in Mrs. Helling's room this week is Kathy Larson. She has been a good helper. We read the book "Owl Moon" by Jane Yolen and made booklets to go along with the story. In art class we made paper bag owls to hang up in our room. Math finds us working with a number fact families. We are learning that math can be fun.

LaVerne Rasmussen from Illinois and his father George Rasmussen have spent a couple of weeks visiting this area and working on the farm. We really enjoy seeing them from time to time and having dinners up at the center. George returned to the cities to stay with his son Virgil and his wife Ruth on Sunday and LaVerne went to his home.

Bruce Zottew of Red Lake Falls stresses a point while Dr. Steven Levinson of Thief River Falls listens during discussion about economic goals and strategies for northwestern Minnesota. They were participating in a meeting last week at the Northwest Regional Development Commission offices in Thief River Falls. They were joined by citizens from throughout the region.

NWRDC examines regional economic development plans

Tuesday evening about 20 residents of northwestern Minnesota participated in one of three scheduled public meetings on economic development in the region.

The meeting, which was sponsored by and held at the Northwest Regional Development Commission, was an effort to obtain public and private sector input on goals and strategies on economic development and job expansion plans in northwestern Minnesota.

Gene Goddard of the Minnesota department of trade and economic development explained that the process for the state's Economic Blueprint began about one and one-half years ago. Goals were finally developed out of the process, but they realized that each sector of the state had its own distinct economy. They realized too that state-wide goals might not be effective.

Discussion Tuesday night centered around the state-wide goals and how northwestern Minnesota fit into the picture.

The State Economic Blueprint identifies key goals that will hopefully result in a healthy, growing and competitive Minnesota economy. They are a first step in developing bipartisan economic development strategies. Quantitative indicators have also been identified for each of the following goals:

Goal 1: Sustained, above-average economic growth, that is consistent with environmental protection.

Goal 2: Internationally competitive levels of productivity growth.

Goal 3: Family incomes adequate to provide a reasonable standard of living.

Goal 4: Capital investment in the state adequate to ensure economic renewal and competitiveness.

Goal 5: A business environment that stimulates business creation, innovation and retention.

School District 564 volunteer program underway for 1993-94

With the start of the 1993-94 year in the Thief River Falls public schools comes the renewal of the volunteer program organized by school volunteer coordinator Carol Ihle.

Orientation sessions for those who have volunteered to be a part of the program this school year have been scheduled for Tuesday, Thursday and Friday of this week.

Tuesday sessions were scheduled for 10 a.m. in the Northrop school library, 2 p.m. in the Knox school library and 7 p.m. in the Washington school library.

Thursday sessions October 14 will be held at 10 a.m. at Mark Twain school library and 2 p.m. at Franklin middle school library. On Friday the concluding session will be at 10 a.m. in the Washington school library.

Volunteers were invited to attend the orientation most convenient for them since it is not necessary to attend the session at the school where the individual's volunteer work is being done. The meetings are planned to acquaint volunteers with the schools and the volunteer program and its policies.

"The 1993-94 school year is off to a great start and along with that come numerous requests for volunteers in a number of areas of activity," Ihle said.

"Recruitment letters were sent home with all elementary school students the week of September 27 and mailed to all parents of Franklin middle school students," she said. "Although recruitment letters

Goodridge man among troops going to Somalia

Platoon Sgt. John R. Cullen of Goodridge, will be among the 5,300 more troops sent to Somalia. Last week, President Clinton announced that he was more than doubling the number of troops already in Somalia, but promised to remove all U.S. forces by March 31.

Sgt. Cullen is a 1982 graduate of Goodridge high school. His parents, Jan and John H. Cullen of Goodridge, are owners and operators of J & J Trailer Sales in Thief River Falls. Jan said Friday that her son had called his wife Maryline last week to tell her that he was being sent to Somalia.

"We're pretty nervous," said Jan. "It has been pretty messy on the television."

Sgt. Cullen went to sea September 3 aboard the USS New Orleans, an amphibious assault ship. Jan said he was in Okinawa for a short time and then in Hong Kong. She said he was supposed to be out to sea for six months, but they received a call to Somalia. Now they don't know how long he will be gone.

Jan said that even though he has been in the Marine Corps for 11 years he hasn't served in any of the hot points, such as among the troops participating in Operation Desert Storm. He and his wife Maryline and daughter Bobbie-Jean live in Camp Pendleton, CA.

Sgt. Cullen has a brother at home and another who serves on the USS Dixon, a sub-tender, and four sisters.

The USS New Orleans (LPH-11) has approximately 12 CH-46E Seat Knights, four CH-53E Super Stallions, four AH-1W Cobras, and three UH-1N Hueys. Other ships sent to the action include the USS Abraham Lincoln, and aircraft carrier, the USS Guadalcanal, an amphibious assault ship, USS Shreveport, an amphibious transport dock, the USS Ashland, a dock landing ship, the USS Denver, an amphibious transport dock, the USS Comstock, a dock landing ship, and the USS Cayuga, a tank landing ship.

Volunteers continue to play a big role in the Thief River Falls schools. Here Cliff Larson assists Brandon Niemi (left) and Seth Eckstein with one of their lessons in Knox elementary school where he has been a volunteer worker on a regular basis.

Presentation on organ donation October 19

Organ transplantation is one of this century's medical triumphs. It has become a routine practice that can dramatically improve - and even save - the lives of those suffering from vital organ failure.

You probably know someone who has benefited from having a transplant. In fact, you or someone close to you may need a transplant at some time, because it can happen to anyone, at any age.

It happened right here in Thief River Falls. Gary Rux and his family know the importance of organ donation. Gary received a new heart in November of 1992 and today he is back at work and feeling great.

Becoming an organ donor is simple. All you have to do is tell your family about your decision. There is public education under way to correct common misconceptions about donor cards and driver's licenses, because the key step to being a donor is family communication.

If you are interested but undecided or would just like to know more about becoming a donor, there will be a free public presentation on organ donation on Tuesday, Oct. 19, at 7 p.m. at the Eagle's club in Thief River Falls.

Representatives from Northwest Medical Center and LifeSource (the federally assigned organization to manage all organ donation activities in the area) will present information. Gary Rux will tell the story of his illness and heart transplant in 1992. He is a sincere and enthusiastic speaker and will tell the audience what it feels like to "be there."

The program is sponsored by Northwest Medical Center, the Eagle's club of Thief River Falls, and LifeSource of Minneapolis. The public is invited and encouraged to attend the public presentation. If you have any questions, contact Gail Holland, NW Medical Center Public Relations Coordinator, 218-681-4240.

The public is cordially invited to attend the services of spiritual inspiration.

IMPRESSIONS

Beth Johnson

When I was graduating from college, a picture was taken of my husband and myself as, according to the college, we were the first couple that had graduated together—one from the college and one from the seminary. When this picture was taken, I was asked for the name of my hometown newspaper for the school wanted to send the picture to that paper as a hometown newsworthy item. I hemmed and hawed and said I didn't have a hometown newspaper. I was living in Chicago and so were my parents. It was kind of hard imagining that a newspaper as large as the Chicago Tribune would really care about printing a picture of me—just an ordinary citizen of a mega-metropolis.

This paper you are now reading, the Thief River Falls Times, is a hometown newspaper. If I could have called Thief River Falls home back when I was in college, all of you would probably have seen a picture of my husband and me in our graduate gowns, or at the least, there would have been a single paragraph news item telling of this momentous event in our lives.

A hometown newspaper is really quite a wonderful thing. It is the record of events important to the people of the area it serves. A large city newspaper will cover some events that people will be interested in reading about, but it will most likely not cover the day to day small events of the lives of the people living in the city. There simply isn't room or time or interest to let the whole city know the minutiae which make up the lives of the area's people.

The front page of our hometown paper usually has some general items of local interest—reports of city council meetings and reports of school board meetings as well as other major area news items. But, after the front page, we find the real news—the news that is of you and me and yours and mine.

After the front page, the minutiae of the events of our lives are recorded. There are pictures of engagements and pictures of weddings. There are announcements of anniversary parties as well as announcements of births. The announcements of our deaths are also recorded.

Our hometown newspaper also has the announcements of our achievements. These achievements may be school related—records of our children's sports participations and records of our children's academic achievements. There are announcements of spelling bee champions and announcements of scholarship recipients. These announcements may also be of business achievements as new businesses are added to our community or as businesses expand.

Our hometown newspaper has recorded for us the activities of our community. It records the activities of our local churches as it announces their weekly schedules as well as their special events. It tells us of all sorts of school activities including sporting events and plays and Christmas programs and musical events and graduations.

Our hometown newspaper is a place where all of us may have a voice if we choose to send a letter to the editor. Where else but in a hometown newspaper would we have read so many opinions about wearing of headgear to school events? Where else but in a hometown newspaper would the special articles written from time to time by our students be given publication?

Our hometown newspaper is the place where the businesses of our town can advertise their wares. In our hometown newspaper we can find places that will straighten barns and places that can pour cement and places that have sales on clothing as well as places that sell collectibles.

In our hometown newspaper there are notices of all kinds—notices of auctions and notices of bankruptcies and notices of garage sales as well as notices of street repairs.

I thought of how important our hometown newspaper is to us as I was going through several back copies of this paper recently. I was struck by the lives that were recorded in our paper. The lives of our friends and neighbors were recorded for all of us to read; and as we read, we shared their joy or their grief or their hurt or their pride or their worry or their happiness. Our hometown newspaper records our lives. That recording needs to be carefully and diligently written for it is the story of our hometown, a story we would love to cherish in our memories.

In our hometown newspaper there are notices of all kinds—notices of auctions and notices of bankruptcies and notices of garage sales as well as notices of street repairs.

I thought of how important our hometown newspaper is to us as I was going through several back copies of this paper recently. I was struck by the lives that were recorded in our paper. The lives of our friends and neighbors were recorded for all of us to read, and as we read, we shared their joy or their grief or their hurt or their pride or their worry or their happiness. Our hometown newspaper records our lives. That recording needs to be carefully and diligently written for it is the story of our hometown, a story we would love to cherish in our memories.

PARENTING TIPS

Teaching Independence Through Dressing

Parents can encourage enormous growth in their child's sense of independence and cooperation during dressing times. Children like to do things for themselves as quickly as they can. You can see it very early when infants repeatedly try to stand and walk only to fall flat on their bottoms. You can also see it when they attempt to feed or dress themselves. Little successes in these and other tasks result in great joy because children are finally learning to do things for themselves. These accomplishments have greater value in that they help establish in children a sense of independence and cooperation as well as building their self-confidence. They feel good about themselves because they can do "big people things." They will then want to do more things for themselves and by themselves.

Dressing and diapering young children should be a partnership between the parent and the child. Allow your child to do the things he or she can do by his or herself and assist your child when he or she needs help. Yes, it may take longer to do it this way. Yes, there may be some frustration when your child wants to do more than he or she is capable of. But if you keep a positive attitude, one of cooperation and partnership (rather than creating a power struggle) dressing should get much more smoothly.

Even babies are participating in this partnership and cooperation. The baby who lies still or holds his legs up during a diaper change is an active participant. Recognize, reward and encourage this participation by responding positively to your baby.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Talk about what you are doing as you dress your child. Help him/her to put words to actions: "Raise" your arm, "lift" your leg, "stand up," "sit down," etc.

SPEAKING OF

Sherry LaCoursiere

...Assistance or Interference

What are we doing in Somalia, anyway? I thought we went there to feed hungry people. Now the hungry have been fed but we are still there. Now we are hunting for some clan warlord and American soldiers are getting shot at and killed. It is time to leave. It was time to leave last March.

The Somalians do not want us there: The majority of Americans do not want us there. Why are we there?

Now we have a ship sitting off of the coast of Haiti. The Haitians will not let us dock. Why are we there? I heard we are going there to teach the people how to build roads and keep the peace. Oh, come now—isn't that what we were doing when we first went to Vietnam?

The Haitian people do not want us there—we can see that on television. The majority of Americans do not want us there. Next thing you know American soldiers will be getting shot and killed there, too. Why are we trying to be there?

I am sick and tired of hearing that American troops are being sent somewhere. To use someone else's words, who said we had to be the world's police force? It seems like every time some nation gets into trouble the U.S. is expected to come and bail them out.

Sure, at first the "peacekeepers" are looked on as saviours and lauded and hailed. We watch it on television and see the happy, smiling faces of the people we are helping. This is good. It is nice to help someone in trouble. It makes us feel kind and generous.

But then something turns sour. The happy faces change. They stop smiling and the smiles turn to frowns.

Could it be that we don't know when we are not welcome? Could it be that we don't know when enough is enough and when a little help becomes interfering? Could it be that it feels so good to be kind and generous that we don't know when to stop?

I'm not against helping other countries. My heart aches just as much as anyone's when I see the pinched faces of starving children in those countries, the suffering in the eyes of the elderly, the sorrow of mothers and fathers who cannot help their families.

The point is, what we are doing doesn't help those people in the long run. The countries have to learn to help themselves. Their governments have to learn to help the people. We cannot be there for them forever.

It would be great if we could just step right in and teach them how to do it in a few weeks and then go off and leave them in good shape. It would be wonderful if we could give them some advice and show them a little technique and they could work things out for themselves. But I guess running a country doesn't work that way.

I don't think we understand the countries we are going into. We do not understand the people, their cultures or their civilizations. We do not understand that we cannot make them into us in a few short weeks or months. We do not understand that we cannot know them as they know themselves.

We go in and help and then we overstay our welcome. We stay on and on and start to interfere in the workings of the government. We start to try to eliminate the bad guys, and stick our noses into the internal affairs of the country, wanting them to run things the way we do.

Heaven knows, it is like the blind leading the blind. It seems to me that our country isn't in such great shape right now that we should be cramming our policies and procedures down another country's throat. What right have we to hold ourselves up to others as a perfect government?

It is time to get out of this policing the world. It is time to stay at home and get our own country back on its feet.

Public assessment hearing held Tues.

City to adopt Hwy. 32 assessments

About a dozen people attended a public hearing on the proposed Highway 32 assessment roll in Thief River Falls. Assessments for the downtown project varied in cost, but some were as high as $6,000.

Thief River Falls City Clerk Jerry Wigness said if the proposed assessment roll is adopted by the city council on October 26, as is expected, property owners who have been assessed for work along the road will have 30 days to pay the entire amount before the assessment is certified to the tax rolls. Property owners who opt to have their assessment placed on the tax rolls will have 14 years to pay off the assessment at an interest rate of seven per cent.

The Highway 32 reconstruction project was completed in 1992 at a total cost of $3.4 million. It involved removal and excavation of the road bed and infrastructure, such as sewer and water, storm sewers, street lights and sidewalks. Many trees were also removed. The infrastructure and road bed was replaced, trees planted and landscaping completed. the city's portion of the cost was $1.2 million.

To fund the local share of the project, the city council determined that benefited properties along Highway 32 should be assesssed for part of the project cost. As discussed at the April 16 project hearing, benefited properties would be assessed for 50 per cent of the cost of a typical 36-foot wide, seven-ton designed residential street and 80 per cent of the cost of sidewalk replacement. Property owners would also be assessed, on a individual basis, for driveway costs and for 50 per cent of the cost of sewer and water service line replacement from the mains to a point five feet behind the service line to the curb stop and the property owner was responsible for the sewer service line from the sewer main to the building.

The estimated assessment rates, according to Ron Lindberg, city engineering and technical services director, which were provided at the project hearing were as follows: $20 per foot for street reconstruction, $9 per foot for sidewalk replacement, $150 for a 12-foot driveway approach and $550 for the sewer service line replacement.

Final assessment rates calculated from the actual project costs were as follows: 25 per cent of $79.76 per foot equals $19.94 per foot (rounded to $20 per foot) for street reconstruction; 80 per cent of $14.84 equaling $11.87 per foot (changed to $8.90 per foot to compare with typical sidewalk improvements assessments) for sidewalk replacement; 50 per cent of $1,172 equaling $586 for each sanitary sewer service line replacement; 50 per cent of $30.25 equaling $15.10 per square yard for driveway apron replacement and $1.70 per square foot for boulevard entrance walks.

At a request from property owners attending the project hearing, the city council had agreed to a 25 per cent reduction in frontage rates for those properties affected by no parking zones established by council resolution. The frontage rates for the following areas were established at $15 per benefited foot. The northwesterly side of Highway 32 from Oakland Park Road to the American Legion driveway, the southeasterly side from Oakland Park Road to Riverside Avenue and the east and west sides from 13th to 14th streets.

The final local share of the project was estimated at $1,138,000 with Federal and State funds of $417,300 helping to offset the cost. The assessments would recover $379,000 and the city will fund the additional $345,700 from bond revenues.

The city council is expected to adopt the assessment roll at its next meeting.

RANDOM THOUGHTS

Sara Tyler
Lincoln High School

I have been collecting stuffed animals since I can remember. One of the earliest ones I remember receiving is Bruno. Bruno is a St. Bernard that was gigantic at the time, but now I realize he is only eighteen inches tall. Bruno was a Christmas present when I was four. The scene was captured on film, and the joy on my face that year was referred to many Christmases later.

Bruno is almost fourteen years old now, and has gone through many tough times. His once velvety fur is matted, except for the strip under his plastic collar; and his felt tongue is ragged around the edges. It hasn't all been bad for him though; he has been loved by a little girl he watched grow up. As in "The Velveteen Rabbit" I believe that if a toy is deeply loved, it becomes real. To me, Bruno is real.

Another stuffed animal that has been important to me is Honneycub. I got Honneycub when my family went to Yellowstone the summer after Bruno became part of the family. This little bear is barely six inches tall, and some of the height he had when I got him has disappeared due to over-loving. Honneycub's fur is gnarly, his arms hang loosely, and the blacks of his eyes have been mostly scraped off; but this bear has traveled almost everywhere I have. For years he accompanied me to friends' houses when I spent the night and on summer trips. Actually, sometimes I still bring him with me. Because he's so small, he's easy to pack.

A couple years ago I got a stuffed panda for Christmas. When I received it, his fur was soft and plush, distinctly black and white. He is now more gray and white. I have slept with that bear almost every night since I received him, and my dog shares an equal liking for him. Any time I have slept on a couch because I was sick, my dog would somehow find a way to steal that panda away. He now has areas of fur that cannot be returned to the slobber free fluffiness they once had. The panda's arms flop wildly, and last year my sister had to perform brain surgery on him. He was forming a hole next to his right ear and stuffing was coming out.

The newest addition to my collection is the giant sheepdog I got last Christmas. This dog stands hip-high, and sheds uncontrollably. He's too big to sleep with and is tough to drag around, but he is the perfect size for giving hugs. When I pick up this dog, his front paws slip perfectly around my waist. His head then leans on my shoulder, as if he is whispering secrets. Although every time I pick him up my outfit turns white from discarded fur, he is the perfect companion after a hard day.

All of these stuffed animals have experienced love. Some for fourteen years and some for only one, but they have all been made real through confidences, tears and moments of simply holding each other in silence.

St. Bernard's CDA had meeting in October

Catholic Daughters, Our Lady of the Snows, met October 5 at St. Bernard's church meeting room.

The meeting opened with a decade of the rosary said for an increase of faith, hope and love. Acting secretary, Doris Eisbrener, read September minutes which were approved. Members volunteered to help with the fundraisers scheduled for November 22.

It was decided to celebrate Catholic Daughter Sunday on October 17 by attending one of the scheduled masses as a group. All members and their families are invited to come 30 minutes ahead of the mass for recitation of the rosary. White ribbons will be distributed at that time.

Celaine Votava will donate get well cards for sick members and their families. Neva Appel, treasurer, received dues and lunch was served by Helen Glass. Lorena Lasha won the door prize, which was a lace doily.

Doris Eisbrener will be in charge of the November program which will feature Connie Dorn conducting a low impact aerobics mini session. Shirley Knoff is in charge of the lunch.

Area citizens gathered at Northwest Regional Development Commission offices in Thief River Falls last week to provide input on goals and strategies on economic development in northwestern Minnesota. Pictured from left are Carolyn Eeg of Greenbush, Al Chesley of Crookston, Vangie Myhre of Warren, Gene Goddard of the Minnesota Department of Trade and Economic Development, and Delray Sparby of Thief River Falls.

Study development plans

Goal 6: Improved employment and economic opportunity for all citizens in all regions.

Goal 7: A diversified industry mix to insulate the state economy from shocks and national business cycles.

"The economy is actually pretty strong," said Leon Heath of the Northwest Regional Development Commission. In the beginning of his presentation, however, noted that there are many economic indicators. One of the big issues in northwestern Minnesota is population decline. Roseau is an exception to that, of course.

The economy is producing wealth and the number of jobs are increasing. The population of northwestern Minnesota, however, continues to decline. One conclusion drawn from that statistic is that it is taking more wage earners to support the same number of people.

For many areas of the country the general rule used to be that if there aren't jobs, there aren't people. In northwestern Minnesota people used to stay here even though there weren't jobs. In the past 10 years, he noted, people have been leaving the area when there weren't jobs.

Observations by small group members put some of the blame on the area's own negativity, outside perceptions, shipping distances, lack of housing, over regulation at all levels, turf protection among communities in northwestern Minnesota, quality of life infrasturcture, high taxes and lack of venture capital.

Many seemed to agree that a rural interpretation of regulations is necessary. Many of the rules that work in the urban areas of the state cannot be sensibly applied in a rural setting. Others noted that instead of telling people that they have to comply with a regulation or rule and then letting them find their own way, state agencies should be helping business find a way to reach those goals.

Information collected from this meeting and two others being conducted in the region will be used to develop a regional economic blueprint. A second meeting was held October 7 in Fertile. A third meeting will be held 7 p.m. October 12 at the Greenbush Community Center.

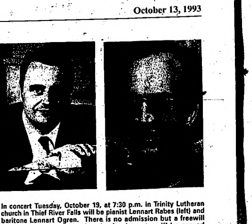
TRF man in Ohio jail on assault charge

Roy Kjear, 24, Thief River Falls, was sentenced in a Ohio court last week on charges that stem from allegedly attempting to run over an Ohio State Patrol officer with a semi.

Kjear was sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $300 plus costs on charges of speeding and resisting arrest in a plea agreement. The original charge of felonious assault was also reduced to aggravated menacing. On that charge, he was sentenced to 30 days in jail to be served concurrently with his other sentence.

The charges against Kjear stem from an incident during a gas tax strike by truck drivers in Ohio. During the strike in which truckers were slowing and stopping traffic on the turnpike, an Ohio State Patrol officer allegedly ordered Kjear to pull over. He then allegedly attempted to run the officer down.

Thief River Falls Skating Club recently received cash donations to assist with its expenses for the coming year. Pictured with skaters (left to right) Kim Kirkeide, Nichole Bulger, Becky Kenner and Kim Schneider are Earl Gibson of the Kiwanis club which donated $50 and Roger Reuter of Norwest Bank which contributed $100.



In concert Tuesday, October 19, at 7:30 p.m. in Trinity Lutheran church in Thief River Falls will be pianist Lennart Rabes (left) and baritone Lennart Ogren. There is no admission but a freewill offering will be received and refreshments will be served following the concert, which is sponsored by the Agassiz Swedish Heritage Society. The artists' repertoire includes standard works by Schumann, Brahms, Dvorak, Schubert and Liszt in addition to a number of Scandinavian composers.

Correction:

It may have felt like it lasted 33 hours but it took only three hours. Due to a typing error an additional "3" was added to the time it took Ken Cedergren to complete the Twin Cities Marathon. It actually took him only 3:33:41. The Times regrets the error.

Work of Peter Milton at NCC gallery in Oct.

The art gallery of Northland Community College will be displaying etchings of Peter Milton from October 1 through October 27. The art gallery is open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. The public is invited to tour the gallery during these times and enjoy the works of this artist.

Milton combines traditional etching of high craftsmanship with modern photosensitizing technology to create superbly detailed multiple images of sensitivity and refinement. He depicts the haunted moodiness of James' prose so accurately that one can imagine the writer's spirit has guided the artist's hand. But Milton's talent contributes images that lift the story beyond the limitations of the written word.

Milton was born in Pennsylvania in 1930, and received his BFA/MFA degrees from Yale university. His work has been seen in more than 100 exhibitions in the U.S. and abroad and in over 10 one-man shows. He has received more than 40 awards in national and international exhibitions. His work is represented in over 60 public collections, including the Museum of Modern Art, Brooklyn Museum, Philadelphia Musum of Art, Boston Museum of Fine Arts, the Library of Congress, and over 20 university and college collections. Milton has taught at the Maryland Institute College of Art and at the Yale Summer School of Music and Art.

Nonpublic School Marathon is valuable and worthwhile project

The Nonpublic School Marathon was held in Thief River Falls on October 2, when St. Bernard's school cleaned more than 50 miles of ditches and parks in and around the community. Trash was collected, bagged and disposed of by the students of the school, their parents and volunteers.

St. Bernard's Catholic school participates in the Knights of Columbus-sponsored event for several reasons. It is a tremendous service to the entire community to have the "fall cleaning" done by its young citizens. Jean Heinrichs, vice mayor of the city, addressed the group of over 100 students and parents at the "clean up our city" campaign on Saturday. She commended the group for pitching in year after year and for always doing a good job. She thanked parents for supporting their children in the endeavor and applauded the Knights of Columbus for sponsoring the event which is greatly needed and appreciated by the community.

Through the yearly Nonpublic School Marathon, students learn many values. While most children were still snuggled in their beds on Saturday morning or watching their favorite cartoons, the children of St. Bernard's school, parents, teachers, pastor and principal, bundled up and ventured out into the 22 degree morning to do the job that they had promised to do. A fair day's work (cleaning up the city's parks and ditches) for a fair day's pay (pledges made by the community) or the value of service and community are worthwhile for children to experience.

Another value that is learned is the value of giving. The students give all money that they earn to their school and the school uses the money for academic supplies, teacher's salaries and facility upkeep. The marathon is one of the major fundraisers for the school.

Knights of Columbus provided students, parents and faculty with hot chocolate, hot apple cider, barbecues, chips and pickles in the church basement after the marathon. Certificates for door prizes were donated by Hardee's, McDonald's, Dairy Queen and Pizza Hut.

Prizes for most pledges and the class with the greatest amount of pledges will be awarded on November 2, following the 8:30 school mass. Students have until October 25 to collect their pledges and obtain more. Anyone interested in making a tax deductible contribution to the cause should contact a student of the school or call Dr. Klein, school principal, at 681-1539.

St. Bernard's school is grateful for the support they have received for this annual fundraiser and wishes to thank the Knights of Columbus, the parents of the students, local businesses, police department, vice mayor Jean Heinrichs and the community for contributing to the success of the fundraiser.

Local Jehovah's Witnesses attend

Eighty members of the Thief River Falls congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses were among 1,140 from 11 congregations to attend the circuit assembly September 25 and 26 at the Detroit Lakes junior high school.

"Keep Seeking First the Kingdom" was the theme of the program, drawn from Matthew 6:33.

Circuit supervisor Scott R. Shoffner pointed out that many of today's laws are based on Bible law. "We were helped to understand that the Kingdom we pray for is a real government," he said. "It has a domain, rulers, subjects and laws. Blessings and protection come to those putting this kingdom first in their lives."

All of the meetings were free and open to the public and a baptismal program was held Saturday morning.

Plummer school seeks special levy

School District 628 board of education at Plummer has voted to ask voters in the district to approve a five-year special tax levy of $125,000 a year. For the past three years the district has operated under a special levy of $100,000 a year.

A referendum on the levy will be held during the general election on November 2.

Superintendent-principal Rick Lorenson explained to district residents in the school's October newsletter that state equalization aid would allow the district to have the additional $25,000 available from the increased levy with an actual reduction in local tax effort.

"The first year of the $100,000 levy authorized for three years ago," he said, "the entire amount was raised locally. In this third year, however, only $72,000 was raised locally and $28,000 was provided in state aid.

"Under the equalization formula in place now, the $125,000 levy would be paid with $67,701 in local funds and $57,300 in state aid dollars," Supt. Lorenson said. "In short, the district would have the opportunity to increase its total special levy revenue by $25,000 while the local effort would actually decrease by $5,000 from the present levy responsibility."

Supt. Lorenson said that more information would be presented later but invited people with questions to call him at 465-4222.

He also responded to questions about comparative operating costs per pupil unit in the Plummer school district with other districts. District 628 has a total operating cost per pupil unit of $4,652, he said, compared with $4,747 at Oklee and $4,964 at Red Lake Falls, the other schools in Red Lake county.

He also showed that several metro area schools have average costs up to $6,189.

Confirming what everybody knew; crop was disaster

October 4 weekly crop-weather report of the Minnesota Agricultural Statistics Service confirms what just about everyone in the state knew—that the 1993 crop year was a major disaster.

"Mother Nature laid down a blanket of teens in the northern half of the state over the past week and low twenties in the southern part, ending what was probably the poorest growing season experienced by most farmers ever in their farming careers," the report stated.

September turned out to be the coolest on record for many areas of the state. Corn and soybean development crawled at a snail's pace all month because of cold weather. Only about 15 per cent of the corn and soybeans were mature and considered frost free when the killing frost hit and yield losses because of low test weight will likely be felt by all farmers this year.

Spring wheat harvest across the state was considered 93 per cent complete, compared with 94 per cent last year and the 99 per cent average. Many farmers in this part of the state who had their crops covered by Federal Crop Insurance did their harvesting with a torch as fields were too wet to carry harvest equipment and the crop was of too poor quality to warrant the extra effort and expense of trying to combine it.

Potato harvest at 59 per cent complete is well behind the 68 per cent average and dry edible bean harvest at 58 per cent trails far behind the 85 per cent average. Sunflower harvest completion at four per cent compares with a 30 per cent average and the 15 per cent of sugar beets harvested is slightly behind the average of 17 per cent.

Only 15 per cent of the corn crop was considered mature, compared with 82 per cent on the average, and only one per cent had been harvested, compared with an average of 16 per cent. Only six per cent of the state's total corn crop was rated as good with 31 per cent fair, 45 per cent poor and 18 per cent very poor. There was no corn in the state considered to be excellent.

Soybean maturity was only 15 per cent compared with an 83 per cent average and harvesting at three per cent compares with an average of 42 per cent at this time. Soybeans were rated as only seven per cent good with 38 per cent fair, 40 per cent poor and 15 per cent very poor. None were considered excellent.

Topsoil moisture was considered to be short in only one per cent of the state with 60 per cent having adequate topsoil moisture and 39 per cent surplus. The surplus moisture area included an east-to-west band across nearly all of the northern fifth of the state.

were not sent to parents of Lincoln high school students, volunteers also are needed at Lincoln."

While many volunteers are being placed according to interests, abilities and needs in the district, there is still a need for additional volunteers, Ihle said. There are many areas where volunteers are needed, such as chaperones, clerical work, working directly with students and even home volunteers.

"The volunteer program prides itself on its flexibility, which allows persons to volunteer as little as once a year or as often as once a week or more," the coordinator said.

"You do not have to have a child in the school system to be a volunteer. A number of our most enthusiastic volunteers are people whose children have grown and gone and who have time to give now that they didn't have when they were actively raising their own families.

"If you have a pre-school child, the volunteer program participates in 'Preschool Volunteer Friends,' whereby the Preschool Resource and Enrichment Program at Knox elementary school provides activities for the pre-schooler while the parent is serving as a volunteer."

Anyone interested in volunteering in any way or would like more information about any of the programs offered through the school volunteer program is encouraged to call Carol Ihle at 681-8358.

Allows readers to speak out on a variety of issues

by Sen. Roger Moe

When one thinks of the Department of Transportation, images of detours with road crews filling potholes and laying pavement probably come to mind. Over the years, though, we have broadened our expectations of the old "Highway Department."

Helping protect the state's environment is one of the lesser known roles of Mn/DOT. In recent years, you might have noticed the gradual transformation of our highway corridors.

Rather than mowing wide swaths of grass and noxious weeds along our major state highways, we're seeing roadways blending in more naturally with surrounding landscape. We have been especially fortunate in Northwestern Minnesota to have two of the seven designated Wildflower Routes.

The first designation of a Wildflower Route in this area came along Highway 11 between Baudette and Greenbush where the State Flower, the Lady Slipper, is featured. An exciting new plan designates a biodiversity corridor along Highway 32, linking the city of Fertile with ecologically sensitive land owned by the Nature Conservancy and the Department of Natural Resources.

Federal funding will help pay the acquisition cost of linking the three parcels, creating a five-mile corridor devoted to rare prairie restoration. This program not only beautifies the roadway, but will attract tourists interested in bird watching, hiking and exploring nature.

In the years to come, MN/Dot plans to expand its Wildflower Routes program and enhance roadside management practices. Another route under consideration for seeding of wildflowers and prairie grasses is a lengthy span of Highway 2 between Marcoux and Bemidji.

The overall trend toward a more "natural" look for roadways is known as Integrated Roadside Vegetation Management. Years ago, Mn/DOT decided to use less herbicide along roadway rights of way, hoping to save money and reduce the negative impacts of chemical run-off. But weeds soon flourished and dominated over the Kentucky bluegrass and smooth brome grown along the side of the road. People started noticing that areas where native vegetation grew and no herbicide was used typically had virtually no weed-control problems.

In the past 3-5 years, Mn/DOT has researched and implemented Integrated Roadside Vegetation Management initiatives. A variety of techniques are used throughout the state because we have such widely differing habitats, from evergreen and hardwood forests to prairies and sand plains.

In most instances, these attractive roadside transformations have required collaborative efforts involving several groups and individuals. Mn/DOT often works with the DNR, cities and counties, nature groups and wildlife enthusiasts, as well as nearby landowners to accomplish the roadside restorations cooperatively.

Overall, the reintroduction of native grasses and wildflowers has been an impressive success. They have proven to be hearty winter survivors, capable of withstanding avalanches of snow tosses from road plows and the onslaught of road salt.

Too often we assume that when we make the environmentally correct choice, we'll end up having to take a hit to the pocketbook. In this case, that would be a faulty assumption. Not only does planting native grasses along the roadside reduce chemical use, improve erosion control and beautify the view, it requires less maintenance. Instead of constant summer mowings, management of native grasses requires little more than a revitalizing controlled burn every three to five years.

A package that includes highway beautification, restoration of the natural environment and long-term reduced maintenance costs is a winning combination. It's something worth admiring every time we drive along a road lined with wildflowers and prairie grasses.

Northland knocks off Vermilion 23-7

Northland defensive end Jayme Aure recorded a sack as he charged Vermilion quarterback Mike Hunter during the third quarter of Saturday's community college football game in Thief River Falls. Hunter did pass for 221 yards, but he didn't have an easy day, completing only 14 of 40 attempts. He was intercepted three times and was sacked four times as the defending state champion Ironmen lost for the first time, 23-7.

Northland sent shock waves through the Minnesota Community College Conference football circles Saturday by knocking off defending state champion Vermilion 23-7 in a Northern Division match-up at Prowler Field.

Coming off a lackluster performance in a 16-0 loss to Itasca the previous week, Northland did an about-face performance-wise in snapping a 14-game Vermilion MCCC winning streak. The Pioneers went to 3-2 for the year and 3-1 in the Northern Division, where they are in the thick of post-season playoff chase going into the final weeks of the regular season.

"That's the best, the biggest win we've ever had," said Northland coach Gene Klinke. "We played one heckuva game."

An outstanding effort on defense and an adequate performance on offense did the trick for the Pioneers. The Ironmen scored more points and gave up fewer points than any team in the MCCC while starting the year 4-0. But the visitors from Ely took it on the chin in both categories during their Thief River Falls visit.

Vermilion's lone touchdown came early in the fourth quarter after reserve quarterback Jason Hamilton turned a scramble into an 84-yard run to set up a 1-yard plunge into the end zone by Rick Kurath.

The Ironmen finished with 303 yards worth of offense, but only 65 of it came on the ground. And outside of the run by Hamilton, the Vermilion running game was a minus-19 yards for the day.

Most of the Vermilion offense was centered on the passing game as Mike Hunter and Hamilton put the ball in the air 46 times. They did throw for 238 yards, but completed only 16 passes and were intercepted four times.

"Defensively, you can't say enough good things about the way our kids played today," said Klinke. "Defensive coordinator Terry Wiseth had them prepared. They did a tremendous job."

Northland quarterback Jason Svir used the pass to put Northland on the board in the first quarter. A 7-play, 53-yard scoring drive included a 13-yard pass to Sheldon Hinton, an 11-yard throw to Maceo Butler and a 22-yard touchdown strike to Ronnie Anderson with 4:37 remaining. Svir received good pass protection on the scoring play, bidding his time until he spotted Anderson wide open in the back of the end zone.

It looked like Northland had a two-touchdown edge on the very next play when linebacker Rick Ostby intercepted Hunter at the Vermilion 30 and walked into the end zone – only to have the touchdown taken away on a clipping penalty.

But Northland did take a 9-0 lead into intermission when Eric Halbert finished a 12-play possession by kicking a 27-yard field goal with 5:17 remaining in the second quarter.

Once again benefitting from good field positions after a strong defensive effort, the Northland produced a 17-0 scoreboard gap with an 8-play, 51-yard touchdown drive in the third quarter as Svir rolled right and found Lee Alfson in the back of the end zone for a 14-yard touchdown with 5:05 showing. Svir then scrambled and hit Anderson for the two-point conversion pass.

The breakaway run by Hamilton came on the third play of the fourth quarter. He was finally hauled down at the Northland 10, and it took Vermilion four plays to reach the end zone on the run by Kurath with 12:03 to play.

Final score was supplied, fittingly, by the Northland defense as Hamilton threw the ball to Ray Reinhart and the Pioneers' defensive tackle had an easy 16-yard run for the touchdown with 3:13 remaining.

Paul Mason had a 23-carry, 51-yard afternoon to lead a clock-eating Northland offense. Hinton added 35 yards on 16 carries and Svir was 9-for-16 in the air for 136 yards. Five different receivers caught Svir passes, with Butler grabbing three for 29 yards. Runningback Ben Brown caught nine passes for 122 yards for the Ironmen.

"We weren't supposed to win this ball game," noted Klinke, "but the kids stuck their heads in there and got the job done. I'm proud of each and every one of them."

NCC, UMC will meet final time

Heading into their final two Minnesota Community College Conference football games of the 1993 season, Northland finds itself sitting in the same seat the Pioneers occupied last fall when a Northern Division title-contending 3-1 record fell to a playoff-eliminating 3-3 finish with losses to the University of Minnesota-Crookston 20-0 and Brainerd 33-25 in overtime.

Northland is again 3-1 in MCCC play and finishes its Northern Division schedule against the University of Minnesota-Crookston and Brainerd. The Pioneers and Trojans will meet at 7 p.m. Thursday at Prowler Field, with the Pioneers playing a 2 p.m. game at Brainerd the following Thursday. The regular season ends with an Oct. 28 nonconference game here against the Mayville State JV.

Top two regular season finishers in the MCCC Northern and Southern Division standings earn berths in the state playoff semifinals. Rochester and Fergus Falls currently rank 1-2 in the South. The North shows Northland and Brainerd in a first place tie at 3-1, followed by Vermilion and Itasca at 2-1, UMC 2-2, Hibbing and Mesabi 0-3.

Wins over UMC and Brainerd would nail down a playoff berth for the Pioneers. That same opportunity was on the table last year.

"It's time to see if we can take that next step," said Northland coach Gene Klinke. "Our destiny is in our hands. We'll find if we can rise to the occasion – to see if we're contenders or pretenders."

Adding spice to this week's Northland-UMC game is the fact that the spirited rivalry will end after this year as Crookston makes the transition both academically and athletically from a two-year to a four-year school.

Both Northland and UMC are 3-2 overall. The Trojans own wins over the Mayville State JV 22-8, Mesabi 34-32 and Hibbing 23-14 last week when Derrick Sanders had a 30-carry, 196-yard rushing effort. UMC losses have come at the hands of Itasca 33-17 and Vermilion 58-0 – a team Northland beat 23-7 last week.

Sports Boosters to meet on Thursday

Jane Mattson of the community education program will be the guest speaker Thursday during the weekly 12-noon Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Club meeting at the Elks Club.

TRF trying to land No. 2 playoff berth

Winning four straight games has clinched a high school football playoff berth for Thief River Falls. Two more wins would close out a 6-2 regular season and nail down the No. 2 spot in the Section 8A postseason field. Standing between the Prowlers and that goal are Fergus Falls and East Grand Forks.

Thief River Falls will be in Fergus Falls Thursday for a 7 p.m. game and will be in East Grand Forks the following Wednesday (Oct. 20) for a 7:30 p.m. regular season finale.

Regular season point standings will determine the playoff matchups. Teams earn 120 points for a win over a AA school, 100 points for a win over an A school, and 80 points for a win over a Class B or C school.

Finishing 1 or 2 is a definite advantage since the Oct. 26 quarterfinal draw in the six-team Section 8A playoffs will include byes for the top two teams, who will then host the Oct. 30 semifinals. The championship game will be played Nov. 5 at the Fargodome.

Fergus Falls is 2-4. The Otters started the year with losses to Alexandria 21-14 and Orono 30-8. They bounced back to beat Prior Lake 18-16 and Crookston 14-0, but then ran into unbeaten Detroit Lakes (a 35-14 win for the Lakers) and last week dropped a 14-12 decision to East Grand Forks.

Thief River Falls will be at less than full strength for the stretch run. Fullback/defensive tackle Brian Howe will miss the rest of the season after suffering a dislocated hip and quarterback Jeff Twomey will be sidelined at least a week after suffering a cracked bone in the thumb of his left hand. Both injuries occurred in Friday's 16-6 win at Crookston.

"We'll miss those kids, for sure," acknowledged Thief River Falls coach Jeff Mumm, "but it will give some other kids the opportunity to step in and play."

Chris Ortloff turned in an impressive fourth quarter at fullback against the Pirates, and the Prowlers' offense never missed a beat when Eric Bjorgaard took over at quarterback.

Win-E-Mac is 3-0 volleyball winner in TRF

Two home matches last week were marathon contests as Thief River Falls collected back-to-back 3-2 high school volleyball wins over Moorhead and Warren. Monday, however, the warm-up was almost as long as the contest itself as Win-E-Mac breezed past the Prowlers 15-3, 15-6, 15-7.

It was the second Thief River Falls run-in with a Top Ten-ranked Class A team this fall, and the second 3-0 loss in those encounters for the Class AA Prowlers, who met a similar fate in a Sept. 30 meeting with Fosston.

But the Prowlers played a competitive match against the Greyhounds in losing 16-14, 15-3, 15-10. That wasn't the case Monday as the Patriots won in alarmingly swift fashion.

"What killed us tonight was serve reception," said Thief River Falls coach Helen Anderson. "There wasn't much communication on the court. We were just dead out there."

Win-E-Mac went to 10-3 with the win. Thief River Falls fell 10-11 heading into a Thursday match against Red Lake County Central in Plummer.

"We'll just have to shake this one off and get ready for Red Lake County Central," offered Anderson. "There's not much else to say."

It was a disappointing end to a lengthy home stand that included

Win-E-Mac hitter Tanya Ostenaa (10) drove a spike off Thief River Falls blocker Jamie Martell during Monday's high school volleyball match in the Lincoln gym. Toni Chlodo of the Prowlers was also at the net. The Patriots won 3-0.

Prowlers overcome injuries to beat Crookston 16-6...

TRF depth secures win over Pirates

Defensive starters Chris Ortloff and Eric Bjorgaard were called upon to lead the Thief River Falls offense down the stretch Friday as they directed a time-consuming, game-clinching fourth quarter touchdown drive that finished off Crookston 16-6 in Section 8A high school football.

Nursing an 8-6 lead, Thief River Falls forced a Crookston punt and took over on downs at the Prowlers' 30-yard line with 8:03 remaining. Four plays into the drive quarterback Jeff Twomey left the game with a hand injury and moments later fullback Brian Howe was taken from the field in an ambulance after getting hit on the hip. Twomey's deft ball-handling directs the Prowlers' no-nonsense straight-away ground game, and the hard-running Howe is the center piece for the attack.

But the Prowlers didn't miss a beat when Bjorgaard stepped in behind center and Ortloff filled in at fullback.

A regular at defensive end, Bjorgaard did nothing fancy in his quarterbacking role, but more importantly, did nothing wrong as the Prowlers converted three fourth down situations into first downs to keep the drive alive.

A linebacker by trade, Ortloff quickly became the main man on offense. The 16-play, 70-yard touchdown drive included five carries for 28 yards by the 6-1, 190-pound senior, including a 5-yard charge through the middle for the touchdown with 1:27 left. First Crookston snap on the ensuing possession resulted in an interception by Lee Lund, and Ortloff tacked on three more carries for 51 yards – giving him an 8-carry, 79-yard night during his five-minute stint in the backfield.

The performances by Bjorgaard and Ortloff did not surprise Thief River Falls coach Jeff Mumm. "We've got good depth," he said. "We've got people waiting to go when they get the chance."

It was the fourth straight win for the Prowlers after a pair of season-opening losses. They close out regular season play with games Thursday at Fergus Falls and the following Wednesday (Oct. 20) at East Grand Forks.

"We've come a long ways," acknowledged Mumm. "After those first two games there were people wondering if we were even going to win a game this year."

Crookston's post-season playoff chances took a beating with the loss as the Pirates fell to 2-4.

"With the rivalry and with Crookston facing an almost must-win situation, we told the kids all week it would be like a war over here," said Mumm, "and it was. It was a good, hard-hitting football game. Crookston has played some great defense this year, and we've been very happy with our defense the last couple of weeks."

Indeed, after giving up 136 points in their first four starts, the Prowlers limited Park Rapids Area and Crookston to just six points each.

Thief River Falls controlled play at the start of the chilly match-up in Crookston, but despite running twice as many plays (24-12), the Prowlers found themselves trailing 6-0 on a 19-yard Bobby Shimpa-to-Chris Winjum touchdown pass with 5:54 left in the second quarter.

Two plays earlier Shimpa threw down field to Chris Peterson, who made an acrobatic catch, and then cut back through the secondary for a 57-yard gain before being hauled down from behind.

On the touchdown, a Thief River Falls defensive mix-up left Winjum uncovered as he split wide left. The Crookston bench noticed; Thief River Falls' sideline didn't. The Crookston coaches yelled for an audible, Shimpa complied and Winjum walked into the end zone with the easiest touchdown he'll ever score.

It was a 5-play, 91-yard scoring drive. But the Pirates' offense generated nothing after that. Crookston did not cross midfield and produced only three first downs the rest of the night.

Thief River Falls beat the clock and the Pirates' defense to take the lead at the end of the first half after a midfield interception by linebacker Tony Halsa with 2:17 to play.

The Prowlers' normally ground-orientated offense went to the air in a race against the fast-expiring time as Twomey completed four of six passes for 43 of the 46 yards, including 26 and 12-yard tosses to Lund and Nathan Anderson, respectively to set up a first down at the Crookston 5 with just 10 seconds left.

There was just one second showing when Twomey hit Lund on the numbers as he came across the middle to tie it. Crookston's earlier conversion kick failed. Thief River Falls' two-point attempt produced the 8-6 lead as Howe bounced off tackle to give the Prowlers a big halftime lift.

That was it for scoring until the final drive – a march that included a 5-yard run by Howe on a fourth-and-one from the Crookston 47; a 5-yard offside penalty assessed Crookston on a fourth-and-three from the 35; and a 15-yard burst by Ortloff on a fourth-and-four from the 24.

"Our backs were against the wall," said Mumm. "We had to do something. We didn't want to gave the ball back to them."

Actually, Thief River Falls was ready to punt on the second fourth down situation, admitted Mumm. The Prowlers were instructed to go on a long, stutter count, and if Crookston stayed put, they were to take a 5-yard delay of game penalty, then punt. But the Pirates got antsy, and Prowlers got the first down, and kept the drive alive.

Howe finished with 93 yards on 25 carries before leaving the game. Ortloff's 79-yard effort was followed by an 11-carry, 44-yard night by Halsa. A 53-yard effort by Matt Wallace (on 9 carries) represented the entire Crookston ground game.

Twomey was 5-for-11 in the air for 70 yards. Shimpa was 3-for-11 for 77 yards.

Failed conversions cost Blue Devils

Grygla/Goodridge failed on three two-point conversion attempts, including a point-after try in the final minute, and paid the price Friday – a 19-18 Top of the State Conference high school football loss to Kittson County North at Grygla.

The Cougars were only 1-for-3 in the conversion department themselves, but it proved to be enough for the win.

Grygla-Goodridge chopped a 19-12 Kittson County North lead to 19-18 on an 18-yard touchdown pass from Brady Wiseth to Shawn Verbout in the final minute, but the potential game-winning conversion pass fell incomplete.

It was the fourth loss in five starts for the Blue Devils, eliminating them from the Section 8 Nine-Man post-season playoff picture. They finish regular season play with games Thursday at Stephen; Tuesday, Oct. 19, at Marshall County Central; and Tuesday, Oct. 26, vs. Kittson Central in Grygla. The Tigers and Wolfpack are the Top of the State Conference leaders; the Nordics are winless.

Grygla/Goodridge netted 175 yards on 47 running plays against the small, but game Kittson County North squad, and went 5-for-9 in the air for 92 yards.

Mustangs face unbeaten RLF

■ Friday RLCC football homecoming game

A tough homecoming assignment awaits Red Lake County Central Friday when the Mustangs take on unbeaten Red Lake Falls in a 7:30 p.m. Valley Plains Conference high school football game at Plummer.

The Mustangs fell to 1-5 Friday with a 21-15 setback at the hands Warren-Alvarado. Four of the Mustangs' five losses have been by a single touchdown margin or less.

"We showed some improvement over last week," said Red Lake County Central coach Gary Brantl, who wasn't happy with the Mustangs' play in a disappointing 6-0 loss to Lake Park-Audubon in their previous outing. "We some some life. We still have to figure out a way to get our offense going."

A game-opening, time-consuming drive that led to a 4-yard Jeremy Boman touchdown gave the Ponies a lead they would never surrender. A 7-yard Steve Roux touchdown run put Warren-Alvarado ahead 13-0, but Shannon Willett returned the ensuing kickoff 75 yards for a touchdown to keep Red Lake County Central in it.

Down 21-8, the Mustangs pulled within striking range with five minutes left in the game when quarterback Scott Lorenson turned receiver to haul in a 44-yard touchdown pass from Eric Reinbold.

A fumble recovery at the Ponies' 40-yard line with 1:42 left gave the Mustangs one more shot, but they ran out of downs.

Willett, the Mustangs' top back, left the game with a shoulder injury, slowing down the Red Lake County Central offense in the second half. Adam Lundeen wound up as the leading ball carrier with 36 yards on 8 tries. Lorenson was 5-for-10 passing for 38 yards.

Lundeen was in on 17 tackles to lead the Red Lake County Central defense, while Ryan Salberg had a hand in 15 tackles, Darrin Hofstad 14 and Aaron Rosten 11.

Spartans top Pioneers 3-1 in MCCC volleyball

Fergus Falls defeated Northland 15-2, 5-15, 15-10, 15-8 Friday in Minnesota Community College Conference volleyball.

The visiting Pioneers over came a slow start to go on the attack in Game 2, but could not maintain the momentum as they fell to 4-16 for the year and 0-4 in the Northwest Division.

"We went on the offensive in the second game," pointed out Northland coach Deb Jacobson. "We had them going. We were forcing them to make mistakes."

Northland mistakes at critical times cost the Pioneers in Game 3, noted Jacobson, and they quickly fell behind 6-1 in Game 4.

The Pioneers' statistical leaders included Kathy Kvick with 10 kills, LuAnne Maslowski, 17 assists; Holly Gram, 6 blocks; Kyoko Kino and Ronda Olson, 18 and 14 digs, respectively.

Northland hosts Brainerd tonight (Wednesday), in a 6:30 p.m. MCCC match.

Sophomores post 44-6 win over EGF

Thief River Falls sophomores went to 6-0 for the year Monday with a 44-6 high school football win over visiting East Grand Forks.

The winners turned an 8-0 first quarter lead into a 30-0 halftime cushion and had a 38-6 third quarter advantage.

Thief River Falls touchdowns included 5 and 8-yard runs by Kaine Martell, 4 and 48-yard runs by Aaron Ehrenstrom, an 8-yard run by Justin Stevenson, and a 30-yard Keith Anderson pass to Steve Rambeck. Conversions included runs by Martell and Ehrenstrom, plus a pair of Anderson-to-Ehrenstrom passes.

Crusaders' soccer win streak ends in final-minute defeat

Karlstad scored in the final minute of play to beat visiting Our Saviour's Christian Academy 1-0 in Tuesday soccer action.

It was the first loss in five starts for the Crusaders, who visit Roseau Friday before closing the year at home with a Tuesday, Oct. 19, contest against International Falls. Both matches start at 1:30 p.m.

Youth firearms safety class to start Oct. 14

Dates have been set for the fall session of the area Department of Natural Resources youth firearms safety class.

Classroom sessions in the basement meeting room of the Thief River Falls city auditorium will be held from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 14; Tuesday, Oct. 19; Thursday, Oct. 21; and Monday, Oct. 25.

A field test will be held Tuesday, Oct. 26, at 4:30 p.m. at the Pennington County Sportsmen's Club firing range.

Registration will take place at the start of the first meeting. Cost of the program is $5, plus a stamped self-addressed 4x9 1/4-inch envelope.

Subjects to be covered during the program include hunting heritage and early firearm history, firearm safety (marksmanship and shooting fundamentals, rifles, shotguns, ammunition, firearm safety in the home), hunter responsibility, wildlife conservation and management, wildlife identification, game care, specialty hunting (muzzleloading, handguns, bowhunting), survival and first aid, water safety, and special concerns (alcohol and drugs, turkey hunting, trapping, all terrain vehicles, hunting dogs).

Upon successful completion of the course, a temporary certificate will be issued. A shoulder pitch and plastic firearms safety certificate card will be mailed to you by the DNR.

Minnesota law specifies that all persons born after Dec. 31, 1979 and all hunters ages 12-15 applying for a hunting license must show proof of successfully completing a firearms safety training course.

There will be an exam the final class night. All material on the exam will be covered in class, or will be contained in the reading material that will be distributed by classroom instructors. Students must answer at least 70 percent of the questions correctly to complete the course.

Students should not bring firearms or ammunition to class.

Youth Hockey

Referees

Persons interested in refereeing in the 1993-94 Thief River Falls youth hockey program should contact either Ron Novak at 681-3959 or Roger Meunier at 681-2648.

All referees must attend a USA Hockey Referee Clinic. This year's clinic will be held Saturday, Oct. 23, in Crookston. Thief River Falls will have its own clinic for all referees unable to attend the Crookston clinic – Wednesday, Oct. 27, at 5:30 p.m. in Room 101 at Franklin Middle School. The two ours of classroom work will be followed by two hours of on-ice activity. Interested referees should let Novak or Meunier know which clinic they plan to attend.

Registration

Players who have not yet registered for the 1993-94 TRFAHA season are asked to do so as soon as possible. Before any player can go on the ice, the IMR form must be completed.

Coaches

Coaches are needed for the 6-under program. Anyone interested in coaching at that level should contact Ron Novak at 681-3959.

A reminder to TRFAHA coaches – the coaches clinic Oct. 23 in East Grand Forks is optional. USA Hockey will not make it mandatory this year that all coaches go to a clinic.

TRFAHA Meeting

Next Thief River Falls Amateur Hockey Association general membership meeting will be held Monday, Oct. 18, at 7 p.m. in the Lincoln High School cafeteria.

Open Hockey Sessions

Open hockey sessions will be scheduled in the Old Arena for Squirts and Tiny Mites. The purpose of the sessions is to give players an opportunity to go out on their own and work at the fundamentals of the game of hockey. It's a good opportunity for players who would like to improve their game. Check weekly schedules to find out when these sessions will be held. Cost is 50-cents per session.

Clinics

Prowler Hockey Clinic for Bantams/Pee-Wees starts Saturday, Oct. 16. Squirts portion of the clinic will begin Monday, Oct. 25. The Squirts clinic schedules will appear in next week's Youth Hockey Column.

Because of the numbers (30 Bantams and 30 Pee-Wees), it will be a combination Bantam/Pee-Wee clinic this year. The clinic will be divided into three age groups, according to the players' date of birth.

Clinic Group 3 - Shawn Rud, Adam Nordin, Steve Vennes, Chad Nordhagen, Eric Rouland, Trevor Lee, Nathan LaRoque, Curt Edwards, Tony Fletcher, Ben Furuseth, Brian Barry, Adam Swanson, Nathan Jordet, Greg Wik, Nathan Ptacek.

St. Bernard's Catholic school students, their parents, teachers and others joined in a clean-up effort as their means of raising funds during the marathon for non-public education recently. The youngsters took on trash pickup and roadside cleaning in the Thief River Falls area. In this photo one group of workers on a roadside pickup detail paused long enough for a photo to be taken. Several students show some of the items they found.

Court accepts Strande's guilty plea

In a plea agreement Monday in a Pennington county Ninth District court, Scott Alan Strande pled guilty to one count of felony theft over $500 and under $2,500. The charge against the Thief River Falls resident stemmed from a report from Pro-Lawn owners that Strande had been converting money owed Pro-Lawn to his own uses.

Monday, Ninth District Judge James R. Wilson accepted Strande's guilty plea and ordered a pre-sentence investigation. A second charge of theft over $2,500 and under $35,000 was dismissed. Sentencing will be carried out in about two weeks. As part of the plea agreement, Strande has agreed to pay restitution to Pro-Lawn in the amount of $8,700. Strande was represented in court by Attorney Kevin Duffy. Assistant Pennington County Attorney Al Rogalla was the prosecutor.

The Second Section

Rob Burkel and Melanie Wawrzyniak give advice to Joe LaFriniere (center) in the Northland Community College production of "Oh, My Goodness!". The play is an up-beat musical about Billy Weston who has recently moved to a new neighborhood. He meets his crabby new neighbor, the kids next door, and a woman named "Goodness and Light," who claims she is a real, honest-to-goodness fairy. She tells Billy that he must help her on her mission to save the crabby neighbor. The play will be performed Saturday, October 16 at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday, October 17, at 2 p.m. at the college.

Swedish opera singer, pianist in concert here

Under the sponsorship of the Agassiz Swedish Heritage Society, opera singer Lennart Ogren and pianist Lennart Rabes will be presented in concert Tuesday, October 19, at 7:30 p.m. in Trinity Lutheran Church in Thief River Falls.

There is no admission charge for the concert but a free-will offering will be received. A reception will follow in the church fellowship hall.

Baritone Lennart Ogren studied organ, piano, violin and viola but concentrated on a singing career and studied at Operastudio 67 in Stockholm as well as the Opera School in Gothenburg.

Ogren has worked for many Swedish opera companies including the Royal Opera in Stockholm, Norrlandsoperan in Umea, Stockholms Kammaopera and Sodra Teatern, both in Stockholm. He has given concerts in the United States, Germany, Finland and France in addition to his native Sweden. His concert here will be in English, German and Scandinavian.

Lennart Rabes made his debut as a conductor and pianist at the age of 12 in Stockholm. In 1967 he was awarded the ARCM diploma in London and in September of 1992 the degree of Bachelor of Arts was conferred upon him by Pacific Western University in Los Angeles, CA.

Rabes has given concerts in Sweden, Germany, Austria, Switzerland, France, Italy and England and made many recordings for the broadcasting companies in those countries. He also works as an accompanist. In 1972 he founded the International Liszt Centre in London and is the musical director and editor of the magazine "Liszt Saeculum."

In the international edition of "Who's Who in Music," Rabes' profession is listed as accompanist, researcher, harpsichordist, organist, conductor, lecturer, editor, examiner and composer.

Agassiz Swedish Heritage Society invites the public to attend the concert.

Northland Community college will present its fall play, Saturday, October 16, at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday, October 17 at 2 p.m. at the college. The children's theater play is entitled "Oh, My Goodness!" and was written by Janet Haak Aarness, who is also directing the performance. It is an up-beat musical about Bill Weston, who has just moved to town. Pictured from left in one of the scenes rehearsed recently are Karl Frisch, Teddy Perfecto and Rebekah Solem.

St. Bernard's teachers work on curriculum

To begin the process of writing the outcomes-based curriculum, teachers at St. Bernard's school in Thief River Falls met September 29 for the first of four "Teacher Talk" sessions. Additional meetings will be held in November, January and March.

"Any member of the Thief River Falls community who has a special talent or skill that they would like to share with students is encouraged to call the school office," stated Dr. Dixie Klein, principal.

Focus of this year's "Teacher Talk" sessions will be language arts, including reading, writing, listening, English and spelling. Integration of Gospel values into the curriculum will reflect the religious nature of the Catholic school, Dr. Klein said.

On September 29 the faculty gathered in teams to share their philosophies and values and to correlate the school's new language arts program with the current Crookston diocesan curriculum, state curriculum guidelines and an OBE curriculum written by a neighboring diocese.

Dr. Klein said that volunteers will be coming into the classrooms to conduct special art and/or craft projects. Others will discuss the culture of the American Indian and share Indian artifacts with the students, engage in story-telling or show literature-based movies.

"The school has spent considerable time examining outcomes-based education," Dr. Klein said. "Both teachers and parents have received information through inservice sessions.

"The St. Bernard's school committee determined at its August meeting that the school needs to move forward with curriculum, preparing St. Bernard's students to be successful in the public school system when they exit our school after sixth grade."

The Thief River Falls public schools are also in the process of curriculum rewriting for outcomes based education requirements.

Helley retires from military

John Helley, formerly of the Plummer area, retired recently after nine and one-half years of teaching of naval science in Wheeling, IL.

His unit of 166 students from six high schools in that area was recognized as the outstanding Naval JROTC in the nation. In an address published in the Congressional Record, Rep. John Edward Porter of Illinois recognized the unit and added:

"In addition, I would like to recognize the retirement of the Naval Science instructor of NJROTC Unit High School District 214, Lt. Comdr. John A Helley Sr., U.S. Navy (Retired) who came to the school to fill in for one year and has stayed nine.

"Under his leadership the cadets have earned millions of dollars worth of college scholarships, worked with local veterans organizations, spent time at the local U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs' Medical centers, contributed efforts for community affairs and assisted whenever the communities needed volunteers for emergencies.

"Because of his personal commitment to and concern for the cadets, the NJROTC as a whole and his nation, I wish to commend and thank Lt. Comdr. Helley for his efforts in the past and wish him success in his future endeavors."

Joe LaFriniere and Kathy Olson are actors in the Northland Community college theater production of "Oh, My Goodness!". The play which was written by Janet Haak Aarness, tells the story of Billy Weston who has recently moved to a new neighborhood with some quirky residents including one person who claims she is a real, honest-to-goodness fairy. The play will be performed Saturday, October 16, at 7:30 p.m., and Sunday, October 17, at 2 p.m. at the college. The play is suitable for children over the age of five and both young and old will enjoy the light-hearted musical.

BIBLE STUDY

Must Christians suffer?

After you read through this Bible study, go back and look up the Scriptures and highlight them in your Bible.

Once you start to live like Christ, a strange thing will happen (1 Cor. 11:1; Eph. 5:1; I Peter 4:12). You might begin to suffer (Acts 14:22). When this happens, it is God's stamp of approval, showing that He is working with you (Rom. 8:17-18; Heb. 12:8). Jesus Christ says anyone who will live as God lives will suffer persecution (2 Tim. 3:12; John 15:20).

"Blessed are those who have been persecuted for the sake of righteousness, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven" (Matt. 5:10). People may falsely say bad things about you, or persecute you because you're living your life for Christ by being zealous for good deeds (Matt. 5:11; Titus 2:14). If you are glorifying God with your good works and allowing God to crush your old nature, He must surely test you (Matt. 5:16; Rom. 16:20; 12:21). "Rejoice, and be glad, for your reward in heaven is great" (Matt. 5:12).

You know full well, when you first start living a life that is pleasing to God, the good deeds you force yourself to do won't come from your heart (Rom. 7:21; Luke 16:16). You must go through the hypocritical stage of the Pharisees (Matt. 5:20). Eventually, you will do the Will of God from your heart if you continue doing good daily and do not turn back (Eph. 6:6). This is done by disciplining yourself for the purpose of godliness (1 Tim. 4:7).

You must force yourself to be a slave of righteousness for Jesus Christ by using the members of your body as slaves of righteousness (1 Cor. 9:27; Rom. 6:13, 18-19). You force your way into the kingdom of God that is within you by renewing your mind and your heart with God's Spirit (Luke 16:16; 17:21).

You enter the kingdom of God when you have totally rested from all your works of the flesh (Heb. 4:10). This is the same as entering God's spiritual rest. You rest from the works of the flesh when you stop doing things your way and start doing them God's Way, as an obedient servant. You learn obedience to God when you suffer (Heb. 5:8). That is how you are made perfect like Jesus Christ (Heb. 5:9; Matt. 5:48; Heb. 12:23).

All humans suffer during their lifetime (1 Peter 3:17; 5:9-10). Disciples of Jesus Christ count it a joy because their suffering has a godly purpose when they live only to imitate God by keeping His Ways (1 Peter 4:1-2, 12-13, 16-19; Eph. 5:1; Phil. 3:8-11).

Yoshiko Duke stirs up dish at Heritage Community Center

Yoshiko Duke of Thief River Falls was the guest of the Heritage Community Center Tuesday, October 5.

Yoshiko, who is of Japanese heritage, modeled her native kimono, several of her Japanese treasurers, and provided the recipe for a meal served during noon dinner at the community center. Her recipe was for a poor man's sukiyaki, which is a traditional Japanese dish consisting of thin slices of meat and vegetables.

The following recipe, provided by Yoshiko Duke, serves six to eight people:

1 pound of ground beef or sirloin tips cooked in oil
1 can of mushrooms (4 oz.)
1 Tbsp. sugar
1/3 cup soy sauce (Kikkoman brand)
2 or more cups of beef broth
1 1/2 cups carrots - sliced
1/2 cup celery sliced
2 medium onions - sliced
3 cups of rice
4 to 5 cups of water

Brown the meat and add the mushrooms and sugar. Then add one cup of broth and carrots and cook until half done. Add more broth as needed and add the celery and onions. Continue to add broth as needed. Add the soy sauce at the end and serve over a bed of rice.

Thief River Falls fire department personnel ready equipment for an emergency extrication. According to the emergency drill scenario, two teenagers have been trapped inside the vehicle. In truth, no one has been injured. The accident many people thought they observed south of Thief River Falls outside Sheldon's Used Auto Parts Wednesday evening was really an emergency drill. The exercise tests the skill, ability and patience of those emergency personnel responding to the drill. It is designed to prepare them for a real emergency.

The scene outside Sheldon's Used Auto Parts Wednesday evening was that of an emergency drill. There were no injuries or fatalities. It was only a test of the preparedness of emergency personnel in Pennington county. The "injured people" seen by many passers-by, were medical careers students with heavy make-up applied to look like severe injuries.

Second year Webelos members of Cub Scout Pack 59 at Zion Lutheran Church in Thief River Falls assisted with banding of ducks at Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge Thursday, September 30. Gary Tischer of the Agassiz staff explained how ducks are baited, netted, checked for age and sex and banded. Agassiz had already met its quota on banding of all ducks except adult males. The scouts helped herd netted ducks into box cages and then brought them one at a time to the biologists to have them banded. After the leg bands were attached, the boys released the birds into the pool. Concert Series Could Use Some More Support

Once again the Thief River Falls Concert Association finds itself nearly into its season of attractions with a lot of enthusiasm but considerable room for more financial support.. At this stage of the game the membership numbers are down from a year ago and the board of directors is encouraging greater public participation in the membership effort.

It's unfortunate that this condition exists, because the concert series is certainly one of the best entertainment bargains available in the area. It presents real people on stage in musical and/or dramatic performances of a truly professional quality. And it all happens right in town, at the Lincoln auditorium, where there is no need to travel long distances and pay high admission fees.

Adult membership in the concert association is only $20. And that membership admits you to four concerts—an average of only five bucks a performance. For young people there is an even better offer—only $9 for a season membership or just $2.25 per concert. And if the family includes two adults and one or more children, the best deal yet is a family membership for $48. Add up the kids and do your own math to find out how great a bargain the family membership can be for your household.

There was a time when the concert association booked a majority of classical music performers, but that situation has changed in recent years. On this season's schedule there is only one out of four presentations which appears to be of that type—and you would never know it by reading the brief concert description. More on that later.

First concert of the series is scheduled for Thursday, October 21, and like all the rest will be at 7:30 p.m. in the Lincoln high school auditorium. Featured will be "The Bulla Family," consisting of a husband, wife, two sons and a daughter. "Their electrifying blend of singing, songwriting and instrumentals....steals the hearts and imaginations of both younger and older audiences," the concert description states.

On Friday, November 26, the Lincoln stage will be host to the play "Amahl and the Night Visitors—"A musical celebration of Christmas .....the perfect seasonal theatrical experience for the entire family." Live professional theatre is almost always good, and we would expect this to be no exception.

Then comes the hint of high brow with the "Quintet of the Americas" on Friday, February 25. The concert description states "Quintet of the Americas plays with such warmth, life, style and beauty as to enthrall every audience....fantastic voyages of discovery into new worlds of musical enjoyment." But the photo shows guys in tuxes holding woodwinds and a gal with a French horn and that's a fairly reliable tip-off to the classics.

Final concert on Sunday, May 1, is entitled "Travelin' Light" and appears to be one man with a big brass horn, a hat, and a tie made out of 1950's wallpaper. "If your taste runs to happy, uncomplicated jazz, Travelin' Light will be pure joy from start to finish. Don't miss it," states the billing sheet.

Now that sounds like a pretty good variety of musical and dramatic entertainment brought right to your doorstep. And by today's price standards its dirt cheap, even if you only venture out for two or three of the evenings.

So send your $9 or $20 or $48 to the Thief River Falls Concert Association, P.O. Box 312, Thief River Falls, MN 56701 in time for the first concert, or stop in at The Times, Kezar Music, Hugo's or Jubilee Foods to purchase your membership. Or you can call Lorraine Seaverson at 681-7446 if you have questions.

Newspapers Strip Away Blinders

Guest Editorial

Estes Park, CO. Trail-Gazette

Without newspapers, we would live our lives with blinders on.

Apart from friends and family members, few recognize another person's magic moments.

Births, school achievements, marriages, work accomplishments, social functions, public service efforts, illnesses and death would remain confined to a small circle of friends if it were not for the common denominator of newspapers, which serve as the town crier to let others know of community events.

The clippings that fill scrapbooks are treasured parchments that detail milemarkers along the path of life—lives shared with others because of a communal and vicarious interest in the fate of our fellow man.

But newspapers are so much more.

They are documentarians, an ongoing and continually updated history book of a community's and the nation's cultural, social and political values.

They mirror crime and punishment, war and peace, space and time, life and death and even what we're watching on television for a given period of our lives.

Stories and pictures portrayed on a stage of ink and paper can make us laugh and cry. They can be passed from one person to another, or they can be beamed across the world with satellite technology that makes the uncommon seem common because of the widespread distribution now available to the print medium.

And of course newspapers are our personal watchdog for the process of democracy.

When our city council, state legislature or federal representatives make decisions that touch us personally, we are alerted to the actions by the ever-present press. Adding to our understanding, those actions are subjected to comment and analysis that help shape views that help shape our world.

Conversely, when politicians run afoul of the process, newspapers spread the word, often with painstaking detail, to help us exercise our duty to right the wrongs and to get the system back on track.

Oh, how naive and lonely we would be were it not for the daily or weekly chronicle of events that we can spread across our breakfast table or fold comfortably as we settle into our easy chair.

Imagine how misinformed we would be if we relied on second and third-hand stories passed from one neighbor to another, or how we would paste a snippet of a memory in a scrapbook if our blinders deprived us of the written word.

Freedom of the press is one of the Constitution's most valued rights; the privilege of enjoying a newspaper is one of life's most treasured moments.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

Why do you want to live in a small community? Why do you live so far north? These are only two of the questions I was asked when Del and I moved to Brooks. But recently I found out exactly why I love northwestern Minnesota.

My sister was diagnosed with breast cancer several weeks ago. I can't even begin to describe the outpouring of love, concern and caring that has been shown to my family. We have received cards, gifts of money to help defer some of the cost of traveling to the Cities, people have supplied meals and many, many prayers have been said.

Where else on earth can there be so many wonderful people? Thank you one and all and may God bless you for being such good friends to me. I wouldn't want to live anywhere else!

Sincerely,
Cindy Determan

My sister was diagnosed with breast cancer several weeks ago. I can't even begin to describe the outpouring of love, concern and caring that has been shown to my family. We have received cards, gifts of money to help defer some of the cost of traveling to the Cities, people have supplied meals and many, many prayers have been said.

Where else on earth can there be so many wonderful people? Thank you one and all and may God bless you for being such good friends to me. I wouldn't want to live anywhere else!

Sincerely,
Cindy Determan

NOTICE OF HEARING PLANNING COMMISSION CITY OF THIEF RIVER FALLS

Notice is hereby given, pursuant to Chapter 11 of the Thief River Falls City Code, that the Planning Commission of the City of Thief River Falls is initiating an Amendment to the Zoning of certain properties located in Noreen's First Addition. The properties are legally described as Lots 20 - 25 in Block Four and Lots 1 - 23 in Block Six of Noreen's First Addition to the City of Thief River Falls.

The above described Lots are presently zoned R-1 Suburban Residential District. The Lots, as platted, do not conform to the minimum Yard Requirements and, specifically, the minimum lot frontage required for the Suburban Residential District.

The Planning Commission proposes to recommend that the City Council amend the zoning of the above described Lots from R-1 to R-2 General Residential District. The proposed Zoning Amendment, if approved, would mean that the Lots, as platted, would meet the Minimum Yard requirements for the R-2 District.

Notice is further given, that the Planning Commission will conduct a Hearing on the proposed Zoning Amendment at approximately 7:40 P.M. (CDT), following a Board of Zoning Appeals Hearing, on Monday, October 25, 1993, in the City Council Chambers, City Auditorium, 123 Main Avenue North. Persons wishing to comment on the proposed Zoning Amendment will have the option to be heard at this time. Persons wishing to submit comments prior to the Hearing or who have questions should address them to the Office of the Community Development Director, City Auditorium, P.O. Box 528, Thief River Falls, MN 56701, or telephone 218-681-2500.

Be an organ donor. . . it's the chance of a lifetime!

You probably already know somebody who has benefited from having a transplant. In fact, you, or someone close to you may need a transplant someday, because it can happen to anyone at any age.

It happened, right here in Thief River Falls. Gary Rux and his family know first hand, the importance of organ donation. Gary received his new heart in November of 1992 and today is back at work and feeling great!

Organ transplantion is one of this century's medical triumphs. It has become a routine practice that can dramatically improve - and even save - the lives of those suffering from vital organ failure. Thanks to people like you, who make the committment to give others a second chance, people like Gary can return to living normal, productive lives.

Do you know what to do?

How do you become a donor? It's easy. Tell your family your decision...that's all there is to it. Public education is underway to correct common misconceptions about donor cards and driver licenses and to inform the public that the key step is family communications

Learn more about organ donation at a free public presentation on Tuesday, October 19, 1993 at 7:00 p.m. at the Eagles Club in Thief River Falls. Representatives from Northwest Medical Center and LifeSource (the federally assigned organization to manage all organ donation activities in this area) will present information about organ donation.

Also, you will have the privilege of listening to a local family's story of how organ donation has changed their lives. Thief River Falls resident, Gary Rux, will tell the story of his illness and eventual heart transplant in the fall of 1992. Gary is a sincere and enthusiastic speaker that "has been there."

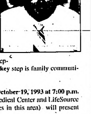
Be an organ donor. . . it's the chance of a lifetime!

You probably already know somebody who has benefited from having a transplant. In fact, you, or someone close to you may need a transplant someday, because it can happen to anyone at any age.

It happened, right here in Thief River Falls. Gary Rux and his family know first hand, the importance of organ donation. Gary received his new heart in November of 1992 and today is back at work and feeling great!



Organ transplantation is one of this century's medical triumphs. It has become a routine practice that can dramatically improve - and even save - the lives of those suffering from vital organ failure. Thanks to people like you, who make the committment to give others a second chance, people like Gary can return to living normal, productive lives.

Do you know what to do?

How do you become a donor? It's easy. Tell your family your decision...that's all there is to it. Public education is underway to correct common misconceptions about donor cards and driver licenses and to inform the public that the key step is family communications

Learn more about organ donation at a free public presentation on Tuesday, October 19, 1993 at 7:00 p.m. at the Eagles Club in Thief River Falls. Representatives from Northwest Medical Center and LifeSource (the federally assigned organization to manage all organ donation activities in this area) will present information about organ donation.

Also, you will have the privilege of listening to a local family's story of how organ donation has changed their lives. Thief River Falls resident, Gary Rux, will tell the story of his illness and eventual heart transplant in the fall of 1992. Gary is a sincere and enthusiastic speaker that "has been there."

School projects on schedule

Reports given to the School District 564 board of education at its meeting October 11 indicated that the Challenger elementary and Lincoln high school building projects remain on schedule.

Jim Haspas, superintendent on the elementary school, updated the board on that project's progress. Steve Porkkonen, Lincoln high school project superintendent, presented the report on that phase of the district's building program.

Establishment of a technology advisory committee was approved by the board, subject to revision when the Challenger elementary school is completed. Named to the committee were David L. Peterson, Mary Almquist, Jane Miller, Peter Tri, Jim Kotz, Dick Tyler and Lois Bergland.

Following discussion on how to handle the new parking lot at Lincoln, the consensus of the board was that parking spaces should be available to users on a first come, first served basis.

Recognized for recently completing their high school graduation requirements through the Area Learning Center were Leah Kuzel, Kari Olson and Anthony Perfecto of Lincoln and Stacie Kutzorik of Staples.

Recognition was also given to the Class of 1973 for donating $100 to the high school art department in memory of Randy Rux and to Dan Shafland for donating Word Perfect computer software to the district.

Construction of additions to Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls is well underway with footings being laid at the present time. The activity is on the south side of the school in the area where two old buildings were removed to make room for the new construction. Plans are to enclose the additions so that interior work can be done during the winter months and have the facilities ready for use in the fall of 1994. The school's music and drama departments will be primary beneficiaries.

TRFAHA receives stay on gambling suspension order

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Minnesota Lawful Gambling Control Board granted a stay of its suspension of the permises permit for lawful gambling by TRFAHA at the Rusty Nail in Thief River Falls until the matter can be appealed, according to the attorney for the Thief River Falls Amateur Hockey Association (TRFAHA), Kurt Marben.

The suspension of the permises permit by the Minnesota Lawful Gambling Control Board stems from a finding that illegal gambling had taken place at the Rusty Nail. According to the findings of fact, accumulated by the board, agents of the Gambling Enforcement Division entered the Rusty Nail on January 25, 1993, for the purpose of investigating whether an illegal lottery was being conducted. According to the statements given by one of the special agents, he was able to purchase a spot on a sports board at the board. However, when the agent returned on January 29 with a warrant, they could not find any evidence that illegal gambling had taken place at the bar.

When the suspension was ordered on September 21, Marben said the hockey association intended to appeal the decision. Whether the hockey association went through with the appeal depended, to some extent, on whether the board would grant a stay of its order. Without the stay, the appeal process might not have begun before the one year suspension ran its course.

Marben has argued for TRFAHA that the rule which provides for the automatic suspension of a premises permit held by an organizationlicensed to do lawful gambling if illegal gambling occurs upon the premises is unconstitutional and invalid. In a nut shell, the rule penalizes the permit holder for any illegal gambling at a business from which it leases space regardless of the permit holder's knowledge of the illegal gambling. In this instance, Marben is arguing that the Gambling Control board admitted that TRFAHA neither knew about nor participated in any illegal gambling at the Rusty Nail bar.

He also argues that the suspension would have a dramatic and devastating effect upon the youth hockey program. TRFAHA spent approximately $87,000 on its youth hockey program from September 1992 through April 1993. Pre-tax dollars collected through lawful gambling activity at the Rusty Nail from June of 1992 to April fo 1993 totaled $94,493. Lawful gambling at the Rusty Nail produced 74.6 per cent of TRFAHA's after-tax profits of $57,457.

Citizens upset about 1993 utility improvements in TRF

by David Hill
Associate Editor

About a dozen people were in attendance at the public hearing on the 1993 Thief River Falls sidewalk and utilities assessment hearing Tuesday night at the Heritage Community Center. Most of those in attendance had something negative to say about the storm sewer installed in the Oakland Park area. Most said it was an unnecessary expense that had little or no benefit to their property.

Howard Thorson, a property owner in the area of the Oakland Park road improvements, said the improvements would not have been made without the requests of Bridgeman's and the school district for the new school.

In one of the three letters sent to the city registering objects to the assessment, a property owner suggested that since the improvements were not really necessary, assessments should be delayed until the improvements become a benefit to property owners.

Tom Dondelinger, another property owner in the area of the Oakland Park road improvements, was upset with the cost of the assessments and wanted to know what appeal process was available to him.

One property owner sent a written objection to the assessment through his attorney.

For his part, Ron Lindberg, city technical services and engineering director, remained calm and tried to answer all of the questions or accusations. He explained that storm sewer assessments were never very popular because the assessment is based on the area of the property and property owners don't always see a benefit, even though it exists. In addition he pointed out that property owners are paying only a fraction of the total cost of the improvement and the city or taxpayers were picking up a majority of the cost. The total cost of storm sewer improvements was $70,600. The city anticipates recovering only $18,700 in assessments to property owners.

The storm sewer improvement was only one element of the 1993 sidewalk and utilities improvement project. The total cost of utilties improvements was $575,966.05 and for sidewalk replacement the total cost was $160,250.75.

The first public hearing regarding the improvements was held on March 16. Sidewalk replacement began on June 1. By July 27, work was completed on Conley, St. Paul, Markley, Tindolph, Merriam and Kneale avenues south of First street and Knight Avenue from Second street to Third street. Property owners were assessed for 80 per cent of the frontage rate on sidewalk improvements. The city would pay for 20 per cent of the frontage cost plus 100 per cent of the side street costs. The assessment rate for property owners was $10 per foot. The square foot cost was $2.22 per square foot. In comparison, local construction rates are $2.50 to $3.20 per square foot. The city also paid for 78 handicap ramps which were installed at intersections.

Boulevard entrance walks were assessed at $2.60 per square foot and all property owners were given a credit of five square feet for grade corrections required to match the new mainline sidewalk.

Driveway replacements requested by property owners were assessed at $26.50 per square yard and curb replacement at $10.30 per lineal foot.

The utility improvements portion of the project included extensions of water mains on Pennington Avenue and Highway 32, south to County Road 61, and the looping of two mains by installing a 12-inch water main across the river at County Road 61, (Davidson Drive). Looping was necessary to provide an uninterruptible water supply and adequate fire protection to the new elementary school and the existing industrial and residential areas in the south part of the City. Looping at that location also allowed the City to extend a 12-inch water main to the airport at the request of the State Technical College. To complete the airport portion of the project a 500,000 gallon ground storage reservoir will be installed in the summer of 1994 and will circulate water between the City and the airport.

Cost of these water main improvements are being funded by School District 564 ($55,000), the State Technical College ($163,000) and the City ($308,000). The city

NW Medical Center to offer reduced cost mammograms all year

October 18 through 29 are the American Cancer Society's Breast Cancer Detection Awareness Project kick off dates. However, beginning October 18, Northwest Medical Center and the Falls clinic, in cooperation with the American Cancer Society, will provide mammography screening to well women at a reduced charge during the entire year. Previously, mammogram screening was done at a reduced rate only during the month of November. It is anticipated that the expanded length of time will make it possible for all area women who wish to receive a mammogram to do so.

Orvel Stocks, Radiology Department Head, states that this screening is for any woman who is well and desires a mammogram. If women have symptoms of a problem, such as discharge or lumps, or have a history of cancer, they will be urged to contact their physician for an examination and possible future mammogram.

Stocks said women interested in receiving a mammogram during this 12-month period should not contact the medical center, but call the American Cancer Society at 1-800-227-2345. They will receive educational materials, and, if they meet qualifications, a slip authorizing a low-cost mammogram at a charge of $55. They may then make an appointment for their mammogram at Northwest Medical Center and the results of the tests will be sent to their physician.

Patients who do not qualify for the low-cost mammograms will receive educational materials and be encouraged to contact their family physicians for an examination and other appropriate follow-up.

The American Cancer Society says that most states now require insurance companies to cover or partially cover the cost of a mammogram, which is generally between $100 and $125. Most states also provide coverage under Medicaid, and mammograms every two years for women over 65 who are covered by Medicare. Medicare patients who wish a mammogram are also invited to take advantage of the 12-month screening period at Northwest Medical Center.

A mammogram is an X-ray of the breast used by doctors to detect breast cancer early. Mammography can reveal the presence of small cancers up to two years before they can be felt by a woman or her physician. With early diagnosis and treatment, there is a 90 per cent chance of surviving breast cancer.

Since the risk of breast cancer increases with age, all women who are 50 years of age or older should add mammograms to a health routine that includes monthly breast self-examinations and annual physician breast examinations. Those between 40 and 49 should have a mammogram at least every two years.

During the mammogram procedure, the doctor or a technician will ask the patient to remove her clothing from the waist up and will position her in front of the X-ray machine. Two smooth plates will be placed around one of the breasts to flatten it so the greatest amount of tissue can be examined. Sometimes the pressure of the plates causes brief discomfort. After one X-ray, the process is repeated on the other breast. Modern equipment and techniques assure that the process exposes the patient to a very low dose of radiation.

If you have any questions on the 12-month breast screening program, feel free to contact Orvel Stocks, Department Head, Radiology, Northwest Medical Center, 120 South LaBree Avenue, Thief River Falls, MN 56701, telephone 681-4240.

Campanula club reports on Sept. & Oct. meetings

The September meeting of the Campanula Garden club was held at the home of Pat Hoostine with 10 members present. She opened the meeting by reading the September poem, "Odo."

Viola Koglin showed a video entitled "Gardening From the Ground Up," in which many flowers grown from bulbs were shown and explained. It was noted that bulbs should be planted at a specific depth in order to bloom all summer.

During the social hour, a luncheon was served by the hostess and the birthday song was sung in honor of Ruth Holmes. The remainder of the afternoon was spent viewing the hostess's landscaped lawn, flowers and flower beds and potted plant-filled deck. Members enjoyed viewing a waterfall by the river. They were presented with plant roots and a plant exchange concluded the meeting.

The October meeting of the garden club was a 1 p.m. luncheon at the home of President Ruth Holmes. She presided at the meeting and led members in reading of the club creed and October poem, Emily Dickinson's "The Wind Took Up the Northern Things," and gave a brief history of Dickinson's life.

Motion was made that the club give a monetary gift to the Hospice Program, since all of the helpful services they do for others is so appreciated by the members. Viola Koglin reported on her visit to the district horticultural fall meeting in Grand Forks, which was hosted by the Plant and Share Garden club.

Campanula members discussed winter care of impatiens and the planting of flower bulbs. Members named some bulbs they have planted.

Bernice Knutson presented an article she had written on the enjoyment she finds in arranging flowers for her church. Of special interest to the members was Ruth Holmes" album of photographs of members attending various garden club events.

Deer Park Garden club held October meeting

Eight members of the Deer Park Garden club and a guest, Alice Johnson, met at the home of Bea Israelson, vice president, on October 12. Roll call response was the name of a potted plant brought into the house for winter.

Business included reports by Evelyn Myrum on "Save the Soo Line Depot in TRF," reports by Dorothy Svanjord and Lois Swanson on the annual district meeting in Roseau, and brief remarks by Lois Swanson on the state horticultural conference in Nisswa that was held in September,

Lois Swanson presented the program for the month, "How to Make a Forsythe Pot." Clay pots, plastic pots and vermiculite were given to each member, along with geranium slips, vine cuttings, African violets and sansivera and the pots were constructed at the meeting.

A surprise pantry shower was held for Bea Israelson, who recently moved to Thief River Falls from her country home.

Lunch was served by the hostess and it was decided that the November meeting will be a craft lesson at the home of Helen Chervestad.

During the social hour, a luncheon was served by the hostess and the birthday song was sung in honor of Ruth Holmes. The remainder of the afternoon was spent viewing the hostess's landscaped lawn, flowers and flower beds and potted plant-filled deck. Members enjoyed viewing a waterfall by the river. They were presented with plant roots and a plant exchange concluded the meeting.

Dear Readers,

One in six pregnancies end in miscarriage or stillbirth. All disappointments and losses carry with them some measure of grief. There is cause for grief and mourning. Often there is unjustified guilt or anger. It is important to talk about your loss and unfulfilled expectations.

Respectfully,

Belmont Funeral Home

Larry Belmont

Dear Readers,

One in six pregnancies end in miscarriage or stillbirth. All disappointments and losses carry with them some measure of grief. There is cause for grief and mourning. Often there is unjustified guilt or anger. It is important to talk about your loss and unfulfilled expectations.

Respectfully,

Amber Peoples to attend Young Leaders conference in Washington, D.C.

Amber Peoples, daughter of Connie Peoples of Thief River Falls, and a junior at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls, has been selected to attend the National Young Leaders Conference from October 26 to 31 in Washington, D.C. The National Young Leaders Conference is a unique leadership development program for outstanding high school students who have demonstrated leadership potential and scholastic merit. Amber will be among 350 students attending the conference from across America.

The theme of the National Young Leaders Conference is The Leaders of Tomorrow Meeting the Leaders of Today. Throughout the six-day conference, Amber will interact with key leaders and newsmakers from the three branches of government, the medical and the diplomatic corps.

Highlights of the program include welcoming remarks from a member of Congress on the Floor of the United States House of Representatives, a panel discussion with prominent journalists at the National Press Club and a private performance by the Capitol Steps, a musical political satire troupe. Scholars will visit foreign embassies and receive policy briefings from senior government officials. Amber may also meet with Sen. David Durenberger, Sen. Paul Wellstone and Rep. Collin Peterson or designated members of their staffs to discuss important issues facing Thief River Falls and the nation.

To complement the special meetings and briefings, Amber will participate in a number of leadership skill building activities. In one activity, a simulation entitled "If I were President", students role-play the President and members of the Cabinet who must respond to an international crisis in the Balkans. Culminating the National Young Leaders Conferences is the Mock Congress on National Service, in which scholars assume the roles of United States Representatives by debating, amending and voting on proposed service legislation.

The National Young Leaders Conference is sponsored by the Congressional Youth Leadership Council, a non-profit, non-partisan educational organization. Founded in 1985, the Council is committed to "fostering and inspiring young people to achieve their full leadership potential." Over 300 members of the United States Congress join this commitment as members of the Council's Honorary Congressional Board of Advisors. Each year, more than 7,000 outstanding youth nationwide participate in one of 20 sessions of the National Young Leaders Conference.

"The conference provides the opportunity for students, like Amber, to distinguish themselves as tomorrow's leaders," said John Hines, council executive director. "Students not only gain knowledge and experience in the nation's capital, they leave with a sense of accomplishment and an increased ability to face the challenges of the future."

Amber is sponsored by Northern State Bank of Thief River Falls. While in Washington, D.C., she will stay at the 4-H Center.

ODC employs ability in workers

Thief River Falls Occupational Development Center (ODC) is joining in the observance of National Disability Employment Awareness Month in October and notes that its program carries out the month's theme of "Energize America—Employ Ability."

"We not only employ the disabled in our several manufacturing and service programs," states Joanie O'Neill, placement specialist at the ODC, "our placement service also helps employers locate dependable, loyal, responsible employees and people with disabilities to find and keep jobs in the community."

O'Neill said that placement personnel provide professional training for people with disabilities, assist them with finding full-time or part-time work and then work with both the employer and employee to assure mutual satisfaction.

Effort is made to match the employee with the job and to make available the necessary on-the-job training by a job coach under an arranged contract. Follow-up is on a long-term basis.

Prior to employment the ODC completes eligibility assessment and Targeted Jobs Tax Credit paperwork and during the first two to three-week community assessment the ODC pays the employee's wages.

Placement options available to employers include individual, job sharing or enclave arrangements. Individual placement involves finding a job for just one person with a disability.

Under job sharing arrangements, two or more persons are employed at one worksite. Under the enclave option, a small group of employees will work in a single business, often in janitorial, groundskeeping, packaging or assembly work.

In the past the ODC has helped a number of individuals to find employment in the community. Currently the ODC has 35 people working at Hardee's, McDonald's, Dairy Queen, Taco John's, Hair Care Center, Bridgeman's, Galaxy Twin Theatre, Northern Motors, Riverside Terrace Apartments, Lee Plumbing & Heating, Wennberg's, Head Start, Northern Pride, Best Western, Forsberg's, Inc., Arctco, Inc. and Digi-Key, Inc.

Those employees are Paula Craig, Tammy Foldoe, Candie Hilligoss, Bruce Jorde, Brian Naplin, Patty Pederson, Kathy Peterson, Roberta Remme, Jeanene Wojciechowski, Kenny Anderson, Paul Rysavy, Rebecca Vagle, Gerry Warren, Bob Leader, Russel Bjerken and Betty Kazmierczak;

Also Gail Larson, Beth Moen, Jody Anderson, Tina Kostrzewski, Wendy Nyberg, Randy Pederson, Kermit Carlson, Eugene Burslie, Jama Borud, Kenneth Ostlund, Paul Johnson, Kari Bowman, Steve Kiesow, Roy Dostal, Luverne Underdahl, Wesley Efshen, Tim Theroux, Charlie Fisher and Mike Ford.

"Americans with disabilities represent a largely untapped pool of skills and an underutilized national resource which, when employed, will greatly contribute to the nation's strength and prosperity now and in the future," O'Neill said. "People with disabilities represent a large and important part of the U.S. labor force. By employing their ability, we energize America."

O'Neill pointed out that according to the 1990 U.S. Census, more than 60 per cent of all working age Americans with disabilities are not participating in the workforce on either a part-time or full-time basis. The 39.3 per cent who are working earn 35 per cent less than their co-workers without disabilities.

Only 56 per cent of the nation's youth with disabilities ever graduate from high school. Almost 37 per cent drop out of high school each year and another seven per cent leave because of "age-out." Is it any wonder that only half of all the students with disabilities find employment, and that of those employed only 50 per cent are employed full-time?

O'Neill pointed out that the lack of labor force participation by people with disabilities costs the nation's economy more than $200 billion annually.

Caramel Apples

As Halloween approaches, you may want to let your children help you get ready by making caramel apples. You will need apples, sticks and caramel candies.

Caramel Apples

Place a package of caramel candies in the top half of a double boiler and melt them over low heat. Stab one stick into each apple and dip it into the caramel. Then place the apples on wax paper until the caramel coating cools and hardens. Then eat!

PARENTING TIPS

Halloween: Fun vs. Fear

Halloween can be an exciting time for both children and adults. However, it can also be a fearful, scary time for young children. For them, a mask is not just a mask: it is Batman or a witch come to life! This does not mean that we have to avoid Halloween. Rather we can use it as an opportunity to teach children the meaning of fantasy or pretend play.

If your child appears to be fearful of masks, costumes, etc., here are some suggestions you might want to try to prepare your child for Halloween:

•Expose your child to some non-threatening masks (animals, Disney characters, etc.). Leave them where the children can look at them and touch them in their own time and way.

•Play with masks in front of a mirror. If your child resists holding a mask up to his face, don't force it.

•Hold a mask over your face and talk in your "normal" voice and then remove the mask so that your child can see that it is really you.

•Remember that young children may not know what is pretend and what is real. So don't rush them. Let them ease into this holiday. It often takes years. The best thing you can do for your child is to understand. Tell your child, "I know those masks are scary to you. Stay close to me. I will not let anyone hurt you."

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Talk to your child about all the Halloween "characters" and decorations. Discuss what is pretend and what is real. Let your child know that you are there to share his or her whole Halloween experience.

Council eliminates employee parking

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Permit parking behind the city auditorium and county courthouse has been eliminated, and a letter and resolution in opposition to unfunded mandates were among the items approved by the Thief River Falls city council Tuesday during a council meeting.

Enforcement of permit parking rules for public employees has been slipping for a number of years. Police Chief Ken Froschheiser said the number of permits granted gradually increased to the point where employees were trying to use their permits and lack of parking in the lot as excuses to park in the street. People wishing to conduct business at the courthouse could rarely find a parking space nearby, and certainly not in the lot employees were using, which was a public parking lot with a 30-minute time limit.

Police Chief Froschheiser said he has already been approached by a number of public employees who are angry about losing parking permits in the lot.

The battle was only half won, however. Chief Froschheiser also wanted to do away with the assigned parking spaces behind the auditorium and courthouse.

The council approved a motion to eliminate the permit parking system and place a two-hour limit on parking in the public parking lot. It also agreed to establish three more reserved parking stalls.

■ The council sends a message to legislators — no more unfunded mandates.

Unfunded mandates are requirements made on local government, which are not funded. They are also a sore point with many local government officials. These unfunded mandates can have a tremendous impact on local government budgets. In Thief River Falls, for example, one unfunded mandate required that the city install a chlorine scrubber at the water treatment plant. The scrubber cost the city over a quarter of a million dollars.

Tuesday, the council approved the adoption of a resolution supporting "Unfunded Mandates Day", which is sponsored by the League of Minnesota Cities and another national organization. Included in the resolution was approval to send a letter to legislators stating the city's opposition to unfunded mandates.

■ The council receives a list of consultants for the restructuring process.

The city's restructuring committee will look at a list of consultants who can provide services needed for the proposed restructuring of city government in Thief River Falls. Alderman Don Barron provided the council with a list of seven possible consultants and asked that if anyone is aware of others, to add their names to the list.

At this point, the council is just talking about hiring a consultant. Mayor Robert Reeve assured the council and audience that once the process begins the city will involve as many people as possible.

■ The council hears complaints about high school students.

Residents who live north of Lincoln high school are upset about students smoking in their neighborhood and leaving behind pop cans and other trash.

Alderman Dave Carlson said he received contacts from a number of residents in the area concerned about the activities of the students. Carlson, who is a dispatcher/jailer at the law enforcement center in Thief River Falls, said the callers realize that the resources of police are limited and that "throwing more police at the situation won't solve the problem." He added that there is some fear by property owners of retribution by students. Carlson did suggest that the item be brought before the Public Safety committee and then proposed a meeting with the Lincoln high school student council.

■ The council moves to collect on one loan and grants another.

The council has approved a resolution to begin the collection process on three outstanding notes (loans) and delinquent interest owed by Doug's Inc. (Doug Dehnert and USS). The loans were made several years ago by the Community Development Advisory Board. The resolution was approved with the intent of putting the issue on the official record. Community Development Director Don Stewart said a meeting with Doug's Inc. has been scheduled for October 20 at which time they hope to clear up problems regarding repayment of $58,678 in loans and $11,296 in delinquent interest.

Following a recommendation from the CDAB to approve a loan to Northern Woodwork Inc., the council approved a resolution which would allow a loan of $142,177 to be made for a period of five years at an annual rate of interest of 5 per cent.

Northern Woodwork proposes to purchase and install new equipment at a total estimated project cost of $322,195. They requested a loan of $142,177, which represented 44 per cent of the project cost. It is estimated that the project will result in the creation of 10 additional jobs and keep the company in a competitive position in the market.

In other business, the council: read and adopted an ordinance changing the zoning for Dee's Kitchen; approved the submission of the Heritage Community center for a charitable gambling premises permit; approved a progression raise for Police Officer Denielle Winskowski; hired two employees for the liquor store; approved a recommendation to advertise for a tree trimmer; appointed Rick Nelson to the Community Development Comprehensive Plan committee; approved an agreement to charge $1,000 for concession rental to TRFAHA; approved a progression raise for Jeff Joppru.

The project was completed with help of Troop 59 scouts and leaders, Smiley 4-H club members and adults and adult advisor Kirby McFarlane.

In addition to his scout work, Chad is an active member of the Smiley 4-H club where he has been treasurer for one year and vice president for two years. Students ask information on Minnesota

Fifth grade students Andrea Vaverka and Jodi Werts from Prescott elementary school in Lincoln, NE, have adopted Minnesota as the state to study for a class project.

They have requested "postcards of your state, maps, brochures, information about wildlife, industry, neat places and any other information or items your readers feel could be helpful."

Anyone interested in helping the youngsters with their project may send the items to Andrea Vaverka and Jodi Werts, Prescott Elementary, Mr. Goodrich's Class, 1930 South 20th Street, Lincoln, NE 68502.

Citizens upset about utility improvements

will recover part of its cost by assessing residential, industrial and commercial buildings at $100 and $1,000 respectively, for looping benefit. The elementary school and Abundant Life Church sites will also be assessed $12.90 per foot for lateral benefit, compared with the $15 per foot mentioned at the project hearing. In the future, anyone not now having City water and wanting to connect to the new system will pay a connection fee of at least $12.90 per foot and $100 per residential lot. The airport reservoir will be funded with about $357,000 in State Technical College funds and $120,000 in City funds.

Expansion of facilities at the Bridgeman trucking site on Highway 32 South required that the City install sanitary sewer to the site. Sewer was extended from the east of Oakland Park road, through the Robson property, and then along the old County Road number 76 right-of-way. At the same time a 10-inch water main was installed parallel with the sewer to loop the water main on Oakland Park road with the main along Highway 32. Water main benefits assessed would be the same as previously mentioned.

The properties abutting and benefiting from the sanitary sewer improvements would be assessed at $19.20 per foot compared with the $21 per foot mentioned at the project hearing. Agricultural property and undeveloped residential property, not immediately abutting Oakland Park road, will be charged future sewer connection fees of at least $19.20 per foot.

A 30-inch diameter storm sewer was also installed across the Robson property from the Red Lake River to Oakland Park Road to intercept existing surface drainage and to allow for future street improvements to Oakland Park road. The storm sewer is sized to accept drainage from 33 acres including agriculture land west of Oakland Park Road and residential Oakland Park second addition. The cost of the storm sewer improvements was $70,600 and benefiting properties will be assessed at a 50 per cent benefit rate of .045 cents per-square-foot to recover $18,700 of the project cost. Properties along Sommerset and Cameo Drives and properties not abutting Oakland Park road will be charged assessment benefits when future development requires drainage into this system.

Sanitary sewer and water mains were also extended south of Greenwood Street, east of County Ditch No. 1, to serve the Pioneer Court development site. Cost of a portion of the improvements will be assessed at benefit rates of $12.90 per foot for water and $19.20 per foot for sanitary sewer against the Pioneer Court property and the abutting unplatted property to the south.

The total project cost of the installed improvements is $896,600 and the proposed assessment roll will recover $472,000 of those costs. An additional $124,000 will be spent for wastewater pond improvements along with the $477,000 previously noted for the airport water storage reservoir.

Thief River Falls city council members will consider the comments made at the hearing Tuesday night and probably make a final decision on the proposed assessment roll at its next meeting.

School projects are on schedule

Employment was approved for Shanna Engelstad, transportation assistant for approximately seven and one-half hours a week; Lordes Holmes as kitchen helper at Lincoln for two hours a day; Diane Grembowski and Lana Nelson as kitchen helpers at Franklin, each for two hours a day.

Council eliminates employee parking

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Permit parking behind the city auditorium and county courthouse has been eliminated, and a letter and resolution in opposition to unfunded mandates were among the items approved by the Thief River Falls city council Tuesday during a council meeting.

Enforcement of permit parking rules for public employees has been slipping for a number of years. Police Chief Ken Froschheiser said the number of permits granted gradually increased to the point where employees were trying to use their permits and lack of parking in the lot as excuses to park in the street. People wishing to conduct business at the courthouse could rarely find a parking space nearby, and certainly not in the lot employees were using, which was a public parking lot with a 30-minute time limit.

Police Chief Froschheiser said he has already been approached by a number of public employees who are angry about losing parking permits in the lot.

The battle was only half won, however. Chief Froschheiser also wanted to do away with the assigned parking spaces behind the auditorium and courthouse.

The council approved a motion to eliminate the permit parking system and place a two-hour limit on parking in the public parking lot. It also agreed to establish three more reserved parking stalls.

■ The council sends a message to legislators — no more unfunded mandates.

Unfunded mandates are requirements made on local government, which are not funded. They are also a sore point with many local government officials. These unfunded mandates can have a tremendous impact on local government budgets. In Thief River Falls, for example, one unfunded mandate required that the city install a chlorine scrubber at the water treatment plant. The scrubber cost the city over a quarter of a million dollars.

Tuesday, the council approved the adoption of a resolution supporting "Unfunded Mandates Day", which is sponsored by the League of Minnesota Cities and another national organization. Included in the resolution was approval to send a letter to legislators stating the city's opposition to unfunded mandates.

■ The council receives a list of consultants for the restructuring process.

The city's restructuring committee will look at a list of consultants who can provide services needed for the proposed restructuring of city government in Thief River Falls. Alderman Don Barron provided the council with a list of seven possible consultants and asked that if anyone is aware of others, to add their names to the list.

At this point, the council is just talking about hiring a consultant. Mayor Robert Reeve assured the council and audience that once the process begins the city will involve as many people as possible.

■ The council hears complaints about high school students.

Residents who live north of Lincoln high school are upset about students smoking in their neighborhood and leaving behind pop cans and other trash.

Alderman Dave Carlson said he received contacts from a number of residents in the area concerned about the activities of the students. Carlson, who is a dispatcher/jailer at the law enforcement center in Thief River Falls, said the callers realize that the resources of police are limited and that "throwing more police at the situation won't solve the problem." He added that there is some fear by property owners of retribution by students. Carlson did suggest that the item be brought before the Public Safety committee and then proposed a meeting with the Lincoln high school student council.

■ The council moves to collect on one loan and grants another.

The council has approved a resolution to begin the collection process on three outstanding notes (loans) and delinquent interest owed by Doug's Inc. (Doug Dehnert and USS). The loans were made several years ago by the Community Development Advisory Board. The resolution was approved with the intent of putting the issue on the official record. Community Development Director Don Stewart said a meeting with Doug's Inc. has been scheduled for October 20 at which time they hope to clear up problems regarding repayment of $58,678 in loans and $11,296 in delinquent interest.

Following a recommendation from the CDAB to approve a loan to Northern Woodwork Inc., the council approved a resolution which would allow a loan of $142,177 to be made for a period of five years at an annual rate of interest of 5 per cent.

Northern Woodwork proposes to purchase and install new equipment at a total estimated project cost of $322,195. They requested a loan of $142,177, which represented 44 per cent of the project cost. It is estimated that the project will result in the creation of 10 additional jobs and keep the company in a competitive position in the market.

In other business, the council: read and adopted an ordinance changing the zoning for Dee's Kitchen; approved the submission of the Heritage Community center for a charitable gambling premises permit; approved a progression raise for Police Officer Denielle Winskowski; hired two employees for the liquor store; approved a recommendation to advertise for a tree trimmer; appointed Rick Nelson to the Community Development Comprehensive Plan committee; approved an agreement to charge $1,000 for concession rental to TRFAHA; approved a progression raise for Jeff Joppru.

Chad has attended three summer and three winter camps at Camp Wilderness as well as many camporees and Order of the Arrow conclaves. He is a brotherhood member of Chapter 12, Order of the Arrow, an honorary camping society of the Boy Scouts of America. He has also been a member of Explorer Post 112 since 1992.

Chad's Eagle project consisted of assembling and painting eight picnic tables for the 4-H food stand at the Pennington County Fair. The tables were used at Oakland Park Nursing Home for the remainder of the summer. The project was completed with help of Troop 59 scouts and leaders, Smiley 4-H club members and adults and adult advisor Kirby McFarlane.

In addition to his scout work, Chad is an active member of the Smiley 4-H club where he has been treasurer for one year and vice president for two years. He has been on 4-H Knowledge Bowl teams for four years. He was on the dairy team for two years, advancing to the state both years and placing second in the state one year, and for the past two years has been on the poultry team, advancing to the state one year. He has received a number of grand championships at the Pennington county fair and taken four projects to the state fair where he has received one grand championship on forestry.

A junior this year at Lincoln high school, Chad has been on the B honor roll and is active in the weightlifting program. He is a confirmed member of St. Pauli Lutheran Church.

At the court of honor Elaine Idso played the prelude and scouts from Pack and Troop 59 presenting the colors were Kelly Josephson, Chris Pribula, Ryan Wang, Curtis Ness, Ryan Broden and Anthony Wold. Scout Brian School was master of ceremonies, Heidi Hoks sang "The Star Spangled Banner" and DeeJay Donlin gave the invocation and read a message from Rev. Terri Jo Skildum.

Welcome was given by Peter Lavalier and Donna Josephson led the candle lighting ceremony with Scouts Brad Kostrzewski and Brent Johnson lighting the candles.

Jim Hoks presented an Eagle Portrait with the following participating: DeeJay Donlin, representing the church; Herb and Darlene Torstveit, Chad's godparents; Jim Kotz, representing the school; Sharon Larson and Linda Helgeland, representing 4-H; Lowell Hoffard and Al Rux, Chad's former cubmasters, representing Pack 59; Mike Melby and Donna Josephson, representing the scout committee; former scoutmaster Garry Schoon and current scoutmaster Gary Johnson, representing Troop 59; and Chad's mother Valarie and grandmother Thelma Torstveit.

Letters and greetings were read by Scout leaders, and Chad presented his Eagle Scout message. Rev. Dennis Raymond gave the closing prayer and benediction. The colors were retired by the Scouts with the singing of "My Country 'Tis of Thee." Taps were played by Scout Jim Lehrer and Scout Devin Galizia distributed the programs. Elaine Idso played the recessional.

A reception followed in the church fellowship hall with Chad's cousins—Heather, Allyson and Seth Torstveit— serving the punch. Darlene Torstveit and Dawne Broten cut and served the cake and Elinor Torstveit and Dodie Torkelson poured the coffee.

Fifth grade students Andrea Vaverka and Jodi Werts from Prescott elementary school in Lincoln, NE, have adopted Minnesota as the state to study for a class project.

They have requested "postcards of your state, maps, brochures, information about wildlife, industry, neat places and any other information or items your readers feel could be helpful."

Anyone interested in helping the youngsters with their project may send the items to Andrea Vaverka and Jodi Werts, Prescott Elementary, Mr. Goodrich's Class, 1930 South 20th Street, Lincoln, NE 68502.

Citizens upset about utility improvements

will recover part of its cost by assessing residential, industrial and commercial buildings at $100 and $1,000 respectively, for looping benefit. The elementary school and Abundant Life Church sites will also be assessed $12.90 per foot for lateral benefit, compared with the $15 per foot mentioned at the project hearing. In the future, anyone not now having City water and wanting to connect to the new system will pay a connection fee of at least $12.90 per foot and $100 per residential lot. The airport reservoir will be funded with about $357,000 in State Technical College funds and $120,000 in City funds.

Expansion of facilities at the Bridgeman trucking site on Highway 32 South required that the City install sanitary sewer to the site. Sewer was extended from the east of Oakland Park road, through the Robson property, and then along the old County Road number 76 right-of-way. At the same time a 10-inch water main was installed parallel with the sewer to loop the water main on Oakland Park road with the main along Highway 32. Water main benefits assessed would be the same as previously mentioned.

The properties abutting and benefiting from the sanitary sewer improvements would be assessed at $19.20 per foot compared with the $21 per foot mentioned at the project hearing. Agricultural property and undeveloped residential property, not immediately abutting Oakland Park road, will be charged future sewer connection fees of at least $19.20 per foot.

A 30-inch diameter storm sewer was also installed across the Robson property from the Red Lake River to Oakland Park Road to intercept existing surface drainage and to allow for future street improvements to Oakland Park road. The storm sewer is sized to accept drainage from 33 acres including agriculture land west of Oakland Park Road and residential Oakland Park second addition. The cost of the storm sewer improvements was $70,600 and benefiting properties will be assessed at a 50 per cent benefit rate of .045 cents per square foot to recover $18,700 of the project cost. Properties along Sommerset and Cameo Drives and properties not abutting Oakland Park road will be charged assessment benefits when future development requires drainage into this system.

Sanitary sewer and water mains were also extended south of Greenwood Street, east of County Ditch No. 1, to serve the Pioneer Court development site. Cost of a portion of the improvements will be assessed at benefit rates of $12.90 per foot for water and $19.20 per foot for sanitary sewer against the Pioneer Court property and the abutting unplatted property to the south.

The total project cost of the installed improvements is $896,600 and the proposed assessment roll will recover $472,000 of those costs. An additional $124,000 will be spent for wastewater pond improvements along with the $477,000 previously noted for the airport water storage reservoir.

Thief River Falls city council members will consider the comments made at the hearing Tuesday night and probably make a final decision on the proposed assessment roll at its next meeting.

School projects are on schedule

The board viewed a Minnesota Department of Education video on graduation standards and Supt. Robert Duncan reported on how results-oriented graduation outcomes relate to the curriculum, instruction, assessment and staff development process currently used in our district.

Appointment of Glenn Chiodo as teacher on special assignment (assistant to the principal at Franklin middle school) was approved for the remainder of the 1993-94 school year. Kathy Davis was recalled from layoff as educational assistant at Knox for four hours a day.

Employment was approved for Shaana Engelstad, transportation assistant for approximately seven and one-half hours a week; Lordes Holmes as kitchen helper at Lincoln for two hours a day; Diane Grembowski and Lana Nelson as kitchen helpers at Franklin, each for two hours a day.

Membership in the Northern Coalition Teacher Center was approved for the 1993-94 school year and authorization was given to initiate plans for a Close-up Program trip to Washington, DC, from February 27 to March 5, 1994.

Young wheat growers may win awards

Young Minnesota wheat farmers are eligible to enter an essay contest in which two $750 leadership development awards will be given away. A total of 40 grants will be awarded to participating state associations of the National Association of Wheat Growers (NAWG).

The program is designed to acquaint young wheat farmers with the association's organizational structure, leadership development, policy development and the educational aspects of wheat organizational meetings.

The $750 awards will help defray the costs for winners to participate in their choice of either the national convention in New Orleans, LA, in January or the NAWG summer leadership conference in Snowbird, UT, next July.

Any Minnesota wheat farmer between the ages of 20 and 35 who has not previously won a trip to either of the meetings mentioned above is eligible to enter. Entries are judged by a committee with winners selected on the basis of essay answers to three questions.

Entry forms may be obtained by writing the Minnesota Association of Wheat Growers, 2600 Wheat Drive, Red Lake Falls, MN 56750 or calling 253-4311 or 1-800-242-6118. Deadline for entering the contest is November 5.

IMPRESSIONS

Beth Johnson

I have finally reached that goal in life that twenty years ago I thought would be the unthinkable. I have reached the time of my 20th reunion from college. Twenty years ago, when I graduated, I guess that I could maybe foresee my 5th reunion, and maybe even my 10th reunion, but to be one of those in the 20th reunion class seemed somehow so—middle-aged. And, at the ripe age of 21, I was never going to be middle-aged!!

But, here I am, a member of the 20th reunion class from North Park College. My reunion will actually be held during the college's homecoming festivities which don't occur until the last weekend of this month. I have no plans of going to this reunion. But, plans to attend or not, I am intrigued by what the class of 1973 has accomplished.

I have received from the school a couple of mailings about this reunion of mine. One mailing is strictly the events of the week and weekend. It details plays and dinners and accommodations and basic homecoming events such as the football game. It also gives me a place where I may respond and send a check to the school for the various events I plan on attending.

Another mailing has been for the very special event that will be happening during those days of festivities. For, during this homecoming time, the school's new chapel will be duly dedicated. As a pastor's wife I've been invited to this special dedication ceremony.

The dedication of this new chapel brings to mind the chapel of my days at college. The chapel then was a large gymnasium-looking room with a stage up front. Folding chairs could be lined up for chapel services. I never felt it was a place to worship. Hopefully this new building will provide for the students of this church college a place to worship.

But, back to the mailings I've received regarding my 20th reunion. One of the mailings is infinitely more intriguing to me than the others. This particular mailing has a listing of my classmates. This listing includes their current addresses and telephone numbers. But, I see that my phone number is incorrect, so I guess that I won't be receiving any calls from long-lost classmates! This listing has a code. Our names are listed alphabetically, by our current names, but if there is something the compilers thought we should know about our fellow classmates, that name had a code placed before it. The codes are for those whose addresses are wrong, or those who have died, or for those who live abroad, or for those who asked for their names to be removed from our listing. And, then, every so often there is a code that has no description. The names of my classmates—and their addresses—and the codes attached to some of them intrigue me.

I found by reading this list that those who were dating in college actually did eventually marry. I found that some live in Maine and some in Illinois and some in Minnesota, as well as most of the other states. I found that the one classmate who always seemed to be a parent of the college is the one living abroad. The listing tells me that two of my classmates have died. But, I know that that is incorrect as one very dear friend and classmate also has died and her name is not even on our listing.

As I read this list I wish that it also told me what my fellow classmates are now doing, or what they have done. For, you see, back in 1973, we were yet in the time of unrest caused by the multitude of feelings about the Viet Nam War. Many of us felt that life would always be colored by that war. Many of us were afraid to dream any dream that would be too grand—or too much like our parents. But, now we are all middle-aged. We have lived lives, hopefully, of meaning. We have raised families. We have bought houses.

We have had an assortment of pets. We have further educated ourselves. We have found ourselves in countless situations of which we had no idea back in '73.

I find that I would kind of like to go back to that school for a few hours and meet some of these former classmates. I would like to share my lifestory with some of them, as I would like to hear some of theirs. But, in lieu of attending, I will simply wish them well in the endeavors that they yet will do. For, middle-aged though we may be, we hopefully have learned to dream, and that to fulfill our dreams is a good way to live.

CP Rail promises help with congestion

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Effective immediately, CP Rail System trains will not run through the City of Thief River Falls between the hours of 7:45 to 8:20 a.m. Monday through Friday during the school year.

As a result of an agreement reached between Mike Radloff, trainmaster, and the City of Thief River Falls, any westbound trains on the Detroit Lakes sub-section will have to hold east of Nora during the time stated and eastbound traffic will hold west of Eighth street.

Complaints of the train blocking traffic in Thief River Falls recently reached the ears of the city council. The matter was then referred to the public safety committee.

Police Chief Ken Froschheiser explained Tuesday morning during a meeting with Tom Super, operation lifesaver representative for CP Rail, that he subsequently learned that the instance of traffic being blocked for 45-minutes, which he related to the city council, was a result of an equipment breakdown on a train and was a unique situation. During a public safety committee meeting in which the matter was discussed, the focus of the meeting gradually focused on safety. He was then directed by the public safety committee to publicly address safety problems that have been noticed, and review laws and rules.

Stop arms and flashing lights, which signal an oncoming train, are to be treated the same as a stop sign. Going around stop arms and through flashing lights is a misdemeanor punishable by a maximum penalty of a $700 fine and/or 90 days in jail. Preventing people from going around the stop arms and through flashing signal lights will soon become a priority of law enforcement officials. Chief Froschheiser noted that they will take into account instances where the flashing signals are operating improperly or people are being waived through, either by a railroad employee or law enforcement officer.

Tom Super explained that for the average train traveling 50-miles per hours, it takes over a mile to stop. The point is that trains cannot stop on a dime. In Thief River Falls, the speed limit for a train within the city is 10 miles per hour at the Eighth street crossing, 20-miles per hour at the Third, First and Nora street crossings. The speed limit is more a result of road house regulations, than track conditions or traffic, but trains are slowing down anyway because of traffic violations.

Chief Froschheiser said he has noticed people trying to avoid the crossings as a train approaches either by racing through the intersection or racing down side streets in an attempt to cross at a different intersection. As a result, many of these people are violating not just one traffic rule, but several.

Chief Froschheiser suggested that if people are worried about getting to work on time, they should plan ahead and leave a little earlier.

He then noted that there are some misconceptions about the laws regarding how long a train can block traffic. The law prohibits a train from blocking traffic on a street for more than 10-minutes. But Chief Froschheiser noted that the train has to be stopped for 10-minutes. If it is moving, the amount of time it blocks traffic is not counted under the 10-minute rule.

Another concern raised at the meeting involved putting a stop sign at the intersection on County road 7. County road 7 is about a mile north of the airport and the airport road. There are advance warning signs before the intersection, but it is a bad intersection because motorists and pedestrians have to look for the train at a tough angle.

Super and Chief Froschheiser would like motorists and pedestrians to observe safety rules and be patient when a train is crossing an intersection. Super added that the railroad is not trying to block traffic on purpose.

Officer Panek takes part in navy ceremony

Navy Petty Officer Third Class Jimmy L. Panek, son of Arlene and Stanley Panek Jr. of rural Goodridge, recently participated in a decommissioning ceremony aboard the training aircraft carrier USS Forrestal, homeported in Pensacola, FL.

A 1992 graduate of Lincoln high school and 1985 graduate of Northland Community College with an AA degree, Petty Officer Panek joined the navy in June of 1988.

The navy's first "super carrier," the USS Forrestal was decommissioned at the Philadelphia Naval Shipyard. It was the first carrier designed specifically to launch and recover jet aircraft and had an angled deck which allowed for simultaneous takeoffs and landings.

In almost every area, USS Forrestal became the basis for all subsequent navy carrier designs. Since its commissioning in October of 1955 it has completed 21 operational deployments.

The navy is decommissioning many older ships and replacing them with fewer but more capable ships in the fleet. Newer, technologically superior ships will be part of the smaller navy and marine corps team.

Program helps some to pay for Medicare

Programs are available which can help some people with payment of their Medicare premiums, according to Sherry Gruenhagen of Legal Services of Northwest Minnesota in Moorhead.

The Qualified Medicare Beneficiary (QMB) program was established by Congress in 1988 to pay the Medicare premiums and copayments of certain low-income elderly and disabled persons. To be eligible for this program, a person must:

- Be entitled to Part A Medicare benefits;
- Have assets less than $4,000 for a single person or $6,000 for a couple (assets generally counted are cash, savings and non-homestead property, not including home or car); and
- Have income less than $581 per month for a single person, or less than $786 per month for a couple. (The monthly income figures increase each year in April.) However, you may have income which exceeds the above amount by $20 and still be eligible.

If an individual is eligible for QMB benefits, he or she will no longer have to pay any costs for medical care covered by Medicare.

If your income is too high for QMB benefits, there may be help through a new federal program called Service Limited Medicare Beneficiaries (SLMB). The standard premium amount for an individual is $36.60 per month effective January 1993. Therefore, if you are eligible for SLMB, your monthly Social Security check will increase by $36.60. To be eligible for this program, a person must:

- Be entitled to Medicare Part A and B premiums;
- Have assets less than $4,000 for a single person or $6,000 for a couple;
- Have income less than $639 a month for a single person or less than $864 a month for a couple. Some may have income which exceeds the above amount by $20 and still be eligible.

The above programs (QMB and SLMB) are funded by the State of Minnesota and the federal government as part of the Medical Assistance program. For more information, or to apply for the programs, contact the local social services office.

Minnesota Commissioner of Education Linda Powell will nominate Lutz for 1994 National Teacher of the Year. Minnesota has had three previous national winners —Roger Tenney of Owatonna in 1966, Robert Heyer of Mounds View in 1975 and Guy Doud of Brainerd in 1986.

SPEAKING OF

Sherry LaCoursiere

. . . Do-Dah Do-Dah, Do-Dah, Do-Dah.
You are Now in the TRF Time Warp

Lately I've been talking to a lot of women and I think I've come to a conclusion. I think the issue of equal rights for women has not reached our area yet.

Are we in a time warp, or what?

It is as if the men in this area have just heard of equal rights and don't have the slightest idea what it means.

A lot of them think it means that they should not hold a door for a woman any more. Okay, that's fine with most of us women. We don't need doors held for us, anyway. After all, anyone who can lug around a 20 pound baby all day can surely open a door for herself.

What's a fun thing to do, I have found, is to hold the door for a man. He is usually utterly dumbfounded by this. His hands twitch toward the door, as if it is going to slam in his face, and then he will look at me and give a sickly smile and step through, so completely awestruck that he forgets to say thank you (I hope he has just forgotten - see the paragraph about common courtesy below).

A lot of men seem to think that common courtesy is no longer necessary with equal rights, or I think that is what it is. After all, it couldn't be that some of these men never learned what common courtesy is, could it? Their mothers must have taught them manners, right?

It seems as though some men think that words like "please" and "thank you" are now passe and they are too embarrassed to utter such a trivial thing as "excuse me" as they barge in front of a woman.

Speaking of "excuse me," what about belching? Is this some special masculine thing, or what? When did belching get to be funny instead of impolite? I was taught not to belch in public if at all possible and if a little belch should pop out inadvertently, I was to excuse myself immediately - out loud. I say, if there is no way a belch can be held in and it must be allowed out in mixed company, why couldn't a guy say a little thing like "excuse me" after he does it? Is that too "feminine" a phrase?

However, if a woman should act like a man and forget to say the proper words at the appropriate time, she is certainly not acting like "a lady" any more. In fact, she may very well be called something that means just the opposite of a lady.

Many men around here think that equal rights do not mean anything. "Uh, a bunch of garbage," might be the words they use when the subject is brought up.

These men think that at home women are supposed to take care of the children, fetch and carry, wash and mend, cook meals and clean the house. They think men should go to work, come home to eat the meal the woman has prepared, take out the garbage once a week, and spend the rest of the time watching television, speaking only to ask the "little woman" to fetch more beer or soda pop and/or snacks.

These men think that at work women should know their places. Women may answer the telephone - in a pleasant manner, greet customers - in a pleasant manner, write down messages - in a clear and precise manner, make coffee - promptly and properly, fetch and carry - promptly, and clean up the mess that men make.

At the office women should dress appropriately, preferably in short skirts and high heels, so they look decorative. Never mind about looking neat and efficient - decorative is better - it makes an impression on the customers.

Women must be kept an eye on by men at all times to see that they do not make a mistake. Heaven forbid that they overstep their position and try to do anything without strict supervision - after all, they might actually be able to do something that men do, you know, and that wouldn't do, at all, at all, at all.

Needless to say, there is much more to be said on the subject of equal rights for women and the problems women seem to be having in this area. Any comments? If not, I'll just have to muddle along by myself again next week. If you have a comment or two or three or four, call me from 8-5 at The Times, 681-4450, or write me a letter at Box 100, Thief River Falls, MN 56701, but do it before October 25.

RANDOM THOUGHTS

Sara Tyler
Lincoln High School

People consider shedding as something that pets do. Yes, pets do shed and it can get annoying. Cats shed wildly all over everything. Cat hair sticks to clothes, especially black, and gets in food. Dog hair comes off in clumps and sits around waiting to be discovered.

Perhaps the most annoying shedding is people hair. It isn't talked about as much as pet shedding, but it is just as common. I shed immensely. I never used to, or at least notice that I did, until I grew my hair long. When I had short hair, I never had to worry about pulling out clumps every morning after my shower. Now it has become a ritual.

Pulling out hair after my shower can get quite messy. Not only do my hands get drenched in water and my floor covered in puddles, my hands get layered in hairs. Some are long, others short. Then I attempt to detach them. I pull them off with one hand, and they stick to it. I try to shake them off, but often it ends in a war of wits; me against my hair.

I find my hair everywhere. It falls onto my shirts, is embedded in my robe, weaves its way into my sheets, sticks to my socks. No matter how often I clean my sink, it seems to be always full of my long, brown hairs. I know they are mine; I can't blame it on anyone else. It is everywhere! In fact as I'm writing this I just found a hair on my monitor. Don't ask me how it got there.

I hate when hair gets caught in the tub. I detest touching any hairs when I shower or take a bath. Though I'm not sure if the hairs are mine or not, I refuse to pick them up with my hand. Even if there is only one hair I take a tissue and drag it over the tub to rid it of any pest.

I also hate getting hair in my mouth. Somehow a hair knows how and when to detach itself from my scalp and jump into my mouth in the middle of an important conversation. Then I have to dig in my mouth to retrieve the small hair that is gagging me.

Another thing is when people have to pick hairs off my back. It makes me feel like an animal that can't control its coat. I know it happens to other people and not just me (I have done my share of picking hairs off other people's backs), but I still feel dumb.

If there is anyone out there with long hair that doesn't shed, don't tell me. I'll get insanely jealous and end up cutting mine off. I don't want to waste the years of growing it. There is a positive point about shedding, though. It means I have hair. Some people look good bald, but I doubt I would be one of them.

IMPRESSIONS

I have finally reached that goal in life that twenty years ago I thought would be the unthinkable. I have reached the time of my 20th reunion from college. Twenty years ago, when I graduated, I guess that I could maybe foresee my 5th reunion, and maybe even my 10th reunion, but to be one of those in the 20th reunion class seemed somehow so—middle-aged. And, at the ripe age of 21, I was never going to be middle-aged!!

But, here I am, a member of the 20th reunion class from North Park College. My reunion will actually be held during the college's homecoming festivities which don't occur until the last weekend of this month. I have no plans of going to this reunion. But, plans to attend or not, I am intrigued by what the class of 1973 has accomplished.

I have received from the school a couple of mailings about this reunion of mine. One mailing is strictly the events of the week and weekend. It details plays and dinners and accommodations and basic homecoming events such as the football game. It also gives me a place where I may respond and send a check to the school for the various events I plan on attending.

Another mailing has been for the very special event that will be happening during those days of festivities. For, during this homecoming time, the school's new chapel will be duly dedicated. As a pastor's wife I've been invited to this special dedication ceremony.

The dedication of this new chapel brings to mind the chapel of my days at college. The chapel then was a large gymnasium-looking room with a stage up front. Folding chairs could be lined up for chapel services. I never felt it was a place to worship. Hopefully this new building will provide for the students of this church college a place to worship.

But, back to the mailings I've received regarding my 20th reunion. One of the mailings is infinitely more intriguing to me than the others. This particular mailing has a listing of my classmates. This listing includes their current addresses and telephone numbers. But, I see that my phone number is incorrect, so I guess that I won't be receiving any calls from long-lost classmates! This listing has a code. Our names are listed alphabetically, by our current names, but if there is something the compilers thought we should know about our fellow classmates, that name had a code placed before it. The codes are for those whose addresses are wrong, or those who have died, or for those who live abroad, or for those who asked for their names to be removed from our listing. And, then, every so often there is a code that has no description. The names of my classmates—and their addresses—and the codes attached to some of them intrigue me.

I found by reading this list that those who were dating in college actually did eventually marry. I found that some live in Maine and some in Illinois and some in Minnesota, as well as most of the other states. I found that the one classmate who always seemed to be a parent of the college is the one living abroad. The listing tells me that two of my classmates have died. But, I know that that is incorrect as one very dear friend and classmate also has died and her name is not even on our listing.

As I read this list I wish that it also told me what my fellow classmates are now doing, or what they have done. For, you see, back in 1973, we were yet in the time of unrest caused by the multitude of feelings about the Viet Nam War. Many of us felt that life would always be colored by that war. Many of us were afraid to dream any dream that would be too grand—or too much like our parents. But, now we are all middle-aged. We have lived lives, hopefully, of meaning. We have raised families. We have bought houses.

We have had an assortment of pets. We have further educated ourselves. We have found ourselves in countless situations of which we had no idea back in '73.

Bonnie Lutz is Minnesota's Teacher of Year

Bonnie M. Lutz, a third grade teacher at Evansville elementary school, was named Minnesota Teacher of the Year for 1993 at an October 10 luncheon sponsored by the Minnesota Education Association in Bloomington.

Representing Thief River Falls schools as a finalist in the competition was Diane Peterson, a teacher at Washington elementary school.

Minnesota Commissioner of Education Linda Powell will nominate Lutz for 1994 National Teacher of the Year. Minnesota has had three previous national winners —Roger Tenney of Owatonna in 1966, Robert Heyer of Mounds View in 1975 and Guy Doud of Brainerd in 1986.

CP Rail promises help with congestion

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Effective immediately, CP Rail System trains will not run through the City of Thief River Falls between the hours of 7:45 to 8:20 a.m. Monday through Friday during the school year.

As a result of an agreement reached between Mike Radloff, trainmaster, and the City of Thief River Falls, any westbound trains on the Detroit Lakes sub-section will have to hold east of Nora during the time stated and eastbound traffic will hold west of Eighth street.

Complaints of the train blocking traffic in Thief River Falls recently reached the ears of the city council. The matter was then referred to the public safety committee.

Police Chief Ken Froschheiser explained Tuesday morning during a meeting with Tom Super, operation lifesaver representative for CP Rail, that he subsequently learned that the instance of traffic being blocked for 45-minutes, which he related to the city council, was a result of an equipment breakdown on a train and was a unique situation. During a public safety committee meeting in which the matter was discussed, the focus of the meeting gradually focused on safety. He was then directed by the public safety committee to publicly address safety problems that have been noticed, and review laws and rules.

Stop arms and flashing lights, which signal an oncoming train, are to be treated the same as a stop sign. Going around stop arms and through flashing lights is a misdemeanor punishable by a maximum penalty of a $700 fine and/or 90 days in jail. Preventing people from going around the stop arms and through flashing signal lights will soon become a priority of law enforcement officials. Chief Froschheiser noted that they will take into account instances where the flashing signals are operating improperly or people are being waived through, either by a railroad employee or law enforcement officer.

Tom Super explained that for the average train traveling 50-miles per hours, it takes over a mile to stop. The point is that trains cannot stop on a dime. In Thief River Falls, the speed limit for a train within the city is 10 miles per hour at the Eighth street crossing, 20-miles per hour at the Third, First and Nora street crossings. The speed limit is more a result of road house regulations, than track conditions or traffic, but trains are slowing down anyway because of traffic violations.

Chief Froschheiser said he has noticed people trying to avoid the crossings as a train approaches either by racing through the intersection or racing down side streets in an attempt to cross at a different intersection. As a result, many of these people are violating not just one traffic rule, but several.

Chief Froschheiser suggested that if people are worried about getting to work on time, they should plan ahead and leave a little earlier.

He then noted that there are some misconceptions about the laws regarding how long a train can block traffic. The law prohibits a train from blocking traffic on a street for more than 10-minutes. But Chief Froschheiser noted that the train has to be stopped for 10-minutes. If it is moving, the amount of time it blocks traffic is not counted under the 10-minute rule.

Another concern raised at the meeting involved putting a stop sign at the intersection on County road 7. County road 7 is about a mile north of the airport and the airport road. There are advance warning signs before the intersection, but it is a bad intersection because motorists and pedestrians have to look for the train at a tough angle.

Super and Chief Froschheiser would like motorists and pedestrians to observe safety rules and be patient when a train is crossing an intersection. Super added that the railroad is not trying to block traffic on purpose.

Officer Panek takes part in navy ceremony

Navy Petty Officer Third Class Jimmy L. Panek, son of Arlene and Stanley Panek Jr. of rural Goodridge, recently participated in a decommissioning ceremony aboard the training aircraft carrier USS Forrestal, homeported in Pensacola, FL.

A 1992 graduate of Lincoln high school and 1985 graduate of Northland Community College with an AA degree, Petty Officer Panek joined the navy in June of 1988.

The navy's first "super carrier," the USS Forrestal was decommissioned at the Philadelphia Naval Shipyard. It was the first carrier designed specifically to launch and recover jet aircraft and had an angled deck which allowed for simultaneous takeoffs and landings.

In almost every area, USS Forrestal became the basis for all subsequent navy carrier designs. Since its commissioning in October of 1955 it has completed 21 operational deployments.

The navy is decommissioning many older ships and replacing them with fewer but more capable ships in the fleet. Newer, technologically superior ships will be part of the smaller navy and marine corps team.

SPEAKING OF

Sherry LaCoursiere

. . . Do-Dah Do-Dah. Do-Dah, Do-Dah.
You are Now in the TRF Time Warp

Lately I've been talking to a lot of women and I think I've come to a conclusion. I think the issue of equal rights for women has not reached our area yet.

Are we in a time warp, or what?

It is as if the men in this area have just heard of equal rights and don't have the slightest idea what it means.

A lot of them think it means that they should not hold a door for a woman any more. Okay, that's fine with most of us women. We don't need doors held for us, anyway. After all, anyone who can lug around a 20 pound baby all day can surely open a door for herself.

What's a fun thing to do, I have found, is to hold the door for a man. He is usually utterly dumbfounded by this. His hands twitch toward the door, as if it is going to slam in his face, and then he will look at me and give a sickly smile and step through, so completely awestruck that he forgets to say thank you (I hope he has just forgotten - see the paragraph about common courtesy below).

A lot of men seem to think that common courtesy is no longer necessary with equal rights, or I think that is what it is. After all, it couldn't be that some of these men never learned what common courtesy is, could it? Their mothers must have taught them manners, right?

It seems as though some men think that words like "please" and "thank you" are now passe and they are too embarrassed to utter such a trivial thing as "excuse me" as they barge in front of a woman.

Speaking of "excuse me," what about belching? Is this some special masculine thing, or what? When did belching get to be funny instead of impolite? I was taught not to belch in public if at all possible and if a little belch should pop out inadvertently, I was to excuse myself immediately - out loud. I say, if there is no way a belch can be held in and it must be allowed out in mixed company, why couldn't a guy say a little thing like "excuse me" after he does it? Is that too "feminine" a phrase?

However, if a woman should act like a man and forget to say the proper words at the appropriate time, she is certainly not acting like "a lady" any more. In fact, she may very well be called something that means just the opposite of a lady.

Many men around here think that equal rights do not mean anything. "Uh, a bunch of garbage," might be the words they use when the subject is brought up.

These men think that at home women are supposed to take care of the children, fetch and carry, wash and mend, cook meals and clean the house. They think men should go to work, come home to eat the meal the woman has prepared, take out the garbage once a week, and spend the rest of the time watching television, speaking only to ask the "little woman" to fetch more beer or soda pop and/or snacks.

These men think that at work women should know their places. Women may answer the telephone - in a pleasant manner, greet customers - in a pleasant manner, write down messages - in a clear and precise manner, make coffee - promptly and properly, fetch and carry - promptly, and clean up the mess that men make.

At the office women should dress appropriately, preferably in short skirts and high heels, so they look decorative. Never mind about looking neat and efficient - decorative is better - it makes an impression on the customers.

Women must be kept an eye on by men at all times to see that they do not make a mistake. Heaven forbid that they overstep their position and try to do anything without strict supervision - after all, they might actually be able to do something that men do, you know, and that wouldn't do, at all, at all, at all.

Needless to say, there is much more to be said on the subject of equal rights for women and the problems women seem to be having in this area. Any comments? If not, I'll just have to muddle along by myself again next week. If you have a comment or two or three or four, call me from 8-5 at The Times, 681-4450, or write me a letter at Box 100, Thief River Falls, MN 56701, but do it before October 25.

RANDOM THOUGHTS

Sara Tyler
Lincoln High School

People consider shedding as something that pets do. Yes, pets do shed and it can get annoying. Cats shed wildly all over everything. Cat hair sticks to clothes, especially black, and gets in food. Dog hair comes off in clumps and sits around waiting to be discovered.

Perhaps the most annoying shedding is people hair. It isn't talked about as much as pet shedding, but it is just as common. I shed immensely. I never used to, or at least notice that I did, until I grew my hair long. When I had short hair, I never had to worry about pulling out clumps every morning after my shower. Now it has become a ritual.

Pulling out hair after my shower can get quite messy. Not only do my hands get drenched in water and my floor covered in puddles, my hands get layered in hairs. Some are long, others short. Then I attempt to detach them. I pull them off with one hand, and they stick to it. I try to shake them off, but often it ends in a war of wits; me against my hair.

I find my hair everywhere. It falls onto my shirts, is embedded in my robe, weaves its way into my sheets, sticks to my socks. No matter how often I clean my sink, it seems to be always full of my long, brown hairs. I know they are mine; I can't blame it on anyone else. It is everywhere! In fact as I'm writing this I just found a hair on my monitor. Don't ask me how it got there.

I hate when hair gets caught in the tub. I detest touching any hairs when I shower or take a bath. Though I'm not sure if the hairs are mine or not, I refuse to pick them up with my hand. Even it there is only one hair I take a tissue and drag it over the tub to rid it of any pest.

I also hate getting hair in my mouth. Somehow a hair knows how and when to detach itself from my scalp and jump into my mouth in the middle of an important conversation. Then I have to dig in my mouth to retrieve the small hair that is gagging me.

Another thing is when people have to pick hairs off my back. It makes me feel like an animal that can't control its coat. I know it happens to other people and not just me (I have done my share of picking hairs off other people's backs), but I still feel dumb.

If there is anyone out there with long hair that doesn't shed, don't tell me. I'll get insanely jealous and end up cutting mine off. I don't want to waste the years of growing it. There is a positive point about shedding, though. It means I have hair. Some people look good bald, but I doubt I would be one of them.

INTENTIONAL DUPLICATE EXPOSURE

No. 2 seed in playoffs on the line

Both teams are guaranteed post-season berths, but there will still be plenty of incentive on the line tonight (Wednesday) when Thief River Falls visits East Grand Forks for a 7:30 p.m. regular season high school football finale.

The Prowlers and Green Wave are both 5-2. The winner will be the No. 2 seed in the upcoming Section 8A playoffs; the loser will be No. 3. They could very well meet up again in the semifinals. The difference – No. 2 receives a first round bye in the six-team field and will be at home for the semifinals. No. 3 will have a first round home game, then go on the road for the semifinals.

Defending champion Detroit Lakes has locked up the No. 1 spot. Wadena-Deer Creek, Park Rapids Area, and Perham will fill out the final three Section 8A slots, leaving Crookston, Fergus Falls, Staples Area, and Long Prairie-Grey Eagle out of the playoff picture.

East Grand Forks wins this fall have come against Grand Forks Central 13-6, Staples Area 37-22, Minneapolis Southwest 44-0, Fergus Falls 14-12, and Park Rapids Area 21-14 last week. The Green Wave lost to Waterville-Elysian-Morrison 19-7 and Crookston 12-7.

Thief River Falls has matched last year's five regular season wins by beating Wadena-Deer Creek 41-20, Staples Area 56-36, Park Rapids Area 31-6, Crookston 16-6, and Fergus Falls 23-20 in double-overtime last week. The back-to-back season-opening losses came at the hands of Detroit Lakes 41-6 and Alexandria 39-6.

In other Section 8A results last week, Detroit Lakes beat Wadena-Deer Creek 62-16, Staples Area lost to Crosby-Ironton 42-16, Perham fell to Breckenridge 35-8, Crookston dropped a 22-14 game to Hibbing, and Long Prairie-Grey Eagle lost to Morris Area 28-12.

In addition to Thief River Falls vs. East Grand Forks, this week's final regular season match-ups include Staples Area at Detroit Lakes, Wadena-Deer Creek at Aitkin, Park Rapids Area at Crosby-Ironton, Crookston at Luverne, Perham at Mahnomen, Long Prairie-Grey Eagle at Belgrade-Brooten-Elrosa, and Fergus Falls vs. Northfield.

First round Section 8A playoff games will take place Tuesday, Oct. 26, with No. 6 at No. 3 and No. 5 at No. 4. The Saturday, Oct. 30, semi-finals will have the 4/5 winner at No. 1 (Detroit Lakes) and the 3/6 winner at No. 2.

Section 8A championship game will be played Friday, Nov. 5, at the Fargodome.

Section 8AA girls high school tennis tournament being played this week in St. Cloud includes the Thief River Falls doubles team of Shari Evenson (left) and Anne Padilla. The two sophomores advanced with a third place finish in the individual portion of the North Sub-Section 8AA tournament Friday at the Grand Forks Tennis Center. They were scheduled to meet Heather Domek and Sarah Schmidt of St. Cloud Apollo in first round Section 8AA play this morning (Wednesday).

LHS sophomores advance in tennis

Thief River Falls sophomores Shari Evenson and Anne Padilla extended their 1993 girls high school tennis season Friday with a third place finish in the doubles portion of the North Sub-Section 8AA individual tournament at the Grand Forks Tennis Center.

Top four finishers in singles and doubles earned Section 8AA tournament berths. Evenson and Padilla were the only Prowlers advancing to the St. Cloud Tennis Center matches.

"Shari and Anne rose to the occasion," said Thief River Falls coach Jay Forney. "They had a little bit of really excellent tennis, and a little of of just toughening it out when they had to. They did a nice job."

Fourth place sub-sectional finishers a year ago as freshmen, Evenson and Padilla were reunited for post-season play this fall, and moved up a notch to third. They were seeded only seventh among the 12 doubles entries, but beat No. 10-seeded Suzie Poehls and Sara Mandsager of Moorhead in first round play and upset second-seeded Caroline Date and Erin Hesby of Detroit Lakes in the semifinals to earn the Section 8AA berth.

No. 6-seeded Joy Halstead and Carrie Diffley of Bemidji stopped Evenson and Padilla in the semifinals. But the Thief River Falls duo bounced back to defeat fifth-seeded Stacy Stock and Michelle Mortenson of Fergus Falls in the third place match.

Erin Kraft and Stacie Sundquist of Bemidji, seeded No. 8, beat Halstead and Diffley in the finals after taking out top-seeded Jill Smidt and Molly Shogren of Alexandria in the quarterfinals.

Also failing to advance was the second-seeded Thief River Falls combination featuring sophomore Kamie Twomey and freshman Tiffany Brouse, who received a first round bye before losing to Halstead and Diffley in the quarterfinals.

"That was really a tough loss," noted Forney. "They had chances to win – they had two match points, but came up short."

Unlike doubles, the top four seeds in singles all advanced, including No. 1 Jene Brune of Bemidji, No. 2 Ruth Rhoades of Detroit Lakes, No. 3 Andrea Vagle of Bemidji, and No. 4 Amy Groth of Moorhead.

"Doubles was tough," noted Forney. "Singles went more according to form, but not doubles. There were a lot of tough matches."

Senior Jami Dehnert and junior Jami Fremstad both won first round matches in North Sub-Section 8AA play before losing in the quarterfinals – to the eventual finalists.

Section 8AA individual matches were scheduled to be played today (Wednesday).

"Hopefully Shari and Anne can fall back on the experience they gained from being in the tournament together last year," said Forney.

Top two Section 8AA singles and doubles finishers move on to the Class AA state tournament Oct. 29-30 in the Twin Cities.

TRF wins in two overtimes

■ Prowlers beat Otters 23-20 on Kempert field goal

Thief River Falls outlasted Fergus Falls 23-20 in double-overtime Thursday by coming up with three big plays during the extra sessions – a game-tying touchdown run by Tony Halsa, a game-winning field goal by Justin Kempert, and a game-clinching interception by Nathan Anderson.

It was far from the Prowlers' best showing of the year, but it was their fifth straight win after two season-opening losses, keeping them in the race for the No. 2 seed in the upcoming Section 8A high school football playoffs. The struggling Otters fell to 2-5 and will likely be one of four teams who will not be included in the six-team post-season field.

Thief River Falls' lackluster play didn't prevent the Prowlers from taking a 14-0 lead into the locker room at halftime, but it did catch up to them in the second half when Fergus Falls stormed back to gain a 14-14 tie.

The overtime sequence included a Fergus Falls touchdown, but a missed conversion; a Thief River Falls touchdown, but a missed conversion; Kempert's field goal; and Anderson's interception.

"There wasn't much intensity on our part, especially in the second half," acknowledged Thief River Falls coach Jeff Mumm. "We won the first half; they won the second half; the first overtime was a tie; we won the second overtime."

An early turnover set up the Prowlers' initial touchdown a linebacker John Davis ended the Otters' first possession with an interception at the Fergus Falls 48 that he returned to the 12.

Three plays later quarterback Eric Bjorgaard scored on a sneak from the 1 with 4:37 elapsed. The conversion run failed.

It became 14-0 the next time the Prowlers got their hands on the ball after a 30-yard Bjorgaard pass over the middle to a wide open Joby Looker carried to the Fergus Falls 13. Halsa then went 10 yards off the left side and Bjorgaard tossed a 3-yard touchdown pass to Steve Burslie on the first play of the second quarter. Fullback Chris Ortloff reached the end zone on the two-point conversion to cap the 7-play, 58-yard scoring drive.

That was it for the Thief River Falls offense until overtime. Excluding punts, Fergus Falls ran 30 plays to the Prowlers' 8 and had eight first downs to the Prowlers one (which came on a roughing-the-kicker penalty) in gaining a 14-14 second half tie.

The Otters opened the second half with a 10-play, 68-yard touchdown drive, which began with a tempo-setting, tackle-breaking 28-yard run by Chad Zuehlsdorff. A 1-yard touchdown run by Zuehlsdorff was followed by a missed conversion kick.

A fumble recovery by the Otters' Darren Goltz at the Fergus Falls 43 with 5:30 left in regulation time led to a 6-play, 57-yard game-tying touchdown drive. Quarterback Jeremy Pederson cut back through the middle on a 31-yard keeper to kick start the drive, went to Goltz on a 17-yard pass play that carried to the Thief River Falls 5-yard line, then handed the ball to the 170-pound Zuehlsdorff, who barged through the middle for the touchdown.

An offside penalty assessed the Prowlers as they lined up for the conversion made it a 1 1/2-yard game-tying run by Zuehlsdorff with just 2:31 remaining.

The Prowlers won the coin toss to start overtime, and elected to go on defense. The Otters lost four yards on a fumbled first down pitch and Pederson was incomplete on a second down pass before Nick Riba run underneath a Pederson toss in the corner of the end zone for a 14-yard go-ahead touchdown.

This time it was the Otters picking up a critical 5-yard penalty for illegal procedure on the conversion, and the pass by Pederson was knocked down in the end zone by Lee Lund.

Three straight-ahead dives off the left side by Halsa followed the blocks of Davis and Cayler Olson for gains of 3, 4 and 3 yards for the game-tying touchdown.

But the same play fell inches short on the goal line on the conversion.

Second set of four overtime plays from the 10 put the Prowlers on offense first. Three snaps netted only two yards, and Kempert was called upon for a field goal attempt from the 15.

Although he was by-passed on the three previous conversion attempts in favor of the two-pointers, Kempert nailed the kick big-time, splitting the up-rights with plenty of room to spare.

"We're kicking all the time from now on," smiled Mumm as he dodged the question about the earlier decisions on the conversions.

But while the kick gave the Prowlers a 23-20 lead, they still had to keep Fergus Falls out of the end zone on the Otters' second overtime possession. They did that when Anderson picked off Pederson in the right corner of the end zone on a third down pass from the 5-yard line.

Halsa wound up with 74 yards on 15 carries. With hard-running fullback Brian Howe on the sidelines because of a hip injury, the Prowlers netted just 123 yards on the ground.

The Otters were only a little better with 131 rushing yards, which included an 18-carry, 86-yard effort by Zuehlsdorff.

Bjorgaard, starting in place of injured Jeff Twomey, was 3-for-8 passing for 38 yards. Pederson went 5-for-14 for 75 yards, and two interceptions.

NCC takes on Brainerd after beating UMC 21-19...

Pioneers in playoff chase

One hurdle is out of the way, but a another, even more formidable obstacle awaits the Northland Community College football team this week as the Pioneers try to nail down a state football playoff berth.

A come-from-behind 21-19 win over the University of Minnesota-Crookston last Thursday night has at least temporarily vaulted Northland to the top of the Minnesota Community College Conference Northern Division standings with a 4-1 record. Brainerd, Vermilion and Itasca are all 3-1. Two of those four teams will gain MCCC state playoff semi-final berths against the top two finishers in the Southern Division.

Northland can all but clinch a post-season spot Thursday with a win at Brainerd. The 2 p.m. game will be the final MCCC outing of the year for the Pioneers, who will close out the regular season with a Thursday, Oct. 28, nonconference match-up with the Mayville State University junior varsity.

A Northland loss at Brainerd would put the Pioneers on the bubble as the others compete for the playoff positions with final-week MCCC contests.

Northland went into the final two games of the 1992 season in the same must-win situation and wound up losing to both UMC and Brainerd. They made it past the Trojans this time, but playing the Raiders in Brainerd will be a major challenge for a team that has lost two of its three road games this fall. Northland is 3-0 at home.

"It's no secret," acknowledged Northland coach Gene Klinke. "We have played better at home than we have on the road. This will be a major, major challenge for us. Brainerd has a very good football team. To end the season down there needing a victory is a tough call. A loss won't actually eliminate us, but it certainly won't help our (playoff) chances."

Plagued by first half penalties and turnovers, the Pioneers found themselves trailing University of Minnesota-Crookston 17-6 at intermission. But a long second half kickoff return by Kenny Barker was converted into a quick scoring strike by the Pioneers – a 6-yard run by Barker just 3:17 into the third quarter – to begin the Northland comeback.

It stayed 17-14 until Northland quarterback Jason Svir finished off an 11-play, 80-yard touchdown drive by scoring on a 7-yard run with just four minutes left in the game. A conversion kick by Barker made it 21-19 and the Pioneers gave up an intentional safety in the final seconds to complete the scoring.

"It was a very exciting, excellent football game," said Klinke, who found himself joining a long list of injured Pioneers when he pulled a muscle in his leg while celebrating Svir's go-ahead touchdown.

Paul Mason sparked the Pioneers' comeback effort by netting 104 of his 151 rushing yards in the second half.

"Paul had himself a heckuva game," said Klinke. "Sheldon Hinton (the Northland fullback) and our line did a great job blocking, and Mason found the holes."

Derrick Sanders had a 37-carry, 171-yard for the Trojans, who were playing the Pioneers for the final time – UMC will become a four-year school next fall.

Brainerd fell to 4-2 for the year last week following a 50-14 nonconference loss to Normandale. The Raiders have beaten Worthington 21-7, Itasca 13-12, Hibbing 10-0, and Mesabi 26-6. The first loss was a 21-3 setback at the hands of Vermilion.

Itasca beat Hibbing 34-12 and Vermilion handled Mesabi 34-14 in the other Oct. 21 match-ups to remain in the thick of the Northern Division race.

Rest of the current Northern Division standings include the University of Minnesota-Crookston at 2-3, Hibbing and Mesabi both at 0-4.

In addition to Northland vs. Brainerd, this week's games include Itasca at Vermilion, Hibbing at Mesabi and UMC vs. Fergus Falls.

While Northland finishes with the Mayville State JV, final-week Northern Division pairings will include Brainerd at the University of Minnesota-Crookston, Vermilion at Hibbing and Mesabi at Itasca.

Tennis team loses tournament match

Fourth-seeded Moorhead edged No. 5 Thief River Falls 4-3 Thursday in the opening round of the North Sub-Section 8AA girls high school team tennis tournament at the Grand Forks Tennis Center.

Thief River Falls picked up wins from Bobbi Dahlstrom (No. 1 singles), Kamie Twomey/Tiffany Brouse (No. 1 doubles) and Jami Fremstad/Kiki Goddard (No. 2 doubles). "They played well," said Thief River Falls coach Jay Forney, who also cited the performance of Kelly Natvik in a three-set loss at No. 3 singles.

Keying the Moorhead win were comeback efforts at No. 3 singles, where Jenny Smith overcame a 4-1 third-set deficit to beat Natvik 6-4, 4-6, 7-5, and at No. 2 doubles, where Sara Mandsager/Suzie Poehls trailed 5-2 in the third set before beating Shari Evenson/Anne Padilla 3-6, 6-1, 7-5.

Top-seeded Bemidji shut out Moorhead 7-0 in the semifinals and defeated No. 3 Detroit Lakes 5-2 in the finals. The Lakers had upset second-seeded Alexandria 4-3 in the semifinals.

The title moved the Lumberjacks into Tuesday's Section 8AA finals against St. Cloud Tech, the South Sub-Section 8AA winner.

Gators end Nordics streak, but still looking for consistent play

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River ended a season-long Marshall County Central winning streak in the Warroad Invitational Saturday, but Gators coach Gwen Borgen is still looking for the kind of consistency needed to be a post-season title threat.

"We play in spurts," said Borgen. "We play real well at times, but we can't seem to put three strong 15's together very often."

Thursday, Roseau beat Badger/Greenbush-Middle River 15-8, 8-15, 15-12, 15-9.

Saturday the Gators' round-robin play at the Warroad Invitational included an 15-11, 15-4 loss to Lake of the Woods, a 15-4, 3-15, 17-15 rally-point victory over Marshall County Central and a 15-12, 15-9 loss to Kittson Central.

That put the Gators in the seventh place match, where they beat Indus 15-8, 15-6.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River took a 7-15 overall record in to a Tuesday regular season finale at Warroad.

Prowlers outlast RLCC squad 3-2

Thief River Falls outlasted Red Lake County Central 15-7, 14-16, 14-16, 15-5, 15-13 Thursday in a high school volleyball match at Plummer that featured a down-to-the-wire finish.

The Prowlers owned a 14-13 lead in Game 5 when both teams ran into trouble at the service line. But an out-of-bounds Red Lake County spike finally ended it.

"Red Lake County Central played really tough against us, especially tipping," pointed out Thief River Falls coach Helen Anderson, whose team evened its record at 11-11 with the win.

Thief River Falls' efforts included a second game comeback from an 11-0 deficit to force overtime before the Prowlers surrendered the first of two 16-14 decisions. "We were determined, but it was just too late," noted Anderson.

The Mustangs fell to 8-13, but Red Lake County Central coach Nancy Bray was more than satisfied with the performance. "We missed some serves at very crucial times," she said, "but this was the best match we have played all season."

Toni Chiodo, Carrie Lawrence and Jamie Martell all had strong performances, said Anderson, who also praised the efforts of Kelly Skeim, who was employed as the Prowlers' lone setter in all five games. "Kelly did an exceptional job," mentioned Anderson. "She plays smart, and is very quick."

Lawrence had 21 kills and Skeim had 50 assists in the Thief River Falls win. Angel Mickelson led the Mustangs with 15 kills, while Abby Chervestad had 9 and Amy Arlt came up with 7 service aces.

Red Lake County Central won the junior varsity contest 15-9, 15-10 and took the C squad match 15-4, 15-10.

Both teams had a single match this week – Red Lake County Central at Fisher/Climax Monday Thief River Falls at Fergus Tuesday.

Wolverines end their regular season 1-17

Grygla/Goodridge ended its 1993 regular season high school volleyball schedule with 3-0 losses to Red Lake Falls Friday and Roseau Monday, leaving the Wolverines at 1-17 for the year. They were winless in 1992.

"We've improved quite a bit physically from where we were at last year to where we are now," explained Grygla/Goodridge coach Tim Mostrom, "but we still have a lot of trouble getting over the mental part of it. We still have to learn how to win."

Red Lake Falls was a 15-8, 15-1, 15-2 winner in a match played at Goodridge.

"The first game wasn't too bad, but they kind of overpowered us at the end," said Mostrom. "We didn't serve very well, and if you can't serve, you've got trouble."

Host Roseau beat the Wolverines 15-4, 15-4, 15-10.

"We didn't get a wake-up call until about halfway through the second game," noted Mostrom. "After that we didn't play that bad."

Section 8A Sub-Section 4 tournament play starts Friday, Oct. 29, at Northland Community College.

Waterfowl prints will be used as a MWA fund-raiser

Minnesota Waterfowl Association (MWA) recently announced its selection of their 1993-94 Artists of the Year and membership prints. Distinct, yet unmistakable. These two waterfowling scenes are beautifully portrayed by two of Minnesota's finest wildlife artists - Darrell Bush and Rhynard Klingbeil.

"In From the Fields" Bush's latest release. This year's MWA sponsor print features Giant Canada Geese in what is now a common setting. As few as five years ago, you may have been surprised at seeing these unexpected strangers, but today, we can call the Canada Goose a permanent neighbor.

Klingbeil's "Out of the Fog Canvasbacks," was selected as the 1993-94 MWA contributing membership print. Canvasbacks, often referred to as the "king of ducks," are noisy and fast. The scene portrayed might have taken place last fall or fifty years ago. With Canvasback populations slowly rising, the species is truly emerging from "Out of the Fog."

Northland doubles volleyball win total

Strong back-to-back outings at the Willmar Invitational Saturday at the the UND-Lake Region triangular Monday doubled the Northland Community College volleyball win total for the year.

The Pioneers went into the weekend 4-17. They were 2-2 at Willmar and 2-0 at Devils Lakes to go 8-19 for the year.

"We played well," reported Northland coach Deb Jacobson. "We let our offense take charge. They never let up. That's the way it was supposed to be all year."

At Willmar, Northland beat the St. Olaf junior varsity 15-5, 5-15, 15-6, lost to Willmar 15-9, 15-3, 15-12 and swept Gogebic 15-4, 15-7, 15-10 in the round-robin portion of the tournament to reach the championship match – where a rematch with host Willmar produced another setback. But it was much closer this time as the Pioneers lost 15-13, 16-14.

Northland carried that momentum into the UND-Lake Region event, where the Pioneers beat Trinity Bible College 15-6, 15-7 and came from behind to defeat the host Royals 15-17, 15-7, 15-7.

Mustangs lose to Eagles 42-6

Red Lake County Central fell behind 20-0 in the first quarter Friday and never recovered, losing a one-sided 42-6 high school football game to Red Lake Falls at Plummer, putting a damper on the Mustangs' homecoming celebrations.

The Mustangs have won just once in seven starts. The Eagles are unbeaten.

"They're a very good football team," said Red Lake County Central coach Gary Brantl. "They have a very aggressive, very quick line and their backs run hard."

A 1-yard touchdown by Shane Myhre finished off a first-possession Red Lake Falls drive; Blaise Larson broke away on a 28-yard touchdown run; and after a successful on-side kick, Myhre pulled in a 16-yard pass from Brian Remick for the 20-0 first quarter cushion.

"They had us reeling right away and we never recovered," noted Brantl.

Red Lake County Central was held to just 102 yards worth of offense for the night – 35 yards on 25 running plays and a 67-yard figure on a 3-for-8 passing performance. Darrin Hofstad led the Mustangs with 35 yards on 11 carries.

Defensively, Chad Pahlen was the leading Red Lake County Central tackler with 14, while Adam Lundeen had 12 (along with a fumble recovery) and Hofstad finished with 11.

Red Lake County Central will try to snap a five-game losing streak tonight (Wednesday) with a 7:30 p.m. regular season finale against Fertile-Beltrami at Oklee. A win would lock up a Section 8C playoff berth for the Mustangs.

Blue Devils test unbeaten Tigers

Unbeaten status of Stephen was threatened by Grygla/Goodridge Thursday in Top of the State Conference Nine-Man high school football, but the host Tigers held on to beat the upset-minded Blue Devils 14-6.

It was the fifth straight loss for the Blue Devils after a season-opening win over Valley North. Three of those defeats have been by a single touchdown margin.

"The kids played a pretty good ball game," said Grygla/Goodridge coach Darwin Hagen. "That's the best they've played since the Tri-County game (Week 2). We kind of had a lull since then."

A 16-yard second quarter touchdown pass from Brady Wiseth to Denny Warne put the Blue Devils on the board, and they had two other potential touchdown passes dropped in the end zone.

A last-chance Grygla/Goodridge drive ended on a fumble after the Blue Devils drove across midfield in the final two minutes.

The Blue Devils netted 107 yards on 36 running plays, with Trevor Kiesow carrying 16 times for 51 yards. Wiseth was 5-for-18 passing for 74 yards.

Grygla/Goodridge, scheduled to play Marshall County Central Tuesday (Oct. 19) at Newfolden, will close out the 1993 season Tuesday, Oct. 26, with a 3 p.m. game against Kittson Central in Grygla.

RLCC loses another 3-2 match

Red Lake County Central challenged a strong Fisher/Climax team before running into problems at the end Monday in a 3-2 high school volleyball loss to the host Knights.

Fisher/Climax won 10-15, 15-6, 12-15, 15-9, 15-1.

The Knights broke a 9-9 tie to win Game 4, then blew away the Mustangs in Game 5.

"We had some trouble with our serve reception in the last game," reported Red Lake County Central coach Deb Jacobson. "We just couldn't get our offense going."

Red Lake County Central played Thief River Falls tough before surrendering a 3-2 Thursday decision and played at the same level Monday before the final-game letdown, pointed out Bray. "It was a good team effort," she said. "They're playing together as a team."

The 8-14 Mustangs will be idle until a Tuesday, Oct. 26, match at Clearbrook/Gonvick. They close out regular season play Thursday, Oct. 28, at Win-E-Mac.

Greyhounds edge Gators 7-0

Only scoring came on a 37-yard second quarter fumble recovery return by Fosston's Monte Burnette Friday as the host Greyhounds edged Badger/Greenbush-Middle River 6-0 in Valley Plains Conference high school football.

It was the sixth loss in seven starts for the Gators, who close out the 1993 season tonight (Wednesday) against Lake Park-Audubon in Middle River. They've been shut out three times. Fosston is 2-5.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River mustered just 140 yards worth of offense in the defensive struggle. Brian Walsh carried 18 times for 72 yards and Josh Kujava netted 40 yards on eight carries for the Gators. Quarterback Sheldon Ruud wound up with just 10 yards on a 4-for-14 passing performance.

SOME FACTS ABOUT FLOOD INSUANCE

1) The Federal Flood Insurance Policy defines a flood as:
A general and temporary condition of partial or complete inundation of normally dry land areas from -
- an overflow of inland or tidal waters.
- the unusual and rapid accumulation or runoff of surface waters.
- mudslides which are proximately caused by flood.
2) Ninety percent of all disasters in the U.S. are flood related.
3) As most homeowners policies do not offer protection against flood damage, if you live in a flood prone area, you may need to consider purchasing a flood insurance policy.
4) There is normally a five-day waiting period between the time flood insurance is purchased and the time coverage is in force.
5) Our community is a participating community in the National Flood Insurance Program. This means that our community has adopted adequate floodplain management regulations for its flood prone areas and is therfore eligible for the sale of flood insurance under this national program.

Deer Decoys

They work.

That's the bottom line on deer decoys, which the Department of Natural Resources uses to snare poachers and those who shoot illegally from the road.

How does the DNR know decoys work? Well, just talk to Ken Soring, a conservation officer in the Brainerd area. He's got plenty of tales to tell.

"Today, awareness of the decoy program is so high that people tell us they've seen decoys in places we've never even put them," said Soring. "People see real deer and for some reason think it's our decoy."

In one extreme instance, he said, a hunter even passed up a shot at a legal deer because he thought it was a decoy. Explained Soring: "The hunter said to himself, 'I'm not going to let the DNR fool me,' and turned and walked away from a deer that had been standing motionless in a swamp. Later, when he glanced over his shoulder, the deer was bounding away."

DNR deer decoy program isn't aimed at the legal, ethical hunter. Instead, it targets those who shoot from roads or trespass. In most instances, decoys are placed on private property at the request of the landowner.

Leo Haesman, DNR Enforcement Division chief, said the beauty of deer decoys is that they work on the officer's timetable. "If we have complaints in a certain area, we don't have to wait for a nice night when the deer are likely to come out and feed. Instead, we can set up a decoy anytime, any place," Haseman said. "This has greatly improved our efficiency."

DNR has used decoys aggressively for the past five years. In the first year, 135 shooters were arrested and all but one was convicted. Since then, decoys have resulted in 100 to 150 arrests per year. Nearly all arrests end in convictions.

"The decoy program has become an effective deterrent against those who are prone to break the law," said Haseman. "Today, fewer people are shooting from roadways and we're more efficient at catching those who do." He noted that sportsman's organizations have helped pay for new decoys and to replace those that have been damaged. Typically, decoys must be replaced after they've been hit 50 to 100 times. The decoys aren't big deer and their antlers—if they have any—are ordinary in size.

Craig Backer, DNR regional enforcement supervisor at Grand Rapids, noted that many people "have caught on to decoys," but that's okay by him. "People are thinking more and shooting less," said Backer. "Our goal was to reduce illegal and unethical activity and that's precisely what's happening."

Though deer decoys are not secret, they still fool a few who are inclined to break the law.

Cleaning Big Game

You've been successful at the hunt, or so you think. Now all you have to do is find your game and head home to enjoy it. Is it that easy?

Many hunters find that when the time comes to track, retrieve and clean game animals, something is missing in their hunting education, according to Jean Bergerson, a DNR information officer in Grand Rapids.

Bergerson offers some tips on retrieving and cleaning big game.

- When you deliver the shot, make sure you mark where the animal was located and the direction in which it was headed.
- Observe any unusual behavior when the shot or arrow was fired; were you able to determine where the animal was hit?
- Go to the animal's last observed location and look for more clues; if you were bowhunting, can you locate your arrow?
- If you don't find a blood trail, don't assume the animal wasn't hit. You have a responsibility to retrieve the animal. Head in the direction it moved and look for a blood trail. If you are certain you hit the animal, but have trouble locating a trail, get help and start circling the area until you find clues.
- When you find the animal, field dress it immediately, removing all internal organs, including the windpipe and kidneys. Be careful not to puncture any organs and keep the meat clean. Bowhunters should look for the entrance and exit wound so as not to be cut by a broadhead still in the animal.
- Clean and cool the game immediately.
- Don't hang deer to age if the temperature is above 40 degrees, or bacteria will become a problem.

Middle School

Seventh and eighth grade volleyball teams at Franklin Middle School played Friday matches vs. Warren-Alvarado and Saturday matches vs. Bemidji.

Warren-Alvarado beat the eighth grade A team 15-7, 10-15, 15-13, but the Franklin eighth graders won the B match 15-5, 4-15, 15-13.

Franklin swept the eighth grade matches with Bemidji – 15-2, 15-5, 15-8 in the A encounter; 15-12, 15-7, 15-10 in the B contest.

The Franklin seventh graders won all four decisions. Against Warren-Alvarado it was a 15-5, 15-3 A sweep and an 8-15, 15-9, 15-10 B decision. The wins over Bemidji included a 15-2, 15-10, 15-10 A sweep and a 15-3, 15-3, 15-9 B victory.

Bear Hunting

Bear hunting is darn good these days. In fact, its never been better.

That from the Department of Natural Resources, which reports black bear numbers are on an upward trend and hunter success is bullish.

"Last year, 41 percent of bear hunters were successful," said Dave Schad, a DNR wildlife specialist. "That's outstanding. It's among the best success rates in the country."

Last year, hunters harvested a record 3,175 bears in central and northern Minnesota. This was the fifth record harvest in seven years. By comparison, only 150 to 200 bears were taken annually prior to 1971, when the first restricted bear hunting season was authorized. Said Schad: "We've come a long way. Today, Minnesota is truly a premier bear hunting state."

There are two reasons for this tremendous turnaround: legislation and research. In 1965, bounty payments were eliminated and in 1971, the Minnesota Legislature classified the black bear as a protected big game animal. No longer could bears be shot anywhere, anytime. Also, starting in 1981, the DNR began aggressive bear research. This led to the quota system that the DNR uses to limit hunter numbers and thereby manage the overall bear harvest.

DNR bear researcher Dave Garshelis and colleagues have also discovered:

- Minnesota's male bears travel long distances to spend time in three distinctly different areas, a den site, a breeding range, and a fall feeding range. Bears often travel 30 or more miles each season. Some bears travel 80 to 100 miles.
- Bears, especially adult males, typically travel south in late summer to find new food sources, such as acorns, then north again to den-up for the winter.
- Female bears that inhabit northern bogs are smaller than those that occupy uplands. This is due to differences in food supply.
- Smaller female bears - namely those in northern bog country - mature about two years later than those in central Minnesota. Small sows give birth to smaller cubs, which have a higher mortality rate.
- Male bears prefer to den in remote areas where they are unlikely to be disturbed by logging, snowmobiles or other activity. They choose den sites that are more exposed than those used by females. Ironically, colder den sites may enable bears to reduce their body temperature more and thereby expend less energy.
- Approximately 15,000 bears inhabit Minnesota's forests. This number is based on an extensive tetracycline mark-and-recapture study conducted in 1991.

"Minnesota's bear population has grown over the last 20 years for the simple reason that reproduction is higher than mortality," said Garshelis. "Cub mortality is about 15 percent. However, once a bear reaches 2 years old, it rarely dies of natural causes. Hunting is by far the highest mortality factor."

Garshelis noted that despite a string of record bear harvests, Minnesota's bear population continues to flourish. He said hunters take about 20 percent of the bear population.

A total of 8,630 bear hunting permits have been issued for the hunting season that began Sept. 1. That's the most ever and 6,000 more than just 11 years ago. Also, the DNR sells an unlimited number of bear licenses in selected portions of central Minnesota that are outside of the traditional bear range. The objective is to prevent bear population increases in these forest/agriculture transition areas, so that bear damage to agricultural crops does not increase.

Hunters have played a large role in helping the DNR better understand Minnesota's bears. That's because hunters who kill a bear must supply the DNR Section of Wildlife with a bear tooth. By analyzing thousands of teeth, DNR researchers have determined the age structure of the population and also the reproductive success of females.

Experts believe grain scab not transmitted through seed

Scab disease that adversely affected much of Minnesota's 1993 wheat and barley crops won't be transmitted directly to the 1994 crop by seed, according to Harley J. Otto, president and chief executive officer of the Minnesota Crop Improvement Association.

"Scab is caused by the Fusarium graminearum fungus," Otto said. "Spores of the fungus are carried to growing grain plants from plants and debris in the field. The spores germinate and invade developing grain kernels. Scab infection is greatest with continuous moisture for 48 hours or more and temperatures of 75 to 85 degrees when grain is flowering.

"Planting seed infected by scab does not mean you'll get a scabby crop," he adds. "It could add a bit of scab incoulum to the soil, but the organism that causes scab is already present in most Minnesota soils, ready to invade growing plants under favorable conditions."

Otto says that scab can and will adversely affect seed germination, however, and therein lies a major problem for farmers accustomed to saving their own seed.

His recommendation is to plant certified seed next spring, which must meet specific standards for germination and purity. Careful conditioning by a reputable seed conditioner can greatly improve the quality of grain saved for seed. But by the time cleanout, the cost of conditioning and other factors are figured in, the net cost to the farmer is usually less—and the yield potential greater—by buying and planting certified seed.

State law requires seed sold to be labeled for germination. "Always read the seed tag, sale certificate or other form of seed label to be certain of the germination of the seed you buy," Otto said.

He also recommends lining up seed for 1994 early because quality seed of many varieties may be scarce next spring.

ITV workshop on starting business

"How to Really Start Your Own Business," a workshop for all persons thinking about starting a business, will be presented on Thursdays, October 28 and November 4, from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. through interactive television at the Northwest Technical College in Thief River Falls.

The workshop will also be available at the Northwest Technical College in East Grand Forks and the University of Minnesota at Crookston. Registration fee is $20 per person with $10 charged for a second person from a family or business.

Those planning to attend should select the most convenient of the three locations where the workshop is offered. Participants in an interactive television class can see, hear and interact with the instructors and students at the other sites.

The workshop is designed to provide an overview of the planning steps necessary to insure a successful venture into a new business, according to Jan Hoff, director of the Small Business Development Center at the Northwest Technical College in Thief River Falls.

Instruction will include professional video tape segments augmented by presentations by members of the Grand Forks chapter of the Service Corps of Retired Executives (SCORE) and the Small Business Development Center (SBDC) who have had successful careers as business owners, managers and executives.

Sponsors of the workshop are the Northwest Technical College's SBDC and SCORE. Pre-registration is requested by October 21. To register or receive additional information, call 681-5424 or 1-800-222-2884.

To auction 3,600 acres of land in Kittson county

Some 3,600 acres of hunting, recreation and pastureland in Pelan and Klondike townships northeast of Karlstad will be sold at auction beginning at 2 p.m. Thursday, October 28, at the Eagles Club in Karlstad.

The land involved is in 11 tracts ranging from a quarter-section (160 acres) to a full section (640 acres) and within an area about five miles wide by seven miles long. A preview tour of the property will begin at 10 a.m. on Saturday, October 23, from the Karlstad Eagles club.

A representative of Steffes Auctioneers, Inc., in Fargo, ND, which will conduct the sale, said the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) has had title to the property since 1982 and that this auction will be the first sale of FmHA held land in Minnesota through the auction method. He also said interest in the land sale has been surprisingly high.

Experts believe grain scab not transmitted through seed

Scab disease that adversely affected much of Minnesota's 1993 wheat and barley crops won't be transmitted directly to the 1994 crop by seed, according to Harley J. Otto, president and chief executive officer of the Minnesota Crop Improvement Association.

"Scab is caused by the Fusarium graminearum fungus," Otto said. "Spores of the fungus are carried to growing grain plants from plants and debris in the field. The spores germinate and invade developing grain kernels. Scab infection is greatest with continuous moisture for 48 hours or more and temperatures of 75 to 85 degrees when grain is flowering.

"Planting seed infected by scab does not mean you'll get a scabby crop," he adds. "It could add a bit of scab inoculum to the soil, but the organism that causes scab is already present in most Minnesota soils, ready to invade growing plants under favorable conditions."

Otto says that scab can and will adversely affect seed germination, however, and therein lies a major problem for farmers accustomed to saving their own seed.

His recommendation is to plant certified seed next spring, which must meet specific standards for germination and purity. Careful conditioning by a reputable seed conditioner can greatly improve the quality of grain saved for seed. But by the time cleanout, the cost of conditioning and other factors are figured in, the net cost to the farmer is usually less—and the yield potential greater—by buying and planting certified seed.

State law requires seed sold to be labeled for germination. "Always read the seed tag, sale certificate or other form of seed label to be certain of the germination of the seed you buy," Otto said.

He also recommends lining up seed for 1994 early because quality seed of many varieties may be scarce next spring.

ITV workshop on starting business

"How to Really Start Your Own Business," a workshop for all persons thinking about starting a business, will be presented on Thursdays, October 28 and November 4, from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. through interactive television at the Northwest Technical College in Thief River Falls.

The workshop will also be available at the Northwest Technical College in East Grand Forks and the University of Minnesota at Crookston. Registration fee is $20 per person with $10 charged for a second person from a family or business.

Those planning to attend should select the most convenient of the three locations where the workshop is offered. Participants in an interactive television class can see, hear and interact with the instructors and students at the other sites.

The workshop is designed to provide an overview of the planning steps necessary to insure a successful venture into a new business, according to Jan Hoff, director of the Small Business Development Center at the Northwest Technical College in Thief River Falls.

Instruction will include professional video tape segments augmented by presentations by members of the Grand Forks chapter of the Service Corps of Retired Executives (SCORE) and the Small Business Development Center (SBDC) who have had successful careers as business owners, managers and executives.

Sponsors of the workshop are the Northwest Technical College's SBDC and SCORE. Pre-registration is requested by October 21. To register or receive additional information, call 681-5424 or 1-800-222-2884.

To auction 3,600 acres of land in Kittson county

Some 3,600 acres of hunting, recreation and pastureland in Pelan and Klondike townships northeast of Karlstad will be sold at auction beginning at 2 p.m. Thursday, October 28, at the Eagles Club in Karlstad.

The land involved is in 11 tracts ranging from a quarter-section (160 acres) to a full section (640 acres) and within an area about five miles wide by seven miles long. A preview tour of the property will begin at 10 a.m. on Saturday, October 23, from the Karlstad Eagles club.

A representative of Steffes Auctioneers, Inc., in Fargo, ND, which will conduct the sale, said the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) has had title to the property since 1982 and that this auction will be the first sale of FmHA held land in Minnesota through the auction method. He also said interest in the land sale has been surprisingly high.

For information contact Steffes Auctioneers, Inc. in Fargo at 1-800-726-8609.

Whole Wheat BIBLE STUDY

What is worldly is not godly

After you read through this Bible study, go back and look up the Scriptures and highlight them in your Bible.

"This is pure and undefiled religion, to visit the widows and the orphans in their distress, and to keep oneself unspotted by the world" (James 1:27).

The people of this world are concerned about the things of this world. They are concerned about food, clothing and shelter (Matt. 6:25). They are concerned about bigger homes, stock markets and the price of gold (Matt. 13:22). They are concerned about what they read in the newspaper and what the weather is going to be from day to day.

Most people worry about this and that, while the person who loves God has no such concerns (1 Peter 1:14). He knows that the Father will take care of all his needs because he has sought the kingdom first by subjecting himself to the righteousness of God, as Jesus Christ did (Matt. 6:33; Rom. 10:1-3). He knows the world is going the wrong way, but feels wonderful because he knows he is going the right way—God's Way. He has been saved from this perverse generation (Acts 2:40). He is in God's care now. He knows that if he lives to serve only God, as Jesus did, he will end up where Jesus is with a new body that cannot die (Matt. 4:10; John 14:2-3). He doesn't live for self any longer, but he lives totally for God by serving others (1 Cor. 10:24).

Continuing to live for self is Satan's will (2 Tim. 2:26). Continually living for others by practicing righteousness and serving others is God's Will (Matt. 25:40-41). You live for the one you serve and God's friends live only to serve the Lord by serving others.

The people mentioned in James 4:3-4 were selfish. They were still living for self and had friendship with the world. They were lukewarm and double-minded (Rev. 3:16; James 4:7-8). They were not resisting Satan, which is resisting selfishness. They were not allowing the God of peace to totally crush their old natures by totally committing themselves to the Will of God (Rom. 16:20; 1 Peter 4:2).

In Revelation 18:2 and 4, God commands His people to come out of Babylon. This means we are to come out of religious confusion by worshiping God in spirit and truth (John 4:23-24). How is this done? We are to be concerned about the poor and the needy, and come to the aid of a widow or an orphan who needs help. When we get involved in acts of righteousness such as this, we please God in heaven (Luke 9:23, 48; 6:46; Mark 9:35; 10:43-44; Matt. 20:26-28; 23:11). Then, we just keep ourselves unspotted by the world, which means we keep serving others in order to refrain from sinning (James 1:27).

BIBLE STUDY

What is worldly is not godly

After you read through this Bible study, go back and look up the Scriptures and highlight them in your Bible.

"This is pure and undefiled religion, to visit the widows and the orphans in their distress, and to keep oneself unspotted by the world" (James 1:27).

The people of this world are concerned about the things of this world. They are concerned about food, clothing and shelter (Matt. 6:25). They are concerned about bigger homes, stock markets and the price of gold (Matt. 13:22). They are concerned about what they read in the newspaper and what the weather is going to be from day to day.

Most people worry about this and that, while the person who loves God has no such concerns (1 Peter 1:14). He knows that the Father will take care of all his needs because he has sought the kingdom first by subjecting himself to the righteousness of God, as Jesus Christ did (Matt. 6:33; Rom. 10:1-3). He knows the world is going the wrong way; but feels wonderful because he knows he is going the right way—God's Way. He has been saved from this perverse generation (Acts 2:40). He is in God's care now. He knows that if he lives to serve only God, as Jesus did, he will end up where Jesus is with a new body that cannot die (Matt. 4:10; John 14:2-3). He doesn't live for self any longer, but he lives totally for God by serving others (1 Cor. 10:24).

Continuing to live for self is Satan's will (2 Tim. 2:26). Continually living for others by practicing righteousness and serving others is God's Will (Matt. 25:40-41). You live for the one you serve and God's friends live only to serve the Lord by serving others.

The people mentioned in James 4:3-4 were selfish. They were still living for self and had friendship with the world. They were lukewarm and double-minded (Rev. 3:16; James 4:7-8). They were not resisting Satan, which is resisting selfishness. They were not allowing the God of peace to totally crush their old natures by totally committing themselves to the Will of God (Rom. 16:20; 1 Peter 4:2).

In Revelation 18:2 and 4, God commands His people to come out of Babylon. This means we are to come out of religious confusion by worshiping God in spirit and truth (John 4:23-24). How is this done? We are to be concerned about the poor and the needy, and come to the aid of a widow or an orphan who needs help. When we get involved in acts of righteousness such as this, we please God in heaven (Luke 9:23, 48; 6:46; Mark 9:35; 10:43-44; Matt. 20:26-28; 23:11). Then, we just keep ourselves unspotted by the world, which means we keep serving others in order to refrain from sinning (James 1:27).

The Strandquist Senior Citizens met at the Center with 11 guests. The time was spent finishing items for the fall craft sale which will be held on Thursday the 7th of October, at the Center. I hope to be there at 2 o'clock so I can start my Christmas shopping as I have already seen some beautiful handmade articles that anyone would be glad to get for a gift. At the meeting last Thursday, Joyce Wikstrom brought a lovely birthday cake in honor of Elphie Adlis' birthday, which was on Monday the 27th. Happy birthday, Elphie! In spite of the perfect autumn weather we've had for awhile, some folks are busy packing up and going South for the winter. George Rasmussen left last week to be with Virgil and Ruth Rasmussen in the Cities. Today a dear friend and neighbor, Ebba Sihlberg also went to Minneapolis, so no news from that department for a few months. Ebba's son, Boyd Sihlberg, with several of his family and friends came up over the weekend and helped her pack, and on Monday moved her to a nice apartment in the Cities. Now don't get too cozy down there as we certainly look forward to seeing you back by spring. How about all the hunters who have become accustomed to having potato dumplings at your house during the moose and deer season, Ebba? Who's going to extend that Scandinavian hospitality to them now?

Glen and Audrey Rasmussen of Walker were up here for a few days to visit Audrey's father, Mr. Clow at Pembina, and celebrate his birthday. While there they also visited Roy Vagle's.

George Rasmussen left last week to be with Virgil and Ruth Rasmussen in the Cities. Ebba's son, Boyd Sihlberg, with several of his family and friends came up over the weekend and helped her pack, and on Monday moved her to a nice apartment in the Cities. Now don't get too cozy down there as we certainly look forward to seeing you back by spring. How about all the hunters who have become accustomed to having potato dumplings at your house during the moose and deer season, Ebba? Who's going to extend that Scandinavian hospitality to them now?

How To Write...And Talk... About People With AIDS

Information provided to the news media in connection with the display of a portion of the NAMES Project AIDS Memorial Quilt at the University of North Dakota calls attention what is considered proper in writing and talking about people who have AIDS.

As the number of people identified to be HIV positive grows, and familiarity with the virus and its results increases, there is also increasing sensitivity to the way in which references are made to people who have contracted HIV. Here is what The NAMES Project suggests:

"In keeping with the wishes of most groups in the field of AIDS education, we request that you use the term 'people with AIDS,' or, in second reference, the acronym 'PWAs' when referring to those who have AIDS. This term is preferable to 'AIDS victims' and 'AIDS patients' for several reasons. 'Victim' implies defeat and passivity and tends to dehumanize the subject. People living with an actively fighting AIDS often don't fit the label of 'victims.' 'Patient' implies that the subject is receiving medical treatment, when in fact PWAs are often either undiagnosed or untreated (due to a lack of medical insurance, for instance)."

The request goes on to note that the phrase "innocent victim" is particularly offensive "due to its implication that some people with AIDS are 'guilty'. Accusations of guilt, which typically are directed at those who contracted HIV through sex or drug use, compound the discrimination that burdens people with AIDS and hampers efforts to educate the public about AIDS."

In its rationale for the suggestions, The NAMES Project notes that "People with AIDS often contracted HIV before they knew how to avoid it.

"Because the average incubation period for the virus is roughly 10 years, many of those who are currently sick hadn't even heard of HIV or AIDS when they were exposed," the organization states. "Furthermore, because resources for AIDS education today are scarce, and educational efforts are often constrained or squelched by strict 'moralistic' limits, many people continue to be unwittingly exposed to HIV. The distinction between 'innocent' and 'guilty' people with AIDS is artificial and destructive."

Since HIV is the acronym for the virus that causes AIDS, reference to the "HIV virus" is redundant. "AIDS-infected" is also inaccurate because AIDS is the result of the infectious HIV, and as such is a syndrome in which the immune system is unable to resist a variety of infections. In short, HIV is an infectious virus which causes AIDS; AIDS is a condition caused by HIV.

Much remains to be said and written in the years to come about HIV and AIDS. The Memorial quilt panels on display at UND are a part of some 23,416 panels which comprise the entire quilt—each representing a death from AIDS. Yet the entire quilt represented just under 13 per cent of the 182,275 deaths from AIDS at the end of March, 1992, in the United States.

As of Jan. 1, 1993, the World Health Organization had identified 611,589 AIDS cases internationally and estimated there are 2,500,000 cases existing with 500,000 deaths caused. We might as well become familiar with how to write and talk about HIV and AIDs sensitively and correctly.

There Are 1,017,124 Reasons To Observe School Bus Stop Laws

Every school day in Minnesota, 11,548 school bus drivers in 421 school districts are responsible for transporting 1,017,124 students to and from school. Not all students registered to ride school buses ride them every day, of course, and the number of students changes daily, but the message is clear that more than a million Minnesota school children ride buses to and from school.

This week is being observed officially as "School Bus Safety Week" in Minnesota under proclamation by Gov. Arne Carlson. The observance is to call attention of motorists to the Minnesota school bus stop arm law and make drivers more aware of the danger zone around school buses.

Last year there were 741 accidents involving school buses in Minnesota with one person killed and 425 injured in those crashes. That number of mishaps, despite the training and caution of the state's school bus drivers, indicates that the public is not doing a very responsible job of obeying the law and watching out for children.

State law requires motorists to stop at least 20 feet away from a school bus with a stop arm extended or red lights flashing. Vehicles should not move until the stop arm is retracted and the red lights are no longer flashing. The law applies to traffic meeting as well as approaching the bus from the rear. Failing to stop under these circumstances is a gross misdemeanor under Minnesota law, punishable by up to a year in jail and a $3,000 fine—and that's if no injury results from the violation. If there is a death, injury or property damage as a result the penalties will be much more severe.

But it's not the penalty that is important here, it is the safety of children. Young children often do not see traffic and most do not comprehend speed and distance like adults do. They are dependent upon people who are old enough to drive being adult enough to obey the law. Studies show that students between the ages of five and eight are most vulnerable to being struck in the so-called "danger zone," an area extending 10 feet around the bus.

If you are on the road during times when school buses are loading or unloading children, be especially alert for the buses' flashing lights and extended stop arms. Make sure all children are safely away from the bus or on the bus before proceeding. It is the duty of every driver to make our roads and highways safe for school buses, the men and women who drive them and the children who ride them.

To The Editor:

I've done some debating about writing this letter, but my feelings run too deep on this subject and I need to vocalize. I realize that this may offend people, but this isn't my intention. I just want people to see how they act and how they judge people who aren't like themselves. I don't want to hurt anyone's feelings, I just want people to think before they judge someone, because not everyone is as they appear to be.

For example: I know this gentleman—I'll call him "Bill"—who people would look at and see as a biker, a hood or a troublemaker. By the way he looks, people would pass judgment on him without even knowing him. He wears black leather biker boots, blue jeans, a black Metallica t-shirt, black leather biker's jacket and has long blond hair. People think the worst because of the way he chooses to dress, but people pass judgment too quickly.

"Bill" is a very quiet and gentle man. He's very intelligent. He graduated from college with a mathematics degree and a 4.0 average. He had assisted with tutoring other students at the college. He can play guitar, bass guitar and piano. In fact, he can even tune a piano by ear, and that's quite a job to do. How can people judge "Bill" when they don't even take the time to get to know him?

I know this other gentleman who, like "Bill," is judged too harshly. I'll call him "James." "James" wears Zubaz pants, a Firehouse t-shirt, black shoes and a Raiders cap, an earring and has long hair. "James" likes to walk around town to get exercise.

He went out walking this past summer and found himself in a fight with a drunk who didn't approve of how "James" looked. It didn't prove anything and the only thing that happened is that the drunk got a nice-sized fine. "James" won't change his appearance for anyone but himself and he is content with the way he looks now.

"James" had other problems over this past summer. A man I'll call "George" had seen "James" out on one of his walks. "George" didn't approve, so he would yell profanities to "James" and would keep circling the block and following him around. He would tell "James" to get a job, earn some money to buy decent clothes and to get a haircut.

"George" would do this for weeks on end, whenever he would see "James" out on the street, trying to pick a fight but not taking the first swing. "James" would get a little upset, but he wouldn't do anything....not until "George" followed him home and tried to pick a fight with him there.

"George" and the drunk didn't think that perhaps "James" wasn't a troublemaker or a "long-haired hippie." "James" is a gentleman, and has been married to me for the past five and one-half years. We have three children, all under the age of five. "James" has a job as a security guard and, believe it or not, he and I are buying a house here in Thief River Falls.

We were hoping that we had picked a great city with friendly people, but we are wondering if we have made a mistake.

We have lived here for a little over two years, and since we've been here I have had a man follow me around town and try to pick me up like I was some kind of prostitute. I've been stalked by two people and "James" was in a fight with one person and harassed by another.

We only want a safe place to raise our kids. We want no problems with anyone. Is that too much to ask?

Just because people listen to Headbangers music on TV or in their cars or homes doesn't make them evil or troublemakers. I myself listen to nothing but rock 'n' roll music and my husband and I watch the Headbangers Ball on TV faithfully every Saturday night. I let my kids listen, too. In fact, all three of my kids will tell you that country music s---s and that their favorite song is "Enter Sandman" by Metallica.

Are they evil or troublemakers? I think not; they are just kids who voice their opinions an their personal tastes.

I am teaching my children to do well in school, how to get along with others, and how to know the difference between right and wrong. My kids will dress as they choose, and they will listen to whatever music they choose. I really doubt that my kids will ever be troublemakers.

Sincerely,
Cheryl Olafson

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Sustad were pleasantly surprised to receive a call from LeRoy's second cousin, Miles Schustedt, of Fond du Lac, WI, who was in the area on a business trip, and took advantage of locating relatives. He is a wholesale importer and distributor of one-of-a-kind original signed oil paintings, formerly an instructor. Relative contact had been lost for several years but he knew the Schustedt (Sustad) pioneers had settled in the Viking area. His father, Antone, had at one time corresponded with the Henry Sustad family, so on Wednesday afternoon he visited at the LeRoy Sustad home. A lot of reminiscing was done with a promise of getting together in the future since we each now know where each is located.

How To Write...And Talk... About People With AIDS

Information provided to the news media in connection with the display of a portion of the NAMES Project AIDS Memorial Quilt at the University of North Dakota calls attention what is considered proper in writing and talking about people who have AIDS.

As the number of people identified to be HIV positive grows, and familiarity with the virus and its results increases, there is also increasing sensitivity to the way in which references are made to people who have contracted HIV. Here is what The NAMES Project suggests:

"In keeping with the wishes of most groups in the field of AIDS education, we request that you use the term 'people with AIDS,' or, in second reference, the acronym 'PWAs' when referring to those who have AIDS. This term is preferable to 'AIDS victims' and 'AIDS patients' for several reasons. 'Victim' implies defeat and passivity and tends to dehumanize the subject. People living with an actively fighting AIDS often don't fit the label of 'victims.' 'Patient' implies that the subject is receiving medical treatment, when in fact PWAs are often either undiagnosed or untreated (duelto a lack of medical insurance, for instance)."

The request goes on to note that the phrase "innocent victim" is particularly offensive "due to its implication that some people with AIDS are 'guilty'. Accusations of guilt, which typically are directed at those who contracted HIV through sex or drug use, compound the discrimination that burdens people with AIDS and hampers efforts to educate the public about AIDS."

In its rationale for the suggestions, The NAMES Project notes that "People with AIDS often contracted HIV before they knew how to avoid it.

"Because the average incubation period for the virus is roughly 10 years, many of those who are currently sick hadn't even heard of HIV or AIDS when they were exposed," the organization states. "Furthermore, because resources for AIDS education today are scarce, and educational efforts are often constrained or squelched by strict 'moralistic' limits, many people continue to be unwittingly exposed to HIV. The distinction between 'innocent' and 'guilty' people with AIDS is artificial and destructive."

Since HIV is the acronym for the virus that causes AIDS, reference to the "HIV virus" is redundant. "AIDS-infected" is also inaccurate because AIDS is the result of the infectious HIV, and as such is a syndrome in which the immune system is unable to resist a variety of infections. In short, HIV is an infectious virus which causes AIDS; AIDS is a condition caused by HIV.

Much remains to be said and written in the years to come about HIV and AIDS. The Memorial quilt panels on display at UND are a part of some 23,416 panels which comprise the entire quilt—each representing a death from AIDS. Yet the entire quilt represented just under 13 per cent of the 182,275 deaths from AIDS at the end of March, 1992, in the United States.

As of Jan. 1, 1993, the World Health Organization had identified 611,589 AIDS cases internationally and estimated there are 2,500,000 cases existing with 500,000 deaths caused. We might as well become familiar with how to write and talk about HIV and AIDs sensitively and correctly.

There Are 1,017,124 Reasons To Observe School Bus Stop Laws

Every school day in Minnesota, 11,548 school bus drivers in 421 school districts are responsible for transporting 1,017,124 students to and from school. Not all students registered to ride school buses ride them every day, of course, and the number of students changes daily, but the message is clear that more than a million Minnesota school children ride buses to and from school.

This week is being observed officially as "School Bus Safety Week" in Minnesota under proclamation by Gov. Arne Carlson. The observance is to call attention of motorists to the Minnesota school bus stop arm law and make drivers more aware of the danger zone around school buses.

Last year there were 741 accidents involving school buses in Minnesota with one person killed and 425 injured in those crashes. That number of mishaps, despite the training and caution of the state's school bus drivers, indicates that the public is not doing a very responsible job of obeying the law and watching out for children.

State law requires motorists to stop at least 20 feet away from a school bus with a stop arm extended or red lights flashing. Vehicles should not move until the stop arm is retracted and the red lights are no longer flashing. The law applies to traffic meeting as well as approaching the bus from the rear. Failing to stop under these circumstances is a gross misdemeanor under Minnesota law, punishable by up to a year in jail and a $3,000 fine—and that's if no injury results from the violation. If there is a death, injury or property damage as a result the penalties will be much more severe.

But it's not the penalty that is important here, it is the safety of children. Young children often do not see traffic and most do not comprehend speed and distance like adults do. They are dependent upon people who are old enough to drive being adult enough to obey the law. Studies show that students between the ages of five and eight are most vulnerable to being struck in the so-called "danger zone," an area extending 10 feet around the bus.

If you are on the road during times when school buses are loading or unloading children, be especially alert for the buses' flashing lights and extended stop arms. Make sure all children are safely away from the bus or on the bus before proceeding. It is the duty of every driver to make our roads and highways safe for school buses, the men and women who drive them and the children who ride them.

To The Editor:

I've done some debating about writing this letter, but my feelings run too deep on this subject and I need to vocalize. I realize that this may offend people, but this isn't my intention. I just want people to see how they act and how they judge people who aren't like themselves. I don't want to hurt anyone's feelings. I just want people to think before they judge someone, because not everyone is as they appear to be.

For example: I know this gentleman—I'll call him "Bill"—who people would look at and see as a biker, a hood or a troublemaker. By the way he looks, people would pass judgment on him without even knowing him. He wears black leather biker boots, blue jeans, a black Metallica t-shirt, black leather biker's jacket and has long blond hair. People think the worst because of the way he chooses to dress, but people pass judgment too quickly.

"Bill" is a very quiet and gentle man. He's very intelligent. He graduated from college with a mathematics degree and a 4.0 average. He had assisted with tutoring other students at the college. He can play guitar, bass guitar and piano. In fact, he can even tune a piano by ear, and that's quite a job to do. How can people judge "Bill" when they don't even take the time to get to know him?

I know this other gentleman who, like "Bill," is judged too harshly. I'll call him "James." "James" wears Zubaz pants, a Firehouse t-shirt, black shoes and a Raiders cap, an earring and has long hair. "James" likes to walk around town to get exercise.

He went out walking this past summer and found himself in a fight with a drunk who didn't approve of how "James" looked. It didn't prove anything and the only thing that happened is that the drunk got a nice-sized fine. "James" won't change his appearance for anyone but himself and he is content with the way he looks now.

"James" had other problems over this past summer. A man I'll call "George" had seen "James" out on one of his walks. "George" didn't approve, so he would yell profanities to "James" and would keep circling the block and following him around. He would tell "James" to get a job, earn some money to buy decent clothes and to get a haircut.

"George" would do this for weeks on end, whenever he would see "James" out on the street, trying to pick a fight but not taking the first swing. "James" would get a little upset, but he wouldn't do anything....not until "George" followed him home and tried to pick a fight with him there.

"George" and the drunk didn't think that perhaps "James" wasn't a troublemaker or a "long-haired hippie." "James" is a gentleman, and has been married to me for the past five and one-half years. We have three children, all under the age of five. "James" has a job as a security guard and, believe it or not, he and I are buying a house here in Thief River Falls.

We were hoping that we had picked a great city with friendly people, but we are wondering if we have made a mistake.

We have lived here for a little over two years, and since we've been here I have had a man follow me around town and try to pick me up like I was some kind of prostitute. I've been stalked by two people and "James" was in a fight with one person and harassed by another.

We only want a safe place to raise our kids. We want no problems with anyone. Is that too much to ask?

Just because people listen to Headbangers music on TV or in their cars or homes doesn't make them evil or troublemakers. I myself listen to nothing but rock 'n' roll music and my husband and I watch the Headbangers Ball on TV faithfully every Saturday night. I let my kids listen, too. In fact, all three of my kids will tell you that country music s---s and that their favorite song is "Enter Sandman" by Metallica.

Are they evil or troublemakers? I think not; they are just kids who voice their opinions an their personal tastes.

I am teaching my children to do well in school, how to get along with others, and how to know the difference between right and wrong. My kids will dress as they choose; and they will listen to whatever music they choose. I really doubt that my kids will ever be troublemakers.

Sincerely,
Cheryl Olafson

Got Any Junk Jewelry?

"The Thief River Falls Junior Chamber of Commerce is sharing in a statewide campaign to collect discarded inexpensive items of jewelry to be sent to service men in the South Pacific area, where the baubles are worth more than money in dealing with the native population. In appealing to local citizens for their support in the drive, Wallace Carlson, president of the Junior Chamber, stated that by Saturday of this week receptacles will have been placed in local stores to receive contributions."

Big Plans in Progress For Halloween

"Committee chairmen who will handle the manifold details in connection with the community Halloween festival to be staged Saturday afternoon and evening, October 30, in the arena and auditorium were announced today by James Parkins, general chairman. Plans call for a party for children of pre-school age through the third grade in the arena at 2:30, followed by a second party in the evening for children in the fourth through the eighth grades, and a dance in the auditorium for older children. Numerous prizes will be awarded to those appearing in the best costumes."

From the Editorial Page

"Goodridge again takes the honor of being the first subdivision of our county in going over the top. Instead of waiting for the November first call they organized their War Fund drive and got it out of the way in a hurry. A round of cheers to the good people of Goodridge for both their generosity and their initiative. Now which township will be the first to ring the bell?"

Albert Leander Anderson, who noted his 100th birthday anniversary September 20 at Valley Home in Thief River Falls, was recognized last week with a World War I 75th Anniversary Commemorative Medal presented by John Ellison, Pennington county veterans service officer.

The medal is a replica of the Victory Medal that was awarded to U.S. service members who served in World War I. It is a gift of the Robert R. McCormick Tribune Foundation to all living veterans of World War I.

The face of the medal is encircled by a band bearing the inscription "75th Anniversary" at the top and "World War I" at the bottom. The reverse side features an oak branch, symbolic of strength, and the inscription "They came on the wings of eagles" and "A grateful nation remembers, 1918-1993.

Leander Anderson served in the U.S. Army from Aug. 16, 1918 to March 6, 1919.

Anderson was honored in recognition of his 100th birthday anniversary September 19 when more than 80 relatives and friends gathered at the nursing home to help him celebrate. Hosts for the event were his brothers, Charles, Ivar and Ted Anderson and his sister, Esther Troska.

One of the guests at the party was Nicholas Sveen of Eden Prairie, born on April 10, 1993—100 years after Leander's birth. He is the son of Matthew and Pam (Paulsen) Sveen, grandson of Rudy and Rita Paulsen and great-grandson of Leander's sister, Mrs. Henry (Freda) Paulsen.

During the past century Leander has lived through five wars in which this country has been involved and witnessed major changes in communications, transportation, agriculture and medicine.

The program in his honor September 19 was arranged by nieces Gladys Halfmann and Naomi Anderson and included a prayer by Rev. Moyer, trio by niece Vivian Kezar and her daughters Kim Derman and Tamara Milbrath, talk by niece Rev. Marlene Anderson, and Swedish solo by Leander's brother Ivar Anderson.

Memories were offered by Rudy Paulsen, Quinton Anderson, Emmy Kruse and Gladys Halfmann and greetings received in the mail were read.

Born on the homestead of his parents, John and Brita Anderson in Augsburg township of Marshall county near Stephen, his first given name was Albert but he has always used his middle name of Leander.

He attended the agricultural college at Crookston, worked on the family farm, operated his own trucking business at Karlstad, worked at Sunsdahl-Peterson Implement and Mobil Oil company in Stephen and drove a Stephen school bus. Now 100 years of age, Albert Leander Anderson of Valley Home in Thief River Falls was recently presented with a World War I 75th anniversary commemorative medal by John Ellison, county veterans service officer. The medal which he received is a replica of the Victory Medal that was awarded to U.S. service members who served in World War I. Eight candidates vie for local elected positions

Eight candidates will be vying for elected positions in Thief River Falls next week. Four of the positions are for positions on the city council and four other candidates are vying for slots on board for School District 564.

Once again, The Times offered candidates an opportunity to address voters through The Times. At no cost to the candidates, space has been provided for pictures and short letters that answer questions about their background and qualifications for the post they are seeking.

Candidates running for City Council are unopposed this year. The candidates are: Robert Reeve for Mayor, Ken Schmalz for alderman at large, Don Barron for fourth ward alderman, and Dave Carlson for second ward alderman. The term for Mayor is for two years. The terms for the other positions are for four years.

Four candidates are vying for two slots on the School District 564 board. None of the candidates running for the positions are incumbents. The candidates are: Curtis Huot, Jean Larson, Cheryl Lee and Donna Myhrer. The positions are three year terms.

Eligible voters will be able to vote at their designated polling place from noon until 8 p.m. on November 2.

Polling places for this elections will be as follows:

City Voters: Ward 1 at the Heritage Community Center located at Fourth and Horace Avenue; Ward 2 at Zion Lutheran church, located at 505 North Main Avenue; Ward 3 at the Skylite Apartments located at 415 South Arnold; Ward 4 at Knox elementary school located at 701 Hughes Street; and Ward 5 at Redeemer Lutheran Church, located at 1300 Nora street.

There are two polling places for rural residents:

Eligible voters of the following townships and communities can vote at the polling place at the St. Hilaire library in St. Hilaire: the City of St. Hilaire, Black River, Bray, Mayfield, Polk Centre, River Falls, Sanders, and Wyandotte townships, and in Red Lake county the townships of Browns Creek, Gervais and River.

Eligible voters in the following townships and communities can vote at Northrop elementary school: Cloverleaf, Kratka, Norden, North, Numedal, Rocksbury, Silverton and Smiley townships in Pennington county, New Solum, Excell, Agder, Grand Plains and East Valley townships in Marshall county.

Minnesota voters have among the highest turnout rates in the nation in Presidential elections but don't do as well in local elections. The school board race should help voter turnout this year.

Tips for a safe Halloween

Law enforcement officers in Thief River Falls, Pennington County and AAA encourage parents to make sure their youngsters have a safe and enjoyable Halloween. By following these simple safety tips, you can help ensure that they do have a safe Halloween:

■ Try to Trick-or-Treat when it is still light outside.

■ Wear a costume that makes it easy for you to walk, see and be seen.

■ If you must go out at night, make certain that your costume is light in color.

■ Carry a flashlight so you can see and be seen easily.

■ Why not use makeup instead of a mask?

■ A face mask will keep you from seeing well. Take off your mask before you cross a street.

■ Have a parent, older brother or sister go Trick-or-Treating with you.

■ If someone older cannot go with you, Trick-or-Treat with a group of children.

■ Plan your Trick-or-Treat route ahead of time. Pick streets that are well-lighted.

■ Tell your family on which streets you will be Trick-or-Treating.

■ Cross only at corners. Never cross the street between parked cars or in the middle of the block.

■ If there is no sidewalk, walk facing traffic.

■ Wait until you get home to sort, check and eat your treats.

Other good perennials she mentioned were the Alma Potschke aster, "Coronation Gold" achillea, "Mt. Fujiyama" phlox, polygonum affine (fleeceflower), butterflyweed, purple coneflower, cardinal flower and "Goldsturm" rudbeckia. She said the fleeceflower turns deep red as the flower ages, that the butterflyweed will bloom continually from July to frost if dead blossoms are removed, that the coneflower is

There are many things a citizen can do to help the local schools. Offering to do volunteer work, paying the taxes that support the organization and getting involved by visiting your child's classroom to show your support are a few. Another way to serve the community within the school system is to be a voice for the concerns of others on the board of education. In order to do that, I am asking for the support of the community in the polls next, Tuesday, November 2.

Now 100 years of age, Albert Leander Anderson of Valley Home in Thief River Falls was recently presented with a World War I 75th anniversary commemorative medal by John Ellison, county veterans service officer. The medal which he received is a replica of the Victory Medal that was awarded to U.S. service members who served in World War I. Anderson served from Aug. 26, 1918 to March 6, 1919 as a member of the U.S. Army.

Albert Leander Anderson, who noted his 100th birthday anniversary September 20 at Valley Home in Thief River Falls, was recognized last week with a World War I 75th Anniversary Commemorative Medal presented by John Ellison, Pennington county veterans service officer.

The medal is a replica of the Victory Medal that was awarded to U.S. service members who served in World War I. It is a gift of the Robert R. McCormick Tribune Foundation to all living veterans of World War I.

The face of the medal is encircled by a band bearing the inscription "75th Anniversary" at the top and "World War I" at the bottom. The reverse side features an oak branch, symbolic of strength, and the inscription "They came on the wings of eagles" and "A grateful nation remembers, 1918-1993.

Leander Anderson served in the U.S. Army from Aug. 16, 1918 to March 6, 1919.

Anderson was honored in recognition of his 100th birthday anniversary September 19 when more than 80 relatives and friends gathered at the nursing home to help him celebrate. Hosts for the event were his brothers, Charles, Ivar and Ted Anderson and his sister, Esther Troska.

One of the guests at the party was Nicholas Sveen of Eden Prairie, born on April 10, 1993—100 years after Leander's birth. He is the son of Matthew and Pam (Paulsen) Sveen, grandson of Rudy and Rita Paulsen and great-grandson of Leander's sister, Mrs. Henry (Freda) Paulsen.

During the past century Leander has lived through five wars in which this country has been involved and witnessed major changes in communications, transportation, agriculture and medicine.

The program in his honor September 19 was arranged by nieces Gladys Halfmann and Naomi Anderson and included a prayer by Rev. Moyer, trio by niece Vivian Kezar and her daughters Kim Derman and Tamara Milbrath, talk by niece Rev. Marlene Anderson, and Swedish solo by Leander's brother Ivar Anderson.

Memories were offered by Rudy Paulsen, Quinton Anderson, Emmy Kruse and Gladys Halfmann and greetings received in the mail were read.

Born on the homestead of his parents, John and Brita Anderson in Augsburg township of Marshall county near Stephen, his first given name was Albert but he has always used his middle name of Leander.

He attended the agricultural college at Crookston, worked on the family farm, operated his own trucking business at Karlstad, worked at Sunsdahl-Peterson Implement and Mobil Oil company in Stephen and drove a Stephen school bus. He has been a lifetime member of Salem Lutheran church and a member of the Stephen American Legion Post 390 for 74 years.

Eight candidates vie for local elected positions

Eight candidates will be vying for elected positions in Thief River Falls next week. Four of the positions are for positions on the city council and four other candidates are vying for slots on board for School District 564.

Once again, The Times offered candidates an opportunity to address voters through The Times. At no cost to the candidates, space has been provided for pictures and short letters that answer questions about their background and qualifications for the post they are seeking.

Candidates running for City Council are unopposed this year. The candidates are: Robert Reeve *for Mayor, Ken Schmalz for alder*man at large, Don Barron for fourth ward alderman, and Dave Carlson for second ward alderman. The term for Mayor is for two years. The terms for the other positions are for four years.

Four candidates are vying for two slots on the School District 564 board. None of the candidates running for the positions are incumbents. The candidates are: Curtis Huot, Jean Larson, Cheryl Lee and Donna Myhrer. The positions are three year terms.

Eligible voters will be able to vote at their designated polling place from noon until 8 p.m. on November 2.

Polling places for this elections will be as follows:

City Voters: Ward 1 at the Heritage Community Center located at Fourth and Horace Avenue; Ward 2 at Zion Lutheran church, located at 505 North Main Avenue; Ward 3 at the Skylite Apartments located at 415 South Arnold; Ward 4 at Knox elementary school located at 701 Hughes Street; and Ward 5 at Redeemer Lutheran Church, located at 1300 Nora street.

There are two polling places for rural residents:

Eligible voters of the following townships and communities can vote at the polling place at the St. Hilaire library in St. Hilaire: the City of St. Hilaire, Black River, Bray, Mayfield, Polk Centre, River Falls, Sanders, and Wyandotte townships, and in Red Lake county the townships of Browns Creek, Gervais and River.

Eligible voters in the following townships and communities can vote at Northrop elementary school: Cloverleaf, Kratka, Norden, North, Numedal, Rocksbury, Silverton and Smiley townships in Pennington county, New Solum, Excell, Agder, Grand Plains and East Valley townships in Marshall county.

A voter must be registered to vote to be eligible to vote in this election. An unregistered individual may register to vote at the polling place on election day.

Minnesota voters have among the highest turnout rates in the nation in Presidential elections but don't do as well in local elections. The school board race should help voter turnout this year.

Tips for a safe Halloween

Law enforcement officers in Thief River Falls, Pennington County and AAA encourage parents to make sure their youngsters have a safe and enjoyable Halloween. By following these simple safety tips, you can help ensure that they do have a safe Halloween:

- ■ Try to Trick-or-Treat when it is still light outside.
- ■ Wear a costume that makes it easy for you to walk, see and be seen.
- ■ If you must go out at night, make certain that your costume is light in color.
- ■ Carry a flashlight so you can see and be seen easily.
- ■ Why not use makeup instead of a mask?
- ■ A face mask will keep you from seeing well. Take off your mask before you cross a street.
- ■ Have a parent, older brother or sister go Trick-or-Treating with you.
- ■ If someone older cannot go with you, Trick-or-Treat with a group of children.
- ■ Plan your Trick-or-Treat route ahead of time. Pick streets that are well-lighted.
- ■ Tell your family on which streets you will be Trick-or-Treating.
- ■ Cross only at corners. Never cross the street between parked cars or in the middle of the block.
- ■ If there is no sidewalk, walk facing traffic.
- ■ Wait until you get home to sort, check and eat your treats.

Horticultural society elects new officers

Dr. Anne Hanchek of the Minnesota Landscape Arboretum at the University of Minnesota was guest speaker at the recent fall workshop of the 13th District Horticultural Society held at Roseau where officers were elected for the next two years.

Dr. Hanchek showed slides on the "Amazing Autumn Perennials," including the chrysanthemum and some of the different colors and flower types being developed by the University of Minnesota.

Other good perennials she mentioned were the Alma Potschke aster, "Coronation Gold" achillea, "Mt. Fujiyama" phlox, polygonum affine (fleeceflower), butterflyweed, purple coneflower, cardinal flower and "Goldsturm" rudbeckia. She said the fleeceflower turns deep red as the flower ages, that the butterflyweed will bloom continually from July to frost if dead blossoms are removed, that the coneflower is

Extension workshop to look at how to deal with disaster

Looking at how to deal with one of Northwest Minnesota's worst crop disasters now and into 1994 will be the subject of Minnesota extension service's Crop Decision Making Workshops set for early November.

One of the sessions is scheduled for the courthouse in Thief River Falls at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday, November 2 and another at the Grygla civic center at 9:30 a.m. on Thursday, November 4, with both crop and livestock producers encouraged to attend.

"Scab, vomitoxin, other diseases and weather factors turned an above average crop into one of northwest Minnesota's worst crop disasters," states Ray Thompson, Marshall county extension educator, who will be one of several from the Northern Lites Cluster of the extension service to present information at the workshop.

Tips will be offered on such topics as varietal selection, whether there is any scab resistance, tillage recommendations, affect of volunteer seed germination on the 1994 crop, seedling blight and seed treatments, nitrogen and fertilizer recommendations and other production management suggestions.

In addition, discussions will cen-

Daylight Saving Time will come to an end for the winter at 2 a.m. Sunday, October 31, and everyone is reminded to set their clocks and watches back one hour, theoretically regaining the hour lost when DST began April 4.

She decided to begin her career as a nurse's aide after she visited family members in a local nursing home and was impressed by the nurse's aides there.

Only 792 banks out of 11,333 banks nationwide have received this rating for continuity of safety, strength and performance. The rating is based on the analysis of March 31, 1993 financial data as filed with federal regulators.

National Adult Immunization Week observed

Minnesota Coalition on Adult Immunization, led by the Minnesota Department of Health and the American Lung Association of Minnesota, is recognizing National Adult Immunization Week October 24-30 and reminding Minnesotans that immunizations also are important for adults.

Officials are urging certain people to get immunized against influenza and pneumonia if they are at risk for serious complications from the diseases. These high risk groups include people 65 and over and those with heart disease, lung disease or diabetes. Health care workers who care for these persons should also receive annual flu shots.

"We tend to have the perception that once you're immunized as a child, you have protection for life. But adults, especially those in high risk groups, can greatly benefit from immunization," adds Mary Jo O'Brien, Minnesota Health Commissioner.

"This year federal officials recommend that people receive their flu shots a little earlier than usual, but there is still plenty of time. Special flu shot clinics are available into November in many communities and doctors have vaccine on hand. So far, we've seen no cases of this year's flu in Minnesota."

According to officials at the Minnesota Department of Health, influenza and pneumonia are the fourth leading cause of death among Minnesotans over the age of 65. People at risk should be reimmunized against influenza every fall. The influenza vaccine is reformulated every year to protect against those strains of influenza that are most likely to appear in the U.S. during the coming winter.

Flu shots are also recommended for children and teenagers with diseases like arthritis, which are commonly treated with aspirin. In children, aspirin can increase the risk of developing a serious illness following a bout with influenza called Reye Syndrome.

For most people, the pneumococcal vaccine only needs to be given once. It protects against pneumococcal pneumonia, a disease which can follow an episode of influenza. Unlike flu shots, pneumococcal vaccinations can be scheduled for adults at any time during the year.

Additionally, all adults should receive a booster shot against tetanus and diphtheria every 10 years. Tetanus and diphtheria are included in childhood immunization programs, but adults who are not immunized or fail to receive recommended boosters remain at risk.

For more information about adult immunizations, see a physician or contact the local health department. Minnesota residents can also call the Minnesota Department of Health toll-free at 1-800-657-3723 or the Lung Association at 1-800-642-5864.

Only 792 banks out of 11,333 banks nationwide have received this rating for continuity of safety, strength and performance. The rating is based on the analysis of March 31, 1993 financial data as filed with federal regulators.

To receive the recognition, banks must have tangible capital exceeding nine per cent of tangible assets, a risk-based capital ratio exceeding 10.5 per cent, manageable delinquencies and repossessed assets, continually soundly invested and consistently profitable.

National Adult Immunization Week observed

Minnesota Coalition on Adult Immunization, led by the Minnesota Department of Health and the American Lung Association of Minnesota, is recognizing National Adult Immunization Week October 24-30 and reminding Minnesotans that immunizations also are important for adults.

Officials are urging certain people to get immunized against influenza and pneumonia if they are at risk for serious complications from the diseases. These high risk groups include people 65 and over and those with heart disease, lung disease or diabetes. Health care workers who care for these persons should also receive annual flu shots.

"We tend to have the perception that once you're immunized as a child, you have protection for life. But adults, especially those in high risk groups, can greatly benefit from immunization," adds Mary Jo O'Brien, Minnesota Health Commissioner.

"This year federal officials recommend that people receive their flu shots a little earlier than usual, but there is still plenty of time. Special flu shot clinics are available into November in many communities and doctors have vaccine on hand. So far, we've seen no cases of this year's flu in Minnesota."

According to officials at the Minnesota Department of Health, influenza and pneumonia are the fourth leading cause of death among Minnesotans over the age of 65. People at risk should be reimmunized against influenza every fall. The influenza vaccine is reformulated every year to protect against those strains of influenza that are most likely to appear in the U.S. during the coming winter.

Flu shots are also recommended for children and teenagers with diseases like arthritis, which are commonly treated with aspirin. In children, aspirin can increase the risk of developing a serious illness following a bout with influenza called Reye Syndrome.

For most people, the pneumococcal vaccine only needs to be given once. It protects against pneumococcal pneumonia, a disease which can follow an episode of influenza. Unlike flu shots, pneumococcal vaccinations can be scheduled for adults at any time during the year.

Additionally, all adults should receive a booster shot against tetanus and diphtheria every 10 years. Tetanus and diphtheria are included in childhood immunization programs, but adults who are not immunized or fail to receive recommended boosters remain at risk.

For more information about adult immunizations, see a physician or contact the local health department. Minnesota residents can also call the Minnesota Department of Health toll-free at 1-800-657-3723 or the Lung Association at 1-800-642-5864.

RANDOM THOUGHTS

Sara Tyler
Lincoln High School

This is my senior year of high school. Senior year is important because decisions that will affect the rest of my life must be made now. Not only am I immersed in minor decisions such as what to wear each day, I have monumental decisions hanging over my head.

The most prominent decision is college. I decided long ago I was going to go; now I must decide where. This decision is incredibly difficult for me to make. Over the past year and a half I have gotten so many brochures from colleges all over the country. I had never even heard of the majority of them, but somehow they heard about me. For awhile it was nice getting mail; but after getting five or more brochures a day, every day, I got overwhelmed. Every college claimed it was the right one for me. I wish I could be as positive as they were.

At first it was easy to weed out some of the choices. I decided I didn't want to go to any college in a state that didn't touch Minnesota. Then I fell in love with a college in New York City. I debated if it was the right school for me. Questions about the distance and the size of the college and city filtered through my head day and night. Every day I would make a fresh decision. One day I was going to apply and do anything I could to go, the next I wasn't going to even try. Other days I would apply, but not go. I finally made a decision two days ago, that I needed to start somewhere closer.

I still haven't made a firm decision on where I'm going to apply. I have two or three different schools circling my mind. I know I have to decide soon. I need to apply next month.

This decision is very difficult for me. My choice is going to be a major part of my future. What makes it worse is that I have problems deciding minor things. I never want to choose for fear it is the wrong choice. Most of my decisions have been the right ones, and I have learned from the mistakes. But this is not something I want to learn from. This is a major decision, and I have to make the right choice.

People say the senior year is the best year in high school. So far I'm doubting it. I'm letting myself get so overwhelmed by decisions that I'm not having as much fun as I should. Maybe things will get better after the applications are in the mail. I definitely hope so.

A new kind of arena walking program will begin November 8

Monday, Nov. 8, the arena walking program will begin its seventh year at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center. Again this year, Northwest Medical Center and the Falls Clinic, division of Dakota Clinic, Ltd., will sponsor this program in cooperation with the city of Thief River Falls.

The walking program was developed in 1986, and was the first of its kind in this area. The program was implemented to encourage people to walk on a regular basis as part of their exercise and fitness program. Since the program is held in the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center, anyone, no matter what their age, may undertake a walking program, even in the coldest weather.

This year, program organizers have decided to use a different approach to registering and rewarding participants in the walking program. To become an "arena walker," you are asked to register at the front desk of Northwest Medical Center where you will be asked to fill out a brief registration form. You will then receive a "Walking Wellness Achievement" logbook and sticker system and an arena walker pin.

Registration fee is $2, and will ensure eligibility for some interesting incentives:

- walkers reaching the 25 mile mark (or 500 minutes) will receive a pair of neon colored shoelaces for their walking shoes;
- walkers reaching the 75 mile mark (or 1,500 minutes) will receive a pair of marathon walking socks;
- walkers reaching the 150 mile mark (or 3,000 minutes) will receive a copy of the book, "Walk the Four Seasons," by Robert Sweetgall;
- walkers reaching the 300 mile mark (or 6,000 minutes) will receive a free ticket to the Robert Sweetgall seminar, "Walking Off Weight," which will be held in Thief River Falls in February of 1993;
- walkers reaching 400 miles (or 8,000 minutes) will receive a trophy; and
- walkers who reach 500 miles (or 10,000 minutes) will receive a "Walk the Four Seasons" sweatshirt.

The Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center is available for walking seven days a week, but certain time restrictions must be imposed to allow other activities. Walkers are invited to use the facility daily from 7:30 a.m. to closing.

Participants are discouraged from walking during hockey games, recreational skating and other activities which use the civic center. No walking will be allowed from 7:30 a.m. to noon on days after hockey games to allow for cleaning.

Again this year, everyone is welcome to participate, but you must preregister to be eligible for prizes. Instructions on how to receive your incentive awards will be included in your initial registration packet.

If you have any questions on the walking program, contact Gail Holland, Public Relations Coordinator, Northwest Medical Center, 681-4240, extension 210.

All children need regular checkups

Inter-County Nursing Service has released information that the American Academy of Pediatrics recommends that all children have regular checkups with their medical care provider. It is important for children to be seen on a regular basis to be sure they are growing and developing normally, to be sure they are immunized at the appropriate ages, and to detect problems early and start helpful services.

Visits with a medical care provider also provide an opportunity for parents to talk about any concerns, as well as to receive information on safety, growth and development and immunizations.

The American Academy of Pediatrics recommends the following schedule of checkups for children:

- the first checkup between two and four weeks of age;
- checkups at two months, four months, six months, nine months, twelve months, fifteen months and eighteen months;
- checkups every year from two to six years of age.

After six years of age, children should see their medical care provider every two years.

Minnesota law provides that insurance policies sold to Minnesota residents, excluding self-insured employers, must pay for well child examinations and have no co-payments or deductibles.

WIC & EPS Hold November Clinics

Women, infants and children supplemental nutritional educational program (WIC) is being held during the month of November.

Infants and children up to the age of five and women who are pregnant or breastfeeding may be eligible for the program. Prenatal nutrition is a vital part of producing a healthy baby. It is considered important to apply for WIC early in pregnancy; no proof of pregnancy is needed.

All potential clients must write to the WIC service and complete an application.

The schedule for WIC and EPS clinics for November includes November 1, 8, 18 and 19, all at the Redeemer Lutheran church in Thief River Falls.

Immunizations will now be given by county nurses. Please contact Inter-County Nursing service in Thief River Falls at 681-5950 for dates and times.

For further information concerning the WIC and EPS programs, call or write: WIC/EPS, Quin County, Park Place Mall, Red Lake Falls, MN 56750 or telephone (218) 253-2125 or 1-800-223-1591 (toll free).

The WIC program must treat everyone the same. You can not be treated unfairly because of your race, color, national origin, age, sex or handicap. If you think you have been treated unfairly, you should write to: Administrator, Food and Nutrition Services, U.S. Department of Agriculture, 3101 Park Center Drive, Alexandria, VA 22302.

Aging plan deadline

Seemingly conflicting dates for the deadline on comments on the 1994 Area Plan on Aging Amendments have been clarified by Faith Rud, director of the Northwest Regional Development Commission's Area Agency on Aging in Thief River Falls.

"Written comments are due by the close of the public hearing which is 10:30 a.m. on November 3, 1993," Rud said, after noticing the use of two dates in the printed news articles.

"Our seven-county advisory committee meets at 10:30 a.m. on November 3 to make a recommendation on the plan amendments," Rud said. "The area plan serves as the NWRDC contract with the Minnesota Board on Aging. It is due at the MBA offices on November 8 and must include a summary of the public hearing and copies of letters of comment.

"We apologize for any confusion this may have caused. Letters of support and comment are very important to our planning process," she added.

To obtain a draft of the plan objectives and budget, contact Rud at 525 Brooks Avenue South in Thief River Falls or call 681-2637 or 1-800-450-2637.

RANDOM THOUGHTS

Sara Tyler
Lincoln High School

This is my senior year of high school. Senior year is important because decisions that will affect the rest of my life must be made now. Not only am I immersed in minor decisions such as what to wear each day, I have monumental decisions hanging over my head.

The most prominent decision is college. I decided long ago I was going to go; now I must decide where. This decision is incredibly difficult for me to make. Over the ~~past year and a half~~ I have gotten so many brochures from colleges all over the country. I had never even heard of the majority of them, but somehow they heard about me. For awhile it was nice getting mail; but after getting five or more brochures a day, every day, I got overwhelmed. Every college claimed it was the right one for me. I wish I could be as positive as they were.

At first it was easy to weed out some of the choices. I decided I didn't want to go to any college in a state that didn't touch Minnesota. Then I fell in love with a college in New York City. I debated if it was the right school for me. Questions about the distance and the size of the college and city filtered through my head day and night. Every day I would make a fresh decision. One day I was going to apply and do anything I could to go, the next I wasn't going to even try. Other days I would apply, but not go. I finally made a decision two days ago, that I needed to start somewhere closer.

I still haven't made a firm decision on where I'm going to apply. I have two or three different schools circling my mind. I know I have to decide soon. I need to apply next month.

This decision is very difficult for me. My choice is going to be a major part of my future. What makes it worse is that I have problems deciding minor things. I never want to choose for fear it is the wrong choice. Most of my decisions have been the right ones, and I have learned from the mistakes. But this is not something I want to learn from. This is a major decision, and I have to make the right choice.

People say the senior year is the best year in high school. So far I'm doubting it. I'm letting myself get so overwhelmed by decisions that I'm not having as much fun as I should. Maybe things will get better after the applications are in the mail. I definitely hope so.

A new kind of arena walking program will begin November 8

Monday, Nov. 8, the arena walking program will begin its seventh year at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center. Again this year, Northwest Medical Center and the Falls Clinic, division of Dakota Clinic, Ltd., will sponsor this program in cooperation with the city of Thief River Falls.

The walking program was developed in 1986, and was the first of its kind in this area. The program was implemented to encourage people to walk on a regular basis as part of their exercise and fitness program. Since the program is held in the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center, anyone, no matter what their age, may undertake a walking program, even in the coldest weather.

This year, program organizers have decided to use a different approach to registering and rewarding participants in the walking program. To become an "arena walker," you are asked to register at the front desk of Northwest Medical Center where you will be asked to fill out a brief registration form. You will then receive a "Walking Wellness Achievement" logbook and sticker system and an arena walker pin.

Registration fee is $2, and will ensure eligibility for some interesting incentives:

- walkers reaching the 25 mile mark (or 500 minutes) will receive a pair of neon colored shoelaces for their walking shoes;
- walkers reaching the 75 mile mark (or 1,500 minutes) will receive a pair of marathon walking socks;
- walkers reaching the 150 mile mark (or 3,000 minutes) will receive a copy of the book, "Walk the Four Seasons," by Robert Sweetgall;
- walkers reaching the 300 mile mark (or 6,000 minutes) will receive a free ticket to the Robert Sweetgall seminar, "Walking Off Weight," which will be held in Thief River Falls in February of 1993;
- walkers reaching 400 miles (or 8,000 minutes) will receive a trophy; and
- walkers who reach 500 miles (or 10,000 minutes) will receive a "Walk the Four Seasons" sweatshirt.

The Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center is available for walking seven days a week, but certain time restrictions must be imposed to allow other activities. Walkers are invited to use the facility daily from 7:30 a.m. to closing.

Participants are discouraged from walking during hockey games, recreational skating and other activities which use the civic center. No walking will be allowed from 7:30 a.m. to noon on days after hockey games to allow for cleaning.

Again this year, everyone is welcome to participate, but you must preregister to be eligible for prizes. Instructions on how to receive your incentive awards will be included in your initial registration packet.

If you have any questions on the walking program, contact Gail Holland, Public Relations Coordinator, Northwest Medical Center, 681-4240, extension 210.

All children need regular checkups

Inter-County Nursing Service has released information that the American Academy of Pediatrics recommends that all children have regular checkups with their medical care provider. It is important for children to be seen on a regular basis to be sure they are growing and developing normally, to be sure they are immunized at the appropriate ages, and to detect problems early and start helpful services.

Visits with a medical care provider also provide an opportunity for parents to talk about any concerns, as well as to receive information on safety, growth and development and immunizations.

The American Academy of Pediatrics recommends the following schedule of checkups for children:

- the first checkup between two and four weeks of age;
- checkups at two months, four months, six months, nine months, twelve months, fifteen months and eighteen months;
- checkups every year from two to six years of age.

After six years of age, children should see their medical care provider every two years.

Minnesota law provides that insurance policies sold to Minnesota residents, excluding self-insured employers, must pay for well child examinations and have no co-payments or deductibles.

WIC & EPS Hold November Clinics

Women, infants and children supplemental nutritional educational program (WIC) is being held during the month of November.

Infants and children up to the age of five and women who are pregnant or breastfeeding may be eligible for the program. Prenatal nutrition is a vital part of producing a healthy baby. It is considered important to apply for WIC early in pregnancy; no proof of pregnancy is needed.

All potential clients must write to the WIC service and complete an application.

The schedule for WIC and EPS clinics for November includes November 1, 8, 18 and 19, all at the Redeemer Lutheran church in Thief River Falls.

Immunizations will now be given by county nurses. Please contact Inter-County Nursing service in Thief River Falls at 681-5950 for dates and times.

For further information concerning the WIC and EPS programs, call or write: WIC/EPS, Quin County, Park Place Mall, Red Lake Falls, MN 56750 or telephone (218) 253-2125 or 1-800-223-1591 (toll free).

The WIC program must treat everyone the same. You can not be treated unfairly because of your race, color, national origin, age, sex or handicap. If you think you have been treated unfairly, you should write to: Administrator, Food and Nutrition Services, U.S. Department of Agriculture, 3101 Park Center Drive, Alexandria, VA 22302.

Tops MN plans open house

Tops MN 88, a weight watcher club, will hold at open house 7 p.m. Monday, November 1. The club meets at the Pine Lodge, 202 LaBree Avenue North in Thief River Falls. For more information call Linda Hageman at 681-8259.

Aging plan deadline

Seemingly conflicting dates for the deadline on comments on the 1994 Area Plan on Aging Amendments have been clarified by Faith Rud, director of the Northwest Regional Development Commission's Area Agency on Aging in Thief River Falls.

"Written comments are due by the close of the public hearing which is 10:30 a.m. on November 3, 1993," Rud said, after noticing the use of two dates in the printed news articles.

"Our seven-county advisory committee meets at 10:30 a.m. on November 3 to make a recommendation on the plan amendments," Rud said. "The area plan serves as the NWRDC contract with the Minnesota Board on Aging. It is due at the MBA offices on November 8 and must include a summary of the public hearing and copies of letters of comment.

"We apologize for any confusion this may have caused. Letters of support and comment are very important to our planning process," she added.

To obtain a draft of the plan objectives and budget, contact Rud at 525 Brooks Avenue South in Thief River Falls or call 681-2637 or 1-800-450-2637.

INTENTIONAL DUPLICATE EXPOSURE

SPEAKING OF

Sherry LaCoursiere

. . . Who-o-o-o Likes Halloween?

Halloween has become nearly as popular as Christmas, or at least it appears to be that way from the numerous yard decorations around town.

Nearly every block has at least one, often many more, houses and yards sporting pumpkins, black cats, ghosts, witches, green goblins, scarecrows and other strange and spooky things.

What makes Halloween such an attractive holiday?

We can all guess why children like Halloween. Children love to dress up in costumes, particularly those that make them look like their favorite comic character. They love the excitement of traipsing around the neighborhood in the dark, something usually forbidden to them, to knock on doors and be given candy and other treats, also usually forbidden to them in such quantities. They love to be scared, just a little, by all of the other strange-looking creatures out there in the dark and they love to come home, where it is safe and warm, and eat as much of those treats as they possibly can.

But what makes Halloween so attractive to adults?

We know that it is true that adults like Halloween because Mom and Dad have to be the ones who are hanging up all of the spooky things around and outside the house. We know that Mom and Dad must be the ones who are buying or making all of the costumes and treats, too. Just what is it about Halloween that they enjoy?

Some adults like Halloween so much that they dress up in costumes to answer their doors on Halloween night. I have done it myself once or twice. This is great fun to do because it makes all of the little trick and treaters giggle and goggle. They can't seem to believe that a grown up would dress up for Halloween, much less answer the door looking like that.

Some adults don't dress up for Halloween but they like Halloween so much that they always laugh and have a good time admiring the costumes of the children who come to the door. You can tell these adults enjoy Halloween. They are the ones who invite the children into the house so they can see the costumes well and then give out handfuls of goodies instead of just one or two candies.

Some adults who really like Halloween have grown up Halloween parties on that particular night. They decorate the house with spider webs, lighted jack-o-lanterns and other spooky things and serve strange foods and drinks, like "Witches Brew" and "Spider Stew." They think up spooky games to play that have to do with mayhem and murder, and they dance to a song called "Monster Mash" all night long. Sometimes they play a game called "Scavenger Hunt" where groups of them go giggling out in the dark late at night to find utterly impossible spooky things, like an eye of the newt or the toe of a toad.

I have an opinion about why adults like Halloween. I think they like it because it gives them a chance to remember what it was like when they were children and relive some of that scary, exciting feeling. It gives them a chance to dress up and act silly again, just like when they were children. It also gives them a chance to snack all they want on those big bags of chocolate bars, Tootsie Rolls, suckers and other treats they bought to give to the children for Halloween, but that is beside the point. Anyway, you can tell those grown ups who have eaten up all of the treats themselves before Halloween night—they are the ones with all of their lights off when the children start to come around.

Apple Smiles

Fall and apples are nature activities. This is a very easy recipe to use with young children.

1 medium apple, cored and sliced peanut butter
miniature marshmallows

Core and slice the apples. Spread one side of each apple slice with peanut butter. Place 3 or 4 marshmallows on top of the peanut butter on one slice. Top this with another slice, peanut butter side down. Squeeze together. Look at the "happy smile."

Eat Right, Stay Healthy

The Food Guide Pyramid was recently developed to help everyone choose the proper amounts and types of food to eat for better health. The Food Guide Pyramid suggests a range of servings in each major group:

*Meat, Poultry, Fish, Dry Beans, Eggs & Nuts Group:	2-3 servings
*Milk, Yogurt & Cheese:	2-3 servings
*Vegetable Group:	3-5 servings
*Fruit Group:	2-4 servings
*Bread, Cereal, Rice, Pasta:	6-11 servings

The number of servings right for each individual depends on the person's age, sex, size and amount of activity. Almost everyone (including children) should have at least the lowest number of servings in the range. However the size of the serving should vary with age. For example, an adult serving of bread is 1 slice or 1/2 cup of rice. For a child a serving would be 1/2 slice or 1/4 cup of rice. Also remember that a helping and a serving are not the same. A large helping of macaroni may actually be several servings.

Use this food guide to plan your family's meals. Are they eating enough food from each food group? Do you need to include more from some of the groups? If children see and taste a variety of foods when they are young they will be more likely to continue to eat them as they grow older.

I've always had a keen interest in children and their welfare. My bachelor's degree is from St. Cloud State University. I also earned a teaching certificate as an exchange student in Great Britain and lived there for six years. During that time, I spent a number of years in Northern Ireland teaching and helping handicapped children and adults learn to live in this world. I also spent some time in administration of social services in Northern Ireland. Upon returning to the United States, I gained hands on experience in the business world as a territory manager for a packaging company.

Because of my experience in education, administration, social services, business and parenting, I believe that I can bring a unique perspective to our school board. My interest in School District 564 is assured by the fact that I have a first grader and a fourth grader enrolled at Washington elementary school, which means that they will be impacted by school board decisions for quite some time.

I'm concerned about the quality of education. I'm concerned about the cost of education. I'm concerned about the future of our children. I'm very interested in seeing that our Thief River Falls school system stays strong.

I want our children to learn in a secure, safe environment, one in which they are surrounded by people who care about them as individuals. Our children need encouragement, guidance and support to help them develop a sense of worth. They need to know that they matter, that they're important and that they're valued, whether it be in the home, school or community. I see youth who are full of promise for the future. Investing in our children makes sense. They are America's greatest and most valuable resource.

It's important that our educational system can give our students the foundation to compete in the real world. In preparing our students, we realize that it's essential, of course, that they learn the academics. But whether we like it or not, we must accept the fact that today, more than ever before, schools are often put in a position where they must become involved in the socialization of our children. It's important that this system is sensitive to the needs of all children and capable of addressing these needs. As the world becomes a more complex and ever changing place, the need to instill strong moral fiber and values in our young is greater than ever. Our Thief River Falls school system should be an anchor for our children when they begin to navigate in the outside world.

I take great pride in our youth, our schools and our community. We are a community blessed with tremendous talent and valuable resources in our youth. The future for our school children in Thief River Falls is exciting and full of opportunities. We must have the capability to let our children realize their fullest potential. If elected, I will do my best to make this happen. I would greatly appreciate your support on November 2.

Education is a lifelong process. My Lincoln high diploma carried me on to a vocational school diploma, an Associate of Arts degree from Northland Community College, and later to a Bachelor of Accountancy degree from the University of North Dakota. The children of this school district deserve the kind of quality education they need to reach their highest potential in our ever changing world. I think I can contribute to that goal as a member of the Thief River Falls School Board of Education.

I serve on the Board of Trustees and the Foundation Board of the United Methodist church where I am a member. I am currently on the board of the Housing and Redevelopment Authority of Thief River Falls. I think my past and current committee work will enable me to serve as a contributing member of the School board.

My husband and I have a family owned business, Lee Plumbing and Heating, in Thief River Falls. After the closing of filing for the school board elections, I learned that, under Minnesota Statute, I would be "in conflict of interest" if I was on the board when any sealed bid contract of over $25,000 was awarded to Lee Plumbing and Heating. The law states that "a public officer who is authorized to take part in any manner in making an sale, lease or contract in his official capacity shall not voluntarily have a personal financial interest in that sale, lease, or contract or personally benefit financially therefrom." Bids for additions and remodeling at Franklin Middle School, the last under the recent school bond improvements, will not be let until February. If I am elected, and Lee Plumbing and Heating is the low bidder for the mechanical work on Franklin, I will have to resign before the bids are awarded. Even in light of this, I am willing to continue with this candidacy. It will be up to you, the voters, to decide if this situation will be acceptable. Whatever your decision, our district needs your active participation — get out and vote!

ming. One other aspect of my job is to travel to various universities in Minnesota and North Dakota for the purpose of recruiting graduating engineers for positions at Digi-Key.

I was married to Andrea Zipprich in October 1992. She is originally from Indiana, but when she graduated in 1990 from the University of Missouri. at St. Louis with a Doctorate of Optometry degree, she decided to look for work in Minnesota. She currently works with Doctors Freeman, Mickelson and Dicken at the Northwest Eye Center in Thief River Falls.

For the past several years I have been on the board of directors and acted as treasurer for AFRAN, an organization that promotes not only French culture, history and language in the area, but also local history in general, as demonstrated by the annual Chautauqua that is put on every fall. I was a member of the finance committee for the school bond issue that was passed last year. I have also been involved in the annual career fair at Lincoln high school for the past few years, and last winter I taught a beginning French course through the Community Education department.

Andrea and I are members of St. Bernard's parish where I am a member of the Knights of Columbus. Other organizations and groups that I am involved with include the Shotokan Karate club, coed volleyball and bowling leagues, and the Thief River Falls Racquetball club.

I believe that the school board has done a very good job in the past, and I would like to be given the opportunity to continue on with the work that the outgoing board members have started. Currently, Andrea and I do not have any children, however, we are both strong believers in a solid education. Therefore, by becoming an active member of the school board now, I will be helping to shape the future of our children's education, as well as every other child's education.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank The Times for allowing me to address the voters in School District 564. I also encourage everyone to go out and vote on November 2 — and vote for me of course.

local school district began on the first day of school in 1976 when I brought a box of cake-decorating equipment and a teddy bear cake into my son's kindergarten classroom. His classmates then helped to put flowers, leaves and long strings of colored icing all over the bear and then we all ate it to observe Sean's sixth birthday that day. Helping the teacher clean up pink and green icing from the table, chairs and carpet kept me too busy to feel weepy at the thought of my "baby" leaving for school, but nothing kept me from reaching for a tissue 13 years later as I watched him walk across the stage at the arena to be awarded his diploma by his grandfather, Harry Sjulson, then serving on the school board.

Since that first day I have tried to be as involved as I can, although, like most parents, I have been employed for much of that time. I am well acquainted with the frustration of trying to juggle work schedules with baseball games, hockey practice, speech competitions and play rehearsals, to name just a few. I hope that as a member of the board of education, I can provide a voice for the concerns of other working parents.

Briefly stated, I am very impressed with the results of my own children's educations here in the Thief River Falls schools and I would like all of our children to continue to have these benefits.

As community editor of The Times, I had many opportunities to visit local classrooms and meet children from kindergarten through senior high school. I find it fascinating to observe their energy and enthusiasm for learning new things.

In this capacity I have been able to encourage people to make use of the Early Childhood Family Education program for example, which helps parents learn how best to prepare their young children for school. I have especially enjoyed turning the spotlight on some of the many positive aspects of the local educational system in preparing the Back to School supplement to The Times for several years.

I have also been fortunate to have worked with a number of hardworking young people as curator of the Pioneer Village Museum each summer, so I have developed a good idea of what their priorities are in their educations. With two sons now in college, I have also been giving a lot of thought to what is necessary for our children's further education and careers. These young people are the consumers in this school system and we, as adults, must provide them with the direction and information vital to their futures.

As a recent temporary host family for a Magnet Arts student this fall, we all enjoyed getting a close look at how this program works and we have speculated on how different our own lives would have been if it had been available locally a few years earlier when our younger son, Patrick, spent his last two years of high school at the Minnesota Center for Arts Education in Golden Valley. The education in Theater he received there was a good experience for him at the time and has helped him find several summer jobs directing Children's Theatre in the area, as well as presenting a series of teachers' in-service training sessions on learning disabilities in many area schools. Watching the local Magnet Arts program grow and develop in the next few years to give other students this kind of background and confidence will be a stimulating experience.

As a board member, I would also like to promote better communication between parents and teachers and feel that the teachers' valuable time should be conserved by looking into possibilities such as regional salary negotiations and strengthening the volunteer program which is working so well.

nologist at St. Alexis Hospital. David is married and lives with his family in Papillion, NE. He is presently employed by a brokerage firm in Omaha, NE.

From July 1963 until July 1983, I was employed by Independent School District 564, serving first as a counselor at Lincoln High School and from 1970 until 1983 as counselor and coordinator of student services at the local Technical College.

Following retirement in 1983, after 34 years of service in various levels of education, I began campaigning throughout Minnesota for the office of Department (state) Commander of the American Legion. I was elected to that office in July 1985 and served until July 1986. In November of that year, I was appointed by the City Council to fill the unexpired Fifth Ward Alderman's position. In November 1987, I was elected to a four year term as Fifth Ward Alderman. During that four year period I also served as Vice-Mayor. In November 1991, I was elected to a two year term as Mayor, the position in which I am currently serving.

In addition to my considerable involvement in the American Legion, I have tried to devote time to other professional, community and church activities. My wife and I are active members of the United Methodist church where I am currently serving as a member of the staff/pastor Parish Relations committee and as a member of the Church Choir. Community activities have included the Thief River Falls Noon Lions club (past president); the Thief River Falls Concert Association (past president); the Thief River Falls Education Association (past president); the Pennington County Cancer Society; membership in VFW Post 2793; Northern Lodge 236 AF & AM, Winslow Chapter 182 O.E.S. and 40 et 8 Voiture 737 of Thief River Falls.

It is my feeling that all of the many and varied experiences with people and groups have helped to provide some of the desirable background to serve as a member of the Thief River Falls City Council and to provide effective and cooperative leadership for that body. The ability to work with people is a key ingredient to the office of Mayor — whether it be to serve concerned citizens, work with other Council members, Department heads and other city employees or to interact effectively with other government bodies and agencies.

During my several years as a Council member, there have been a number of issues and concerns that continue to occupy our attention. Of particular importance are those items which have been mandated by State-Federal agency action or by legislative action. One of these is to meet the requirements of ADA (Americans with Disabilities Act); another is the ongoing development of the Comparable Worth plan which has and will continue to impact the city budget.

In addition to the above, other items are efforts to assist in the retention of those firms that have meant so much to our community, continued cooperative efforts between the City, Pennington County, SD 564 regarding the elementary school complex, the ongoing improvement of our city sidewalks. If grant funds are received, the Commercial and Residential Rehabilitation of the downtown business area will be of particular importance.

Undoubtably, there will be other items of concern and interest to city residents during the next several years; but whatever they may be, I welcome the opportunity to serve Thief River Falls.

A special thank you to The Times for once again making this means of visiting with you possible.

Bemidji State Teachers College in 1950, I took additional studies at the University of Minnesota in agronomy and soils. I retired from the Soil Conservation Service after serving some 30 years, the last several years of which were in administrative positions with responsibility for 12 counties in northwestern Minnesota.

I have been a president of Lutheran Brotherhood Branch 8129. For several years I have served on the advisory committee for the Northwest experiment station at Crookston. I am currently involved in a family farm operation growing wild rice.

If elected, this will be my third four-year turn as 4th Ward Alderman. Currently I serve as chairman of the utility committee, and chairman of the finance committee. I'm the city representative on the Planning commission and city representative on the Pennington County Water Quality Task Force.

I will continue to bring a conservative point of view to the council which would emphasize safeguarding of the residential perspective in the neighborhood. I feel this can be done, while still encouraging growth of businesses currently in the city and new ones that might wish to locate in Thief River Falls.

I need and would appreciate your support in the up-coming election on Tuesday, November 2.

head State University for two and one-half years with a focus on math and psychology. I have completed a business management seminar at Northwest Technical College in Thief River Falls and I have seven years of business management experience. I have been employed by Pennington county as a dispatcher/jailer at the Law Enforcement center for over nine years. I have completed a number of training courses related to my employment there. A number of these related to problem solving and dealing with people. I am past chairman of the Arrangements Committee for our local Boy Scout Exposition. I have worked as a volunteer driver for the Falls Delivered Meals program. I am a member of the Thief River Golf Club, Thursday Night Commercial Bowling League, Masons and Elks. As a member of the Elks, I served as an officer and also as chairman of the local "Hoop Shoot" program. I was chairman of the Americanism committee for seven years and was responsible for the Elks Flag Day program.

While serving on the City Council in 1992 I was fortunate to attend and complete the prestigious Blandin Foundation Community Leadership program. This consisted of a full week of very intensive training in a retreat-like setting. I joined other community leaders from Thief River Falls, Crookston and East Grand Forks in expanding our knowledge of communication, problem solving, goal setting and visioning for the benefit of our home towns.

As a member of the City Council I have served on a number of boards and committees. I am currently a member of the Buildings, Engineering, Street and Sanitation (BESS) committee; the Park Board; the Convention and Visitors Bureau; and Pennington County Domestic Violence Committee.

Serving on the City Council has afforded me the opportunity to attend the Annual Conference of the League of Minnesota Cities in each of the last two years. These conferences consist of a wide variety of seminars on local government issues and areas of operation. Perhaps most important of all is that these conferences provide an opportunity to meet with leaders from other communities to exchange ideas and experiences and to discuss mutual problems.

Perhaps the most significant qualification that I bring with me as I ask you to once again honor me with your confidence and support is the experience I've had talking with the people I serve. I have heard complaints, concerns, suggestions and even compliments. Regardless of the nature of the contact, I have always come away with a greater understanding of the feelings of the people of the Second Ward.

These last two years have seen your City Council work as a very cooperative and productive unit. There have been major advances in infrastructure construction and improvement. There has been improved cooperation between City, County and School District. I would like to think I played some part in these accomplishments.

As I look ahead to the next four years there will be many challenges to be faced. The continued threat of reductions in state and federal aid to cities continues to haunt the budgeting process. We need to continue to search for alternative sources of revenue that are acceptable to the citizens of Thief River Falls. The City's compliance with Americans with Disabilities Act must be achieved. We need to take a look at the number of buildings the city operates and explore ways to combine and reduce in this area. We need to take another look at the practicality of a city sliced in half by railroad tracks where at times there is no non-emergency access from east to west. There will be traffic problems related to the new Challenger Elementary school that will have to be addressed.

When I first sought this office I told you I wouldn't make any empty promises and I say the same now. A promise I will make, however, is that I will continue to work my hardest and do my best for the people of the second ward. My heartfelt thanks for your past support and I ask that you back me again on November 2nd.

Schmalz....

I graduated from the accounting program of the Thief River Falls Technical College in 1987 and represented the school at the State and National Office Education competitions and brought home awards from both. Through this training I obtained computer experience and later taught students software utilization in the adult education program. On behalf of the school, I was also an instructor to teach specific programs to companies such as Arctco, Inc., Polaris Industries and the Minnesota Department of Transportation. I have been an independent contractor to handle financial reporting for the Federal Government. I am currently a Deputy County Recorder and have been working for the County of Pennington for just over five years. This position allows me to be familiar with the various land transactions and keeps me informed about the city's involvement in real estate within the city.

I believe that the experience that I have obtained in these areas and the ongoing experience within the Recorder's office will help in the operation of city government. We are fortunate in that we have excellent people already on the Council, but I feel that we should have the representation and perspective from a working person that has the same means and obligations of the typical resident of Thief River Falls. It takes someone with the ability to put themselves in another person's position to fairly represent the people of the city in the matters that we will be facing in the upcoming years. I believe that I have that ability.

I would be appreciative of your support to represent the people of Thief River Falls in the upcoming election.

"Family Child Care Provider Week" honored licensed day care providers

by Sherry LaCoursiere
Times Reporter

Last week Governor Carlson recognized the dedication and concern of licensed family child care providers by designating Family Child Care Provider Week.

In his proclamation, the governor stated:

- there are 336,800 children of preschool age in Minnesota; and
- these children are Minnesota's most valuable asset and resource; and
- child rearing is a very important occupation; and
- many families in Minnesota are forced to seek child care outside their own homes; and
- the licensed family child caregivers of Minnesota are professional people devoted to achieving and maintaining the highest level of parenting skills; and
- the licensed family child caregivers are highly competent, dedicated, caring and concerned individuals.

Early childhood programs enrich the lives of children and their families. Parents want to be sure that their children experience the best possible environment at home and also when they are away from home in child care settings.

Research shows that children thrive in good quality child care programs. What makes a good quality child care program? The key element to a good quality child care program has always been good caregivers. They are professionals with the very important job of facilitating the development of the child.

Parenting one child in a home is different from caring for other people's children in a group. Being a child care provider requires special skills and training, as well as a special kind of person.

At the present time, there are 36 licensed day care providers in Thief River Falls. We have featured three of those day care providers in today's Times.

Colleen Bergeron has one of the larger day care facilities in Thief River Falls at 417 Hickory, just off the airport road. She has been a licensed day care giver for six years.

Colleen cares for 10 children on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, and eight children on Tuesdays and Thursdays. She takes children of any age but has limited her hours from 6:45 a.m. to 5:45 p.m. She will also take drop-ins if she has room that particular day.

Colleen says the children at her day care always have activities, and do special things for holidays and on birthdays. How does she handle that many children at one time? She says, "They have to know what they can and cannot do."

Kristie Mundell has a smaller day care center at her home in Riverview Trailer Court. She has been a licensed day care giver since 1990 and presently cares for five children, two of which are her own. She says she is licensed for up to 10 children and she has room for more at this time.

Kristie limits her day care hours to between 7:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. She will care for babies and children up to age five, but does not take school age children. She says that she is really not set up for children older than five right now while living in a mobile home.

As far as the licensing process, Kristie didn't find it necessary to do anything special to become licensed, since she has two children of her own and the house was pretty "childproofed" already. She just added a few more gates and that was all. The children that she cares for range in age from 5 months to 3 and one-half years.

Grandpa and Grandma's Day Care opened in June of this year. George and Carla Johnson are the grandpa and grandma who run the new day care. They can be found on Highway 59 south, just past Ron's Auto.

Grandpa and Grandma's Day Care is already full, despite having opened just this year. They have six regular children all day and three who come at 11 a.m. after kindergarten. The day care facility is open from 5:45 a.m. to 6 p.m. and takes children of any age.

The children have plenty of room to do lots of special holiday activities and games and were planning to carve pumpkins the day I visited. Halloween will be celebrated with a party on Friday at Grandpa and Grandma's.

After visiting the local day care centers, I decided that it certainly does take a special kind of person to provide such a service. Not only must a person be kind and loving, but they must also have never-ending patience and energy to care for so many children in a proper manner.

Today we have taken a look at just three of the many licensed day care centers in the area. Anyone who is interested in obtaining a full list of the licensed day care centers in Thief River Falls may contact the Department of Health and Human Services at 318 North Knight Avenue, Thief River Falls, telephone 681-2880.

Grandpa and Grandma's Day Care Center is a busy place. Seven of the children are shown having a snack. They have six regular children all day and three more who come after kindergarten. Grandpa and Grandma's was started in June of this year and is run by George and Carla Johnson.

Colleen Bergeron has a licensed day care facility at 417 Hickory. She has been a day care provider for six years and cares for 10 children daily. Here we see the children getting ready for their Halloween party.

In celebration of Day Care Provider Week, Kristie Mundell is pictured with three of the children she has at her licensed day care facility in her home at Riverview Trailer Court. Kristie cares for five children under the age of five each day.

A PARENT'S GUIDE TO DRINKING, DRIVING AND DRUGS

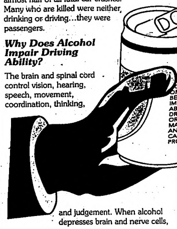
THE FIRST KEY-FACTS

Kids and Alcohol/Drug-Related Crashes

Alcohol-related crashes are the number one cause of death among young people age 16-24. Although they make up only twenty percent of all drivers, young people are involved in almost half of all fatal car crashes. Many who are killed were neither drinking or driving…they were passengers.

Why Does Alcohol Impair Driving Ability?

The brain and spinal cord control vision, hearing, speech, movement, coordination, thinking, and judgement. When alcohol depresses brain and nerve cells, vision becomes blurred, hearing is distorted, speech is slurred, movement and coordination are impaired, reaction time lessens, thinking slows down, and judgement becomes unreliable.



How Can You Tell When Someone Is Drunk?

Some People act silly, emotional, rowdy, and unsteady on their feet. Others throw up or pass out. Some who are legally drunk show no outward signs of intoxication. Blood alcohol content is the true measure of intoxication and driving impairment. Anyone who has been drinking is a danger to himself and others. For some, even one or two drinks can impair judgement and reaction time when driving, even though the drinker may seem sober.

Isolate the Problem of Riding With An Impaired Driver

While there has been an increase in the number of young people who refuse to use drugs and alcohol, there are still many who do not recognize the dangers that exist when they accept a ride from an impaired driver. Drinkers and drug users who drive should be swiftly and severely punished with strong consequences.

THE SECOND KEY-COMMUNICATION

Tell your child never to get in a motor vehicle with any person who has been drinking alcohol or using other drugs.

Make it clear that alcohol use by minors is against the law and that you will not tolerate any illegal acts.

Restrict dating, driving and other social privileges if rules prohibiting alcohol or drug use are broken.

Organize and supervise social alternatives to activities which are based on drinking alcohol.

If you choose to drink, set a good example by responsible consumption. Discuss how you set limits on yourself, but emphasize that drinking alcohol is an adult privilege not available to people before age 21.

If you don't drink alcohol for religious, health, or other reasons, explain your decision to your child. Realize, however, that your child is exposed to peer pressure and other attitudes that may differ from yours.

Separate facts about alcohol from your own opinions. State your rules and reasons for opposing alcohol consumption by teens. Use facts and the law to back you up, rather than inducing guilt or making threats.

Love your child unconditionally. This will allow your child to come to you for help, even if he has broken the rules by drinking alcohol or using other drugs.

Don't lump all young drinkers together. Children who drink occasionally as a response to peer pressure need education, alternative social opportunities, and role models for non-drinking behavior. Those who drink regularly to combat bad feelings or escape problems need intervention, counseling and education.

Examine patterns of alcohol use in your family. If abuse is apparent, break the cycle of denial and addiction by facing the problem. Take action. You will be salvaging your family and may save your child's life.

Teaching young people to say "NO" to alcohol is only half the battle.
Teaching them to say "no" to friends who drink is just as important.

Pioneers host Mayville State JV...

NCC has a playoff tune-up Thursday

Northland Community College football coaches will have an opportunity to rest a few banged-up starters and will have the chance to play a few reserves who haven't had a lot of playing time when the Pioneers close out the 1993 regular season schedule Thursday with a 7 p.m. nonconference game against the Mayville State University junior varsity at Prowler Field.

However, winning is still the objective.

Northland clinched a Minnesota Community College Conference playoff berth Thursday with a 27-18 win at Brainerd. Post-season play starts with Nov. 6 semifinals.

First the Pioneers, 5-2 overall and 5-1 in the MCCC, play the second of their two nonconference games.

"We're going to rest some people, and play some other kids who haven't had an opportunity to play a whole lot this year," acknowledged Northland coach Gene Klinke, "but we still want to win the football game. There is still plenty of incentive to win. Northland has never won six football games in a single season. That's our goal this week. We want to go out and play hard, play well, have some fun, and win the football game."

The Pioneers clinched the school's second-ever football playoff berth by beating Brainerd. They built a 20-6 halftime lead, then held on as the Raiders capitalized on a pair of second half-opening fumbles to pull within 20-18.

"That third quarter was the worst we've played all year," said Klinke. "With the fumbles and playing into the wind, we couldn't get the ball out of our end the entire quarter."

But the Pioneers' defense met the challenge, and finally got some help on a late-game touchdown run by Sheldon Hinton to wrap it up.

"It was a big, big win – the biggest since I've been here, for sure," said Klinke. "It feels great. The kids worked awfully hard for it. They got their just reward."

There was a bit of a damper put on the Northland victory celebration however, when it was learned that Itasca had knocked off Vermilion 27-7 in another Thursday match-up.

While the Pioneers locked up a playoff berth, they could have been guaranteed a home game for the semifinals if the defending state champion Ironmen had beaten the Vikings.

Northland will now have to wait until the the final-week MCCC results are in to see where they fit into the playoff picture. The Northern Division finales will have Mesabi at Itasca, Brainerd at the University of Minnesota-Crookstoff, and Vermilion at Hibbing.

Itasca, Vermilion and Brainerd are all still in the MCCC playoff picture, which includes the No. 1 and No. 2 regular season finishers in both the Northern and Southern Division.

Northland has won a share of the Northern Division title. Itasca would tie the Pioneers for the crown with a win over Mesabi. And if that happens, Itasca would be the No. 1 seed in the Northern Division and get the semifinal home field because of a 16-0 mid-season win over Northland. The Pioneers would then be sent on the road to meet the Southern Division champion.

But an Itasca loss would produce an out-right Northern Division title for the Pioneers, and the playoff semifinal home game.

An Itasca loss would also open the No. 2 Northern Division spot to Vermilion and Brainerd if the Ironmen and Raiders close out the year with wins.

Rochester, Fergus Falls and Normandale are the playoff contenders in the Southern Division.

The MCCC state championship game will be played either Nov. 13 or 14, at St. Cloud State University.

Prowlers, Pioneers close out schedule

■ LHS, NCC volleyball

Lincoln High School and Northland Community College volleyball teams close out their regular season schedules this week.

The Pioneers' home season will end tonight (Wednesday) with a 6:30 p.m. match against rival University of Minnesota-Crookston.

After a slow start, Northland has won five of their last seven to go 9-19 for the year. However, the Pioneers are 0-5 in Minnesota Community College Conference play.

Northland ends the year at the University of Minnesota-Morris Halloween Classic Saturday.

Lincoln wraps up its regular season with matches at East Grand Forks Thursday and at home against Crookston Friday.

The 11-12 Prowlers will be trying to finish above .500 before beginning post-season play.

North Sub-Section 8AA tournament will begin Monday with the No. 6 seed at No. 3 and the No. 5 seed at No. 4.

Semifinals will be played Thursday, Nov. 4, at the sites of the No. 1 and No. 2 seeded teams.

Championship match will be played Saturday, Nov. 6, at the site of the highest seeded semifinal winner.

Unbeaten Alexandria has a lock on the top seed. Ranked No. 1 in the Class AA state polls, the Cardinals won the Moorhead Invitational Saturday with a 15-11, 15-4 title match win over Win-E-Mac.

Runners ready for Section 8AA meet

Thief River Falls boys and girls high school cross country teams will compete in the 1993 Section 8AA meet Thursday at St. Cloud.

Final regular season outing had the Prowlers running in the Oct. 19 Bemidji Invitational.

Hibbing boys and girls were both team champions at the Bemidji Invitational. Thief River Falls girls placed ninth in a field of 12 teams, while the Thief River Falls boys were 13th out of 14.

The Prowlers' Lisa Swanson continued a strong fall campaign with an eighth place finish among the girls.

The eighth graders won 15-12, 15-13 in Roseau; the seventh graders won 15-3, 15-10, 15-9 in Thief River Falls.

Pursued by an International Falls defender, Renae Forsberg of Our Saviour's Christian Academy advanced the ball during an Oct. 19 soccer match in Thief River Falls. The Crusaders finished a 7-1 season with a 3-1 win.

Nordics' win streak ends at 19 matches

It was fun while it lasted, acknowledged Marshall County Central volleyball coach Mark Jorgenson, but a season-opening string of 19 wins also created pressure – pressure that disappeared with a pair of losses in the Oct. 16 Warroad Invitational.

Win No. 19 was a 15-7, 15-9 sweep over Kittson Central to start the round-robin pool portion of the tournament.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River ended the streak in Round 2, 15-4, 3-15, 17-15.

Marshall County Central bounced back with a 15-13, 15-5 win over Lake of the Woods to earn a spot in the finals, but Tri-County took the championship match 11-15, 15-3, 15-8.

The Nordics went to 21-2 the following Monday by sweeping host Crookston 15-4, 15-6, 15-5 in a regularly scheduled match.

"We were playing tight," said Jorgenson after the 2-2 tournament showing. "I think the pressure was starting to get to some of the kids. We were playing not to lose instead of playing to win."

The Nordics' recent bunched, demanding schedule might have also taken its toll, noted Jorgenson, but he was quick to give credit to the Gators and Wildcats. "We were sluggish," he said, "but I don't want to take anything away from Badger/Greenbush-Middle River or Tri-County. They both played well. They deserved to win."

However disappointing it was to see the winning streak end, explained Jorgenson, the losses did not affect the Nordics' post-season aspirations. "We're no poorer for losing," he said. "The question was how the kids would react to the losses. But we went into the Crookston match loose and we did a nice job."

Strong effort fails to net win

■ Swimmers lose 105-82 dual to Detroit Lakes

There are times in sports when your best isn't even good enough to produce a win. That's what happened to the Thief River Falls girls in a dual meet high school swimming encouter with Detroit Lakes.

The Prowler lost the Oct. 19 match-up 105-82, but it wasn't for a lack of effort.

"We got beat, but it wasn't because we lost," offered Thief River Falls coach Ryan Lokken. "I was extremely pleased with our performance. We had some very solid times and our technique was sharp. We're moving in a very positive way heading into regions."

A number of Prowlers turned in personal-best times against the visiting Lakers – including pool-record efforts by Theresa Giauque in the 100-yard freestyle and by Lisa Ulrich, Mandy Johnson, Nicole Kopari, and Giauque in the 200-yard freestyle relay.

Other Thief River Falls winners were Johnson, 200-yard freestyle; Jennifer Olin, diving; and Sarah Harger, 500-yard freestyle.

The Prowlers are 2-4 in dual meet competition. They will be at the Crookston Invitational Friday beginning at 5 p.m.

Mustangs take on Patriots

Red Lake County Central turned in back-to-back strong performances in 3-2 losses to Thief River Falls and Climax/Fisher last week, but the Mustangs didn't reach that level of play Monday, according to head coach Nancy Bray, in a 3-0 high school volleyball loss at Clearbrook-Gonvick.

The Bears won 15-5, 15-4, 15-12.

"It was a pretty disappointing performance after having played so well the last two matches," said Bray. "They (Bears) have one of their better teams, but it was a pretty dead night for us."

The match was originally scheduled to be played Tuesday, but was moved up to Monday to avoid conflicts with football playoff games Tuesday.

Red Lake County Central, 8-15 for the year, will close out regular season at Win-E-Mac Thursday. Tournament play starts Tuesday. Pairings will be announced later this week.

DNR stressing hunter safety

Nearly 450,000 hunters are expected to take to the woods beginning Nov. 6 for the 1993 Minnesota firearms deer hunting season. The Minnesota Department of Natural Resources is urging those hunters to take the necessary precautions to have a safe hunting season.

Deer hunting is a comparatively safe sport. Last year there were three fatalities among an estimated 443,000 participants in the firearms deer hunting season, but that's three fatalities too many, noted Capt. Jerry Engelbrecht, DNR Enforcement supervisor in Brainerd. He advises hunters to read their 1993 Minnesota Hunting and Trapping Regulations thoroughly, taking note of hunting safety regulations and suggestions.

DNR has undertaken a hunting safety campaign in conjunction with the firearms deer season, urging hunters to 'have another safe season."

The campaign emphasizes three safety points:

■ Transport firearms safely – unloaded and cased when in vehicles.

■ Wear blaze orange clothing while in the field during the firearms deer hunting season.

■ Observe safe tree stand practices, such as wearing safety harnesses in stands, and using a haul line to move unloaded firearms into and out of tree stands.

Between seasons, hunters should consider enrolling in advanced hunter education and firearms safety training courses.

Information about the courses is available from local conservation officers, or by calling the DNR Information Central toll free at 1-800-766-6000.

Minnesota state park permits would make good gifts

The 1994 state park vehicle permit features a well-loved native Minnesotan: the brook trout, a resident of the Whitewater River in Whitewater State Park. Blufflands that dot the park's landscape are also depicted on the permit, which spotlights the 75th anniversary of the establishment of Whitewater as a state park.

The colorful "brookies," sporting deep green, yellow, red, brilliant orange and silver, swim in the pristine portions of the river. The famous bluffs, a landmark of Whitewater State Park and southeastern Minnesota, stand tall in the background of the state park permit artwork, surrounded by a forest of fall colors.

Brook trout are an indicator of stream quality, according to the Department of Natural Resources. Brookies benefit from the expanded efforts to improve the land use practices in the Whitewater watershed.

The state park permit was designed by Minnesota artist Dave Brandon, who specializes in wildlife art and was the winner of the 1993 Minnesota Trout/Salmon Stamp competition.

The vehicle permits went on sale Oct. 1, at all Minnesota state parks. The $18 annual permit allows an unlimited number of visits to all 66 state parks through Dec. 31, 1994. For those with more than one car, second permits are available for $12 each. Special permits for Minnesota handicapped residents and Minnesota senior citizens will also be available Oct. 1 for $12 each.

Minnesota state parks are open 365 days a year.

Pheasant Habitat Stamp

A painting by Jim Hautman of Plymouth was selected as the design for the 1994 Minnesota Pheasant Habitat Stamp.

Hautman's painting of a ring-necked pheasant in a field was selected from among 46 qualifying entries. There were 18 semifinalists and seven finalists in this year's contest. The other finalists were Darrell Bush of St. Louis Park, second; Robert Hautman of Plymouth, third; Eric Bjorlin of Brooklyn Center, fourth; Kevin Nelson of Bloomington, fifth; Theresa Marschel of Ellendale, sixth; and Frederick Short of Ramsey, seventh. Bush and Robert Hautman were also second and third in last year's contest.

The $5 Pheasant Habitat Stamp is required for Minnesota pheasant hunters, ages 18 through 64, who must also purchase a small game hunting license. Stamp sales generate between $500,000 and $600,000 per year for the development, restoration, maintenance and preservation of pheasant habitat.

Pheasant Habitat Stamp Contest, which is open only to Minnesota artists, offers no prizes. The winning artist retains reproduction rights to the design, however, and usually issues limited edition prints.

Top entries in this year's Pheasant Habitat Stamp, Migratory Waterfowl Stamp, and Trout and Salmon Stamp competitions will be on display at the Bell Museum of Natural History at the University of Minnesota Oct. 23, 1993, through Jan. 2, 1994.

IMPRESSIONS

Beth Johnson

Last Thursday, our family lost a friend who could be considered to be the best friend of each one of us. We had known this friend for about nine years. We first met her in a clinic in Menominee, MI. She was not a pretty sight when we first saw her. But, we found out that she was truly beautiful and caring and fun-loving and sometimes a big pest!!

Our dog, Coco, first came to be part of our family nine years ago. When we first saw her, she was a dropped-off and forgotten stray puppy about three months old. She was wearing an orange collar. She was so filthy that none of us could stand to touch her, yet we promised the veterinary clinic that we would return to pick her up after our boys were done with school for the day—if the clinic would in the meantime bathe her and make her sweet looking!! She screamed as we left her with the clinic to be prettied up. She never left our side, if she had anything to say about it, for the next nine years.

Coco grew to be quite a hefty young lady. As she went for her walks this summer, several times my husband was asked by little children if she was a bear!! Her long brown coat gave her the appearance of a bear cub!

All of us have our own special memories of this special dog. She quickly endeared herself to us, in spite of her puppyhood, which lasted a good two years. During those years, she chewed up most everything in sight—including a linoleum floor and the stuffing for my kitchen chairs!! And we still kept her.

My husband's special memory of this dog has to be the early morning when she was instrumental in breaking his leg!!! We were living in Michigan, in the country. It was hunting season in the upper peninsula. Hunters were everywhere looking for deer. It was not safe for us humans to be outside, much less a dog who loved to roam the nearby woods. So, during the few weeks of hunting season my husband would put the dog on a leash and walk her. This particular morning, a day or two before Thanksgiving, these two early morning walkers went outside, only to have my husband trip on the only piece of ice in our driveway. He broke his leg. He had to have surgery on it to put it all back together. And still we kept the dog.

I don't know what my boys' memories of Coco are, but I imagine that they are somewhat similar to mine, for this dog endeared herself to all of us. She was quite smart. She was a "verbal dog". By verbal, I mean that she seemed to truly understand the words we said to her that should have some meaning to her. She seemed to talk back to us with a single woof when we would speak the word that she seemed to be wanting—such as water, or walk, or outside, or inside.

In her older age, she had begun to organize us. Now, most of us in our family are pretty organized. So, to have a dog organize us even further was quite something. If she felt it was time for supper, she would bark until we started supper, and then would patiently wait for supper to be ready. If we were staying up too late, she would whine until we told her to go to bed. But, if we didn't soon go to bed ourselves, out she would come from her corner to try to nudge us to bed. If we put on our shoes, we must, of course, be taking her for a walk.

She didn't always like me to be writing this column. It seemed that I was spending time with the computer, and not her. She would nudge my elbow just enough so that I really couldn't continue typing. The attention must be given to her, of course, over any inanimate computer.

This dog of ours seemed to always remember the relatives who would come from time to time for a visit. When my mother broke her foot during her last visit to our home, who but Coco faithfully stayed by her side as she nursed that broken foot. When my brother would visit, all he had to do was stand up and put on a jacket and she would think it was time for a walk.

This last week, Coco got sick and died. We are still in shock over how quickly she died. We truly lost our best friend. But, oh, what memories we all have of an animal that loved each of us unconditionally. What a wonderful place this world would be if we humans would treat one another as specially as this one dog treated us.

She also told about the university's Master Gardener program and the landscape arboretum and answered a number of questions from those in attendance at the workshop.

Karen Granitz, president of the host Four Seasons garden club of Roseau, welcomed the society members and Betty Mohrbacher, district president, presided at the business meeting.

John Lamberson, district representative on the state board, announced that Lois Swanson of Goodridge had received the state special award this year. Green Thumb garden club received a red ribbon on its program book at the state level.

The day's activities opened with a country store of garden products donated by members and closed with a silver tea served by the host club.

Contestants constructed and modeled their fashion creations, using at least 60 per cent wool in the garment. Each contestant also chose appropriate accessories to compliment her outfit.

Six girls in three age categories competed for first place prizes which consisted of, what else, yardages of wool fabric. Sponsors of the event were the Minnesota Lamb and Wool Producers, American Sheep Industry, Pendelton Woolen Mills and Annette's Fabrics.

Those who participated in the contest were Ashley Peters of Viking, Brigetta Rettmann of Gonvick and Lindsy Weston of Roseau in the Pre-Teen Division; Lindsey Rettmann of Gonvick in the Junior category; and Julie Berard of Thief River Falls and Robyn Annette Nelson of Ft. Judges for the event were Jean Hogen of Thief River Falls and Lois Tieman of Goodridge. Wendy Mattson of Thief River Falls is District I Director.

District I finalists will go on to compete in the state contest which will be held at the Har Mar Mall in Roseville on November 27. Winners of the state competition will go on to the national competition in Reno, NV.

The Strandquist Senior Citizens had their Fall sale early this year and report a very successful day. I had hoped to be there to begin our Christmas shopping, but that was the day Roy had a heart pacemaker put in in Fargo. They met again on Thursday the 14th with 13 members and 4 guests, Lillian Germundson, Marian Pederson, Alyce Anderson and Melvin Kittleson. Ida Bruce was the hostess. Their next meeting will be on Thursday the 21st. On Friday, Oct. 22nd a group will be taking the bus to Thief River Falls for the day, so let them know if you wish to go along.

Because it was a holiday last week some of this news didn't get in until today, but being an avid hunter myself and talking with those who were out this year I learned that some had been successful during their moose hunt last week. Those who came to hunt together with Stanley Adlis were Paul Adlis, Les Kouba, and Chuck Thompson and Dan Lindgren came along to take pictures. They were all from Minneapolis. On Saturday, they were guests at lunch at Elphie Adlis's as were Marie Forslund of Warren, Paul and Mary Barrengardner of Chippewa Falls, WI, Eddie Forslund of Janesville and John Forslund of Cedar Rapids, IA. They left on Sunday with the moose to Minneapolis. Mike and Betty Johnson of Warroad and Richard Johnson of Minneapolis visited Elphie and Stanley and had dinner with them on Sunday.

Isaac and Betsy Thompson had dinner in Thief River Falls on Saturday with Nelson LaDoux to celebrate Betsy's #2 birthday. Happy birthday, Betsy. On Sunday, Richard, Carol and Kari Thompson from Red Lake Falls and Robert, Cathy, Andrew and Lisa Thompson had dinner to help her celebrate. Nicole Thompson couldn't attend as she was attending school in Bemidji. Larry Fossell visited there in the evening.

LaVol Thune visited last weekend with Scott Thune and Mike Bruggerman family in Moorhead.

Bud and Marie Steffen, Larina Berggren and Marian Pederson visited Frank and Judy Kleinvachter on Wednesday evening. Thursday afternoon, Frank and Judy brought birthday cake and wishes to Bud Steffen in Argyle.

Pinkie Warner visited Mary and Donna Renstrom on Thursday.

Lunch counter closing another tradition lost

Woolworth's lunch counter closed on Saturday as a preliminary to departure of the business from Thief River Falls

by David Hill
Associate Editor

The passing of a piece of "Americana" was noted in news stories throughout the region recently. Is there anyone who doesn't know of the closing of Woolworth's? Sadly, and hardly noted was the closing Saturday of that part of Woolworth's that made it unique — the lunch counter.

A friend of mine has always demanded that whenever he visits a different community he stops to count the stools at the Woolworth's lunch counter. There's no accounting for such strange behavior. At least, I don't think I've ever received a good answer for his behavior.

For years I've passed the store and observed the red and white advertisements in the window. Lately, the special has been a $1.99 breakfast, which includes two eggs (any style), ham, bacon or sausage, hash browns and toast. When it was announced that the lunch counter was going to close, I decided to stop and try the lunch special.

Seventeen years ago when Brunelle Rondorf began waitressing at the Woolworth's lunch counter there were three waitresses and one cook. Today, there is one full-time waitress and two part-timers. They're still called waitresses but they also do the cooking and cleaning.

Brunelle is considered one of the characters at the store who keeps up store morale. After 17 years she is able to greet many of her customers by first name or calls them 'Honey'. All of this talk about closing the store has made store employees something of local celebrities. Last week, Brunelle gave an interview to a television station and she hasn't lived down the teasing yet. She said people have been asking her for her autograph.

Helen Dyrdal has been a full-time clerk in the basement of Woolworth's for 32 years. She has seen a lot of changes — some harder to bear than others. It will be tough to see it all end. Sometimes she brings her lunch but there are many days, like the day I visited the lunch counter that she decided to eat lunch at the counter.

Dyrdal recounted that the store has been in Thief River Falls for 65 years. Before it was located at Third and Main it was located inside the building now identified as Popplers Furniture and Carpeting. When the store moved to its current location in 1965 it opened the lunch counter. Some of the colors have changed and the booths and chair tops have been re-upholstered. Not so many years ago, employees wore blue vests. Now, the dominant color in the store is red.

Dyrdal laments that there will be a lot of things she will miss about the store. She used to be able to get just about everything she needed right downtown. Then the Hartz grocery store closed and now Woolworth's. It's especially hard on older people, she said.

Dyrdal said she could have retired a couple of years ago. When the store closes in January, she'll accept the retirement package being offered. She's not quite sure she's ready for retirement though. She said she might find a part-time job somewhere or do some voluntary work at the hospital. "I just can't up and quit," she said.

Bobbi Jo Schneider works behind the lunch counter like Brunelle. She doesn't have the memories like Brunelle or Helen because she's only been working at Woolworth's for three months. That doesn't mean the closing will be any easier for her. She has a one-and one-half year-old son. She went to work at Woolworth's because she was looking for stability. "Woolworth's will never close," she thought.

Along with the kind of advertising no manager wants to see, have come a flood of well-wishers and shoppers. Dyrdal said some well-wishers have been trying to organize an effort to keep the store open.

Store Manager Gary Dahle said he has noted that traffic volume at the store has doubled since the closing was announced. In fact, the main office has ordered that store managers hire enough people to double the number of sales people on the store floor.

Dahle said the reason the lunch counter was closed on Saturday was because the company needs time to find buyers for the equipment before the final closing on January 31. It's apparently difficult to sell the equipment.

Interest in obtaining at least some of the lunch counter space has been expressed by the local historical village. That should help preserve some of the memories.

One of the changes Dyrdal has observed in her 32 years has been in managers. She said she's gone through a lot of managers. Dahle, who she has praised as a good manager and hard worker, will have been the latest.

Although he seems to be taking the loss well, he too will experience a dramatic change in his life. It just hasn't settled in yet. He has a lot to accomplish before the doors close for the last time.

The sizzle and pop of frying food and the clank and clatter of dishware will be heard no more from the store called Woolworth's. To some people, it means we've just lost a bit of Americana. To many in Thief River Falls it means we've just lost a little bit of what makes a small town, a small town.

By the way, there are 21 red-topped spinning lunch-counter stools at Woolworth's.

Brunelle Rondorf serves up a little coffee and humor at the Woolworth's lunch counter in Thief River Falls. The store closed the lunch counter last Saturday.

Woolworth's in Thief River Falls closed the lunch counter last Saturday. For many people who live downtown or rely on the lunch counter for good meals, it will be sorely missed.

Whole Wheat BIBLE STUDY

Did Jesus' faith have good works?

After you read through this Bible study, go back and look up the Scriptures and highlight them in your Bible.

Jesus said, "My Father is working until now, and I Myself am working; My food is to do the Will of Him who sent Me, and to accomplish His work" (John 5:17; 4:34). These verses say Jesus did the Will of the Father on earth as it is being done in heaven (Matt. 6:10). He was doing the Father's works, which are all righteous (Rom. 10:3). Jesus Christ and His disciples subjected themselves to the righteousness of God. Jesus even said some who followed Him would do greater works than He did (John 14:12).

A lot of people are ready to receive the message of the Way of righteousness today (John 4:35). They are hungry for it. John 4:36 says anyone who is living this Way is already receiving blessings and bearing fruit for eternal life (Matt. 5:19; 3:10; 1 John 3:7, 10, 17-20).

Jesus Christ's faith had works of righteousness (John 10:32; 37-38). He helped people in need of clothing or daily food (James 2:15-17). His faith was not dead but alive because of His good works (James 2:26). Jesus knew that a man is not justified by faith alone, nor by works based on the law of Moses, but by works of righteousness done for God's glory (James 2:24; Rom. 3:20; Matt. 5:16). Jesus' works were not based on self-righteousness, which is righteousness of the flesh, but on the righteousness of faith (Rom. 3:27).

So also, our works are to be based on the righteousness of faith in our Lord Jesus Christ. By doing these works of righteousness, our faith is perfected (James 2:22). Yes, faith without works—daily good works—is dead (James 2:26)!

We glorify God by doing good deeds—deeds of charity, deeds of love, lending and giving to those in need and expecting nothing in return, entertaining strangers (which is opening our homes to those in need), visiting the sick, helping the poor, feeding the hungry and never returning evil for evil (Matt. 25:33-40). We must overcome our natures by doing all these good deeds or works for God on a daily basis (Rom. 12:21; Rev. 2:26; 1 Peter 3:13).

Begin today to suffocate your old nature and its evil ways. This will allow God to put it to death and give you His nature (Rom. 16:20; Gal. 4:19). As you do, you will begin to realize why a faith without good works is dead, yes, truly dead!

The Times' Editorial Opinion

The Times
Thief River Falls, Minnesota

David Hill, associate editor

Editorial opinion published on this page, whether locally written or re-printed from other sources is intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. Peterson Has Extended View For Term Limits

U.S. Congressman Collin Peterson has filed a discharge petition for a Constitutional amendment that would impose term limits not only on members of Congress but on "Congressional staffers, federal bureaucrats and lobbyists—or any combination of these jobs—for a cumulative total of 12 years. After spending four years out of Washington, a person could return."

Peterson's rationale is as follows: "Requiring term limits for Members of Congress only would just increase the power of these folks and not change the way business is done in Washington. To get serious about changing the face of the federal government, you must deal with all of the entrenched special interests. The only way to do that is to apply term limits to everyone in and around government."

During his decade in the Minnesota Senate, the Congressman said, he was not a true believer in term limits. After leaving the Senate in 1986 and returning to the private sector, he gained better insight into what people want from their government.

The thought is interesting but unrealistic. To expect Members of Congress to inflict term limits on themselves is wishful thinking in the first place. To add Civil Service workers and lobbyists in the private employment sector to that type of restriction makes the idea just that much more unlikely, if indeed possible.

The Congressman might be accurate in his assessment that merely restricting time of service of elected Members of Congress wouldn't effect the desired changes in how government is run. We are sure the bureaucracy would continue to function without Congress if it continued to receive the funding. As a practical matter, the actual operation of government is a bureaucratic function, but Congress does have the ability to effect change if it is willing to do so. It must provide the direction that the bureaucrats must take but has been woefully weak in showing any solid leadership.

Additional Views On The Health Care Crisis

Philip C. Clarke of America's Future questions whether the American public really wants to have the government involved entirely in the nation's health care system. "...is health insurance guaranteed for all by the government really compatible with our private enterprise system and Free society?" Clarke asks.

America has always been a compassionate society, Clarke notes, and no one wants to think of the elderly, the young or anyone going without medical care. "But the current problems in the health care sector spring not from a failure of the free enterprise system, but rather from 50 years of government intervention in the medical marketplace," he said.

He notes that prior to the 1930's health insurance did not exist. People who needed treatment paid for it themselves and knew more about taking care of themselves with home remedies for minor ailments and injuries.

"But then along came government wage and price controls, beginning with the Great Depression and World War II," he writes. "Because many businesses could not offer higher wages to attract workers, they turned to 'fringe benefits,' health insurance included. Not long afterward, the Internal Revenue Service ruled that health benefits, for the most part, deserved tax breaks. As more and more people were covered by health insurance, spending on health care started to rise....and rise and rise. At first it was mostly just for hospital care. Visiting doctors on an outpatient basis meant paying out-of-pocket, so their costs rose more slowly.

"Until, that is, 1966 when the government created Medicare. Soon, this program was expanded to cover doctors' visits as well as hospital care. And the private insurance industry followed suit. Spending on health care exploded, largely because somebody else, either the government or private insurance companies, were paying the bill.

"Faced with a cost explosion, the government stepped in again in 1988 to clamp down on spending for the Medicare and Medicaid programs. Essentially setting price controls, this clampdown encouraged hospitals and doctors to shift their cost to private insurance patients. Whereupon the insurance companies complained and employers complained, and so now we're in a real crisis."

We would agree with Clarke's assessment to this point. But we don't totally agree when he writes: "Significantly—and ironically—before we had all this government involvement in health care, there wasn't a crisis. In other words, when people were responsible for themselves and didn't look to the government for solving nearly every problem, there wasn't much of a problem."

There may not have been a nation-wide crisis, but there certainly was a multitude of personal crises for families with serious health problems. The situation was devastating for many honest, hard-working, frugal people who had their life's savings wiped out by illness or who were unable or unwilling to seek treatment because of the cost.

Further, the remedies of years gone by would be highly ineffective in comparison to the advances and discoveries which are available to medical practice today. Cures and prevention of diseases, treatment of injuries and alleviation of suffering are far superior to the chicken soup—whatever its therapeutic affects—of the 1930s.

It is unfair to compare the self-reliance of people a half century ago when much of today's medical advancements did not exist to the situation which people face in the modern age. Undoubtedly the plans being advanced need a good deal of honing and refinement, but there is no question in our mind that positive action is necessary. And it may well require making some mistakes in the process. The only way to be sure of avoiding mistakes is to do nothing.

As contestants, we greatly appreciate the friendliness and hospitality shown by the city of Thief River Falls and the rodeo committee. We would also like to commend the rodeo committee for moving the rodeo indoors for 1993. We hope they will continue to have the rodeo in the same facility.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Hannah Kisch who passed away October 26, 1992.

God saw her getting weary,
He did what he thought best;
He came and stood beside her,
And whispered "come and rest";
She bid no one a last farewell,
Nor even said goodbye;
She was gone before we knew it,
And only God knows why;
Sadly missed by her children and their families. 1t86p

A SPECIAL THANK YOU

To my family for the wonderful 85th birthday party. Also to Pastor Raymond and friends, who helped celebrate at Zion Lutheran church, Oct. 17, 1993.

It meant so much.

Nearly 700 attend Arctco race seminar

Nearly 700 people attended the Arctco Performance and Racing seminar held at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center in Thief River Falls Friday.

Nearly 700 people attended the Arctic Cat Racing and Performance Seminar in Thief River Falls Friday.

Arctco Public Relations representative Paul James noted that the success was probably due to the change in the format of the seminar. In the past, they used to hold seminars where people would sit and take notes during the lecture. The format adopted last year for the first time was adopted this year too. There were no lectures. Instead Arctco set up booths in the Sports Arena for race organizations, snowmobile performance part manufacturers, top racers and technicians.

Joey Hallstrom, Arctco racing manager, said what participants asked of the manufacturers, technicians and racers is what they got out of it.

Arctco Inc. held a similar seminar at the National Guard Armory in Thief River Falls last year. About 375 people attended the event. This year the number of people attending the seminar doubled. Prior to the day of the event, Arctco was anticipating 400 to 500 people. Having nearly 700 people attend the event was beyond expectations.

Participants weren't just from the area, although there was a strong local representation. There were people from Alaska and even from Scandinavian countries. James noted that many were taking the opportunity to pick up new ZR snowmobiles at the factory, take tours of the factory and attend the seminar.

Participants had opportunities to see changes in technology have changed snowmobiling and discuss racing techniques with top racers.

Kirk Hibbert, who won the I-500 last year for Arctco and has 25 years of snowmobile racing experience, was constantly answering questions of other racers and snowmobile enthusiasts. Hibbert, who is an Idaho potato farmer in the summer, is one of Arctco's winningest racers. Recently, Hibbert was named Racer of the Year in Snow Week magazine, and All-Star Man of the Year by Snow West magazine.

Another hot topic among snowmobile enthusiasts at the event was the introduction of Arctco's latest high performance shock absorbers.

The 1994 ZR 440 comes equipped with a revolutionary new easy-to-adjust front arm control, which calibrates the front arm travel of the ZR 440's FastTrack rear suspension. It helps the driver adjust suspension to attack different terrain and racing conditions with a turn of a handle-bar-mounted control knob.

The product was developed by Arctco engineers with input from Team Arctic racers and technicians and built by Fox Racing Shox.

Judging by the crowd of people around the Fox Racing Shox booth, there's a lot of interest in the product.

"Basically, the ZR 440's easy-to-adjust front arm control allows the front arm shock to work as a limiter strap by changing the front arm travel length, thus pulling the rear suspension up into the tunnel for added ski pressure or dropping out the suspension for improved traction," said Hallstrom. "This will enable the ZR 440 racer to alter the machine's handling capabilities when racing conditions change."

James said Arctco is really excited about the product. They won a lot of races last year and expect to win a lot of races this year too.

Participants at the event were also able to visit with representatives of four different race organizations, visit with racers, study high-performance changes to racing equipment, and see the latest clothing and equipment.

All in all, event organizers appeared very pleased with the outcome of the event Friday.

Kirk Hibbert, sno-cross and cross country specialist for Arctco, visits with one of the near 700 participants of Arctco Performance and Racing seminar held Friday at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center in Thief River Falls. Hibbert was the winner of the I-500 last year.

Virgil Erickson recognized with service award

Following his retirement after 32 years of service at Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge east of Holt, Virgil Erickson has been honored with the Meritorious Service Award, the second highest honor award available to a civil servant of the U.S. government.

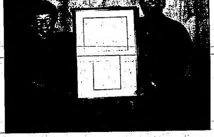
The award consisted of a Department of Interior medallion and certificate signed by Interior Secretary Babbitt and was presented at Erickson's retirement party by Don Hultman, assistant wildlife associate manager.

Dr. Susan Haseltine, assistant regional director for refuges and wildlife, said that "Virgil is legendary in the ranks and one of those who has been such an innovative and constructive employee in making the water and facility management at Agassiz NWR better throughout his career. His ideas and initiative have influenced both our people and wildlife."

Virgil has received numerous performance awards during his career, recognizing his knowledge, skills and abilities that contributed significantly to the development and management of the refuge. His most recent recognition, for redesigning and building the observation deck along Marshall County Road 7, overlooking Parker Pool, was presented at his retirement party.

Virgil has been involved with Agassiz refuge since 1949 when, as a youngster, he began trapping furbearers on the refuge. His official career with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service began in April of 1961 as a seasonal refuge maintenance man.

In 1964 he was converted to permanent career employment status with Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge, a position he occupied until 1975 when he was promoted to engineering equipment operator. In 1979 he was promoted to maintenance mechanic, the position he occupied throughout the remainder of his career.



Virgil and Cathy Erickson show the Meritorious Service Award Virgil received for his work at Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge during his 32 years of service. He also received a commendation for redesigning and building the observation deck along Marshall County Road 7, overlooking Parker Pool. It was presented at his retirement party. The Meritorious Service Award is the second highest honor available to a civil servant in the U.S. government.

Candidates for the board of School District 564 were interviewed by ninth grade students and videotaped in the Lincoln high school media center last Friday. Students doing the interviewing were elected by their classmates. All students in Cal Lindberg's ninth grade social studies classes viewed the 50-minute tape and voted Tuesday in a straw vote. Four other students also interviewed present school board member Maryel Anderson who is not seeking reelection to ask about board duties and experiences. Conducting that interview were Stefan Ronchetti, Cameron Carlson, Jason Clark and Heidi Johnson (moderator). Pictured above (left to right) are students Kyla Skiple (moderator), Rick Donarski, Danielle Goulet and Kelly Martinson and school board candidates Curt Huot, Jeanne Larson, Cheryl Lee and Donna Myhrer.

Response to TRF community survey considered excellent

TRF Community Survey Results
Sample of Top Responses

And, the Survey says . . .

Goods and Services:

- 58.4% of respondents said they purchase 76 to 100% of their goods and services in the community.
- 87.7% found shopping hours convenient.
- 46.9% thought prices for goods and services were about average.
- 43.9% said there is a good selection in stores.
- The most wanted retail outlet — Wal-Mart, Target or Menard's.
- Most want a good family-style restaurant, such as a Bonanza or Perkins.
- Most want a swimming pool for recreation.

Economic Development:

- The ideal population for Thief River Falls should be between 11,000 to 14,000.
- Most believe employment opportunities in Thief River Falls are limited.
- Most believe the county and city should support economic development, job creation and job retention.
- Most would support higher real estate taxes and/or vote in favor of bonding for a multi-purpose recreation and events center and handicapped accessibility for the city auditorium and courthouse.
- The majority of respondents seem to oppose a local sales tax.

Why Thief River Falls?

- People like Thief River Falls because it is small and safe.
- Respondents least like limited choice in stores and shopping hours.
- The most important issue facing the community in the next 10 years will be jobs and economic development.

Results of a community survey taken last June have finally been compiled. The nearly 800 responses to the survey will be used as a planning tool by local officials.

Community Development Director Don Stewart explained that the survey was taken because certain information was needed to complete a grant application for downtown rental and retail revitalization funds, and to aid in the development of an update to the city's comprehensive plan and park plan.

Stewart was most surprised by the number of people responding to the survey. Although there were inducements to complete the survey — four $50 grocery gift certificates — nearly 800 of the 3,200 surveys mailed were returned. That equates to a return of about 24 per cent, which is considered excellent. A return of just over 10 per cent is generally considered good to average. The surveys were distributed to utility customers.

> "At the age of 85 you don't plan 10 years ahead, you just take life as it comes!"
> - Unknown respondent

Not only did people take the time to respond, but many took the time to write comments in the 16 spaces provided on the survey for individual comment. Stewart said he was overwhelmed by the response and decided that if people could put in that much time to respond, then the city should take the time to compile the responses.

"It's gratifying to see continued support for economic development and the things we're trying to accomplish," said Stewart.

Statistical Analysis:

Statistical analysis of the survey was compiled by staff of the Northwest Regional Development Commission. The tabulated results pertained to general information, which none-the-less, affirmed Stewart's belief that the response to the survey was excellent. An almost perfect male to female distribution occurred, and the age distribution of respondents was fairly even. The total number of persons in the household of respondents was a fairly accurate reflection of current Census data.

Two of the more interesting observations made from the survey was that, the occupation of the highest number of respondents came from professionals and homemakers; and, the largest number of respondents fell into two income categories — individuals who make less than $13,250, and individuals who make more than $40,000.

The survey also showed that 68.5 per cent of the respondents have lived in the city for at least 16 years; and, the largest number of respondents came from the south-east section of the community. The largest percentage of respondents (79.5 per cent) also came from single family houses.

Goods and Services:

As those who completed the survey might remember that the second section asked more subjective questions, such as, what percentage of goods and services the respondent purchases in Thief River Falls, whether they find shopping hours convenient, and how they evaluate the prices of goods and services in the community. Stewart noted that organizations, such as the Chamber of Commerce, and shopkeepers might find the information from the survey interesting, if not valuable.

Approximately, 28.8 per cent of the respondents purchase 51 to 75 per cent of their goods and services in the community. A total of 58.4 per cent of the respondents purchase 76 to 100 per cent of the

SPEAKING OF

Sherry LaCoursiere

. . . My Black Cat

Yes, I have a cat, but lest you think I am only a cat lover, I also have a dog. The hamster that lives at my house is not mine, even though I am the one who feeds and waters it and usually cleans its cage.

All of my animals are getting on in years. It works out just fine, because I am too. We all tend to be a little stiff when we first get up after sitting around for a while, and we all get a little crotchety when we don't get our meals on time. When there is too much noise and activity around us, we often curl up and take a nap to escape from it. We are a lot alike.

My cat is the most independent and reserved of us all. She really does not care what goes on around her, as long as it doesn't directly involve her unless she wants it to. She pays very little attention to anyone unless she wants something.

Yes, my cat is black. She has a little patch of white on her chest, so we call her Bibs. Actually, I named her Beelzebub because she was quite a little devil when she was a kitten, but that name was too long and no one knew how to spell it anyway.

Sometimes the cat wants to be petted. Then you just cannot get rid of her. She twines herself around legs and rubs her black cat hair on everyone's pants. She will find your hand no matter where it is and rub her head on it over and over. When she does that, there isn't much a person can do except pet her or scratch the top of her head. I am sure she thinks that is what people's fingers were made for.

When she was younger she used to hate people to read the paper when she wanted their attention. She would climb on to the table or the couch and park herself right on top of the newspaper and stare into the person's face.

Of course, when she was younger she would also jump on the cupboards and lick the butter out of the dish, which is why, to this day, I have a cover on my butter dish. Everyone in the house could tell when the cat had been licking the butter — it was all smooth on top — and no one, including me, would eat it, even after all of the smooth part was scraped off. I threw away more butter in those days.

I remember once when she helped herself to the partridge dinner off of a serving plate in the middle of the dining room table when my back was turned. She grabbed two large partridges and ran away with them. Dinner was rationed out from the tiny portions of partridge that were left on the plate that night.

But now she seldom jumps on cupboards or the table. I doubt that it is that she has finally gotten some sense into her head. I rather think it is because she is just too heavy to jump much any more.

Our cat had litters of kittens, too many to count. Then she went to visit the vet and had a little surgery so she could not have kittens any more. Now, even though she is not expecting kittens, she looks like she is. I always fed her correctly — she only had table scraps when she helped herself — but she has still gained a lot of weight.

Actually, she looks like a large black puff ball with legs and a tail sticking out of it, and the worse part is that she is a very short-haired cat. The puff ball is not her fur — it is her.

My cat understands that I do not like her on my bed. She knows that she can take a nap anywhere in the house except on my bed.

Now when she wants food or water early in the morning (before I am up), she knows just how to get it. She sits quietly beside my bed and stares at me. I can't tell you how many times I have awakened to find myself being stared at by green cat eyes.

It drives me completely crazy to have a cat staring at me. It is startling enough to my old heart to be awakened so suddenly, but to wake up to find a cat face just inches from mine with staring green eyes that never blink is just the limit. I can't just turn over and ignore her. I can just see those green cat eyes in my head. I have to get up and feed her, just to get her and her green cat eyes out of my room — and she knows this.

Since this column is too long already and there is no end to this story in sight, I just might write more about my cat next week, unless something more interesting comes along. But really, what is more interesting than a cat, says she.

TIMES FOR TODDLERS

ACTIVITIES

Indoor Sand

Now that the outdoor sand play has come to an end, it may be fun to create a special indoor sand area for your young child. You will need a large container with a lid. This could be a large plastic storage container or other similar container. Put indoor sand in this container. Real sand can be very hard on the floors and carpets, so dried beans or rice may be used instead. You will need enough so that it covers the bottom of the container completely and to the level of a couple of inches. Next you will need toys, such as small cars and trucks or play dishes. You will need to do very little else, because your favorite young child will do the rest with a very enjoyable time of indoor "sand" play.

SCAVENGER HUNT

For next week's Activities feature, you will need a small board, flannel and felt in various sizes and colors.

BOOK OF THE WEEK

The Thief River Falls public library invites you to browse through its new selection of children's books including the following bedtime stories:

Modesitt, Jeanne. Mama, If You Had a Wish. During a series of tender exchanges between a mama rabbit and her young bunny, gentle words and luminous pictures warmly express the unconditional love that all children deserve.

Asch, Frank. Moondance. Perhaps with some unusual help from his friend, Little Bird, Bear's wish to dance with the moon will come true.

VIDEO VARIETY

Are You My Mother? A baby bird is born while his mother is away so he sets out to look for her, asking everyone he meets along the way "are you my mother?"

Don't forget to attend Storytime every Tuesday at 9:30 a.m. at the Thief River Falls public library.

Nursery Rhymes

Nursery rhymes have often been thought of as the first "learning games" for young children for hundreds of years. The reason is this: in addition to their poetic value, nursery rhymes are an ideal way to introduce very young children to new ideas and concepts.

Nursery rhymes are perfectly suited to the very young child: They are short, simple and usually deal with the concrete world rather than the abstract. There can be silly or "nonsense" rhymes which seem to appeal to the older preschoolers' sense of imagination.

As you read nursery rhymes to your children, you are giving them a solid start in learning to read. Reading experts agree unanimously that children's ability to read and their ability to handle the written language depends upon their prior experience with oral language. Nursery rhymes help provide that experience.

Begin reading nursery rhymes to your children as soon as they are old enough to listen. Hold and cuddle your child as you would when reading any book. Your child may not understand what the rhymes are about at first. But he or she will listen and enjoy the experience because you are doing the reading and making it an enjoyable occasion.

You can continue to read nursery rhymes as long as your child enjoys them, probably into the early elementary years. Be sure to catch that stage, around four years old, when they develop a fascination for words. Nonsense words and rhyming can turn into a very delightful game. It is during this stage that their language development takes a dramatic leap forward.

(From I Wish I Had a Computer That Makes Waffles by Dr. Fitzhugh Dodson. Contributed by the Early Childhood Family Education department of School District 564.)

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Talk about Nursery Rhymes as you read them. Make up silly words that rhyme. "There was a bork, who live by a zork."

ACTIVITIES

Indoor Sand

Now that the outdoor sand play has come to an end, it may be fun to create a special indoor sand area for your young child. You will need a large container with a lid. This could be a large plastic storage container or other similar container. Put indoor sand in this container. Real sand can be very hard on the floors and carpets, so dried beans or rice may be used instead. You will need enough so that it covers the bottom of the container completely and to the level of a couple of inches. Next you will need toys, such as small cars and trucks or play dishes. You will need to do very little else, because your favorite young child will do the rest with a very enjoyable time of indoor "sand" play.

SCAVENGER HUNT

For next week's Activities feature, you will need a small board, flannel and felt in various sizes and colors.

BOOK OF THE WEEK

The Thief River Falls public library invites you to browse through its new selection of children's books including the following bedtime stories:

Modesitt, Jeanne. Mama, If You Had a Wish. During a series of tender exchanges between a mama rabbit and her young bunny, gentle words and luminous pictures warmly express the unconditional love that all children deserve.

VIDEO VARIETY

Are You My Mother? A baby bird is born while his mother is away so he sets out to look for her, asking everyone he meets along the way "are you my mother?"

Don't forget to attend Storytime every Tuesday at 9:30 a.m. at the Thief River Falls public library.

Nursery Rhymes

Nursery rhymes have often been thought of as the first "learning games" for young children for hundreds of years. The reason is this: in addition to their poetic value, nursery rhymes are an ideal way to introduce very young children to new ideas and concepts.

Nursery rhymes are perfectly suited to the very young child. They are short, simple and usually deal with the concrete world rather than the abstract. There can be silly or "nonsense" rhymes which seem to appeal to the older preschoolers' sense of imagination.

As you read nursery rhymes to your children, you are giving them a solid start in learning to read. Reading experts agree unanimously that children's ability to read and their ability to handle the written language depends upon their prior experience with oral language. Nursery rhymes help provide that experience.

Begin reading nursery rhymes to your children as soon as they are old enough to listen. Hold and cuddle your child as you would when reading any book. Your child may not understand what the rhymes are about at first. But he or she will listen and enjoy the experience because you are doing the reading and making it an enjoyable occasion.

You can continue to read nursery rhymes as long as your child enjoys them, probably into the early elementary years. Be sure to catch that stage, around four years old, when they develop a fascination for words. Nonsense words and rhyming can turn into a very delightful game. It is during this stage that their language development takes a dramatic leap forward.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Talk about Nursery Rhymes as you read them. Make up silly words that rhyme. "There was a bork, who live by a zork."

INTENTIONAL DUPLICATE EXPOSURE

Area women learned what is under the hood of their automobiles

Recently several local women experienced an unusual evening out. They spent the evening in a local garage learning about what can be found under the hoods of their automobiles.

Crossroads Displaced Homemaker program and Westside Motors sponsored a workshop for women entitled "How to Find Your Way Under the Hood." Roger Shaffer and Joe Nelson of Westside Motors volunteered their time and talent to teach participants basic facts about caring for their automobiles.

Three "lucky" women received free oil changes at the workshop; however, the catch was that they had to do the oil change themselves.

As well as oil changing, the women learned other aspects of automobile maintenance and care including tire wear, proper air pressure levels, how to change a tire, strut and shock wear, winterizing tips, identification of poor exhaust systems and proper fluid levels, all part of a 20-point inspection.

They were allowed to examine the underside of vehicles on a hoist and shown how parts of the vehicle interact.

By the end of the evening session, the participants knew what to look for to properly maintain their own vehicles, as well as what to look for when buying a new vehicle and how to not be fooled by dishonest mechanics.

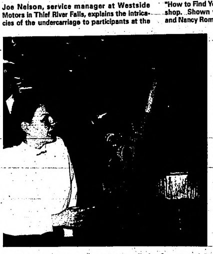
Westside Motors expressed their interest in this type of workshop for their customers, especially one which was geared toward women car owners. Service manager Joe Nelson said that many women are afraid of bringing their vehicles to a shop for repairs for fear of being charged an outrageous price for parts and labor that are not really necessary.

Nelson stressed the importance of building a relationship with one trustworthy garage so that the shop and mechanic can be aware of previous work on the vehicle and decrease the possiblity of duplicting services and repairs. He said, "Any unnecessary repairs performed on a vehicle are the same as stealing," and this type of work is not tolerated at Westside Motors.

Nelson stated that Westside's mechanics are trained to give a visual check and list areas of concern and participate in approximately 200 hours of continuing education credits each year.

As well as the participation by Westside Motors, Pamida, Big A and Wilson Brothers donated door prizes for the workshop.

Joe Nelson, service manager at Westside Motors in Thief River Falls, explains the intricacies of the undercarriage to participants at the "How to Find Your Way Under the Hood" workshop. Shown with Nelson are Sandy Gessler and Nancy Rominski.



Sandy Gessler is shown removing the oil plug from an automobile as she prepares to do an oil change. Nancy Rominski coaches from the sidelines. Both were participants in a workshop held to help women learn to do repairs and maintenance on their own vehicles. The workshop was sponsored by the Crossroads Displaced Homemaker Program and Westside Motors. Pamida, Big A and Wilson Brothers donated door prizes for the workshop.

Sixth, seventh and eighth grade bands and the "Morning Darkness" jazz band will be presented in their annual fall concert Tuesday, November 9, at 7:30 p.m. in the Franklin middle school gymnasium. All groups are under the direction of Mike Lehrer and Bruce Felt, instrumental music directors.

Music to be presented will include overtures, marches, folk and rock music, the directors said.

This will be the first performance in a public setting for the 65-piece sixth grade band. The band program in Thief River Falls begins in sixth grade, so these students have only about six weeks of experience.

"It is truly remarkable what this band has accomplished in such a short time," Lehrer said. "This is true for our other groups as well. All of our students have made significant progress this fall."

"Morning Darkness" will open the program with "Deed I Do" by Hursch and Rose, "Maputo" by Marcus Miller and "Lady Madonna" by Lennon and McCartney.

Sixth grade band will present "London Bridge," "Polly Wolly Doodle," "Skip To My Lou," "Old McDonald Had a Band," "William Tell," "Sakura, Sakura," "Variations On a Familiar Theme," "Chapel Chimes" and "Falbrook March."

Eighth grade band will conclude the program with "Military Escort March," "Abington Ridge Overture" and "Rock-A My Soul."

Public attendance at the concert is encouraged. Admission will be $2 for adults and students in grades 9-12 and $1 for students in kindergarten through eighth grade. There is no admission charged for preschool children.

RANDOM THOUGHTS

Sara Tyler
Lincoln High School

I hate when a song gets stuck in my head and runs in circles around and around my memory. I should have learned by now that I shouldn't listen to the radio in the morning. Especially not in my car on the way to school. The song that is on when I turn my car off always sticks in my head the rest of the day.

This morning the last song I heard was Clay Walker's "What's it to You?" I like that song; in fact, it's one of my favorites. Liking the song that sticks in my mind helps, but it isn't a relief. I am still stuck with a melody forcing all other thoughts out of my head. I am left unable to concentrate on anything other than the song lyrics.

This morning's song was better than usual because I know how the song goes. It is incredibly annoying when I don't know the song so five words run through my head all day. If I concentrate, I can remember most of Clay Walker's song. Usually I am not so lucky. I remember one day only knowing three words of the melody that invaded my thoughts. I would hum until I got to those three words, then start over. Not only did I annoy myself, I drove everyone around me crazy.

It is common for people to want to share their annoying experience. Whenever I have a song running through my head, I tell the people around me. I then tell them what song then proceed to sing some of it. Maybe I'm hoping to give it away, but usually all it does is spread. I still have the disease and the people around me have not caught it.

One day I had "Does He Love You?" sung by Reba and Linda Davis traipsing through my head. I told a friend and we started to sing together. She then told me of some other song that had been invading her thoughts. Later that day she told me that the two songs had melded together and formed one incomprehensible tune that she couldn't get rid of. Thankfully that doesn't happen to me. When I have a song running through my head, I only have one song. It may switch mid-day, but I never have two or more songs take control of my thoughts—although if I do lose track of a song, it has a way of coming back to haunt me later.

I should really learn not to turn my radio on when I'm driving to school. It would probably save me hours of frustration. Either that or listen to classical music. That should be harder to get stuck in my mind.

Dear Readers,

Many persons prefer to relieve their family of the responsibility for their funeral arrangements. To do this, they prearrange their funeral service and set up a Funeral Trust Fund with a local bank or savings & loan, earning interest.

We can explain the laws that control the prefinancing of funeral arrangements and a Funeral Trust Fund.

Respectfully,

Belmont Funeral Home

IMPRESSIONS

Beth Johnson

Today, Tuesday, November 2 is another election day. This is considered an "off-year" election. No really important state or national positions are being decided upon today. Last year we were in the middle of a Presidential election. Remember the media zoo? Remember the guessing about who would win the election based on pre-election polls? Remember the relief most of us felt when the elections were finally over and we could return to normal television and radio programming—normal being programming that was not interrupted by infomercials from all political viewpoints.

A year has passed since that Presidential election. A year that has seen our country and the world try to adapt to our new President and his leadership style. A year that has seen our world struggle in seemingly no-win situations. A year that has seen a handshake between lifetime political rivals. A year that has seen the beginning of the struggle for health care for all of us. A year that has passed quickly, and has also seemed to last a lifetime.

Today, though, is another election day. Many of us will probably say "why vote"? Many of us just won't take the time to vote. There really isn't too much to be decided on the local ballot. But, whether we decide to vote, or whether we decide not to vote, this election in spite of it's ho-humness is essential to our existence as a community.

If we compare the election of town officials and school board members to the grandoise election of last year, our local officials will wane in comparison. But, without our local boards made up of citizens like you and me, our community and our school would be without direction.

When we consider, for instance, the beginnings of the health plan that is being proposed by our President, we realize that the plan and the problems to implement any such plan are enormous. We realize that any benefit we all might receive from this plan is a long way down the road of legislation.

Now, compare that plan which will affect the entire nation eventually, to any of the items on the local school board or county board or city board agendas. Long before any health plan is implemented, we will have a beautiful new elementary school for our children. Long before any health plan is implemented, we will have streets paved and sidewalks restored. Long before any health plan is implemented, we will be protected and cared for by our local boards made up of our friends and neighbors.

For those of you who will be winning the local elections this year you have a mighty job before you. You might not have a nation to run, but you do have neighbors and businesses and friends to satisfy. You will never please all of us. But, we do look for you whom we elect to guide our community to be the best it can be. We know that there are limitations on what you can do for us. We know that the governing rules and regulations must be fulfilled. We know that the dollars allotted won't stretch to meet all of our needs or wants. But, we also know that we have put our trust in you to do your best.

As you do your best, all of us benefit. We forget to say thank you for your time and energy and sleepless nights. We tend to voice our opinions only when we don't agree with you. We should say thank you often, for without our local elected officials the things that make our community the place we call home would not have come into existence. You have and will work hard for us. You affect the daily lives of many—maybe even more directly than the President of the United States! Blessings on you as you fulfill your elected responsibilities.

Dear Readers,
Many persons prefer to relieve their family of the responsibility for their funeral arrangements. To do this, they prearrange their funeral service and set up a Funeral Trust Fund with a local bank or savings & loan, earning interest.
We can explain the laws that control the prefinancing of funeral arrangements and a Funeral Trust Fund.
Respectfully,
Belmont Funeral Home
Larry Belmont
